Cool Spell Helps Utilities

Continuing unseasonably cool weather has reduced water and electricity consumption by almost 50% from last month's records, utilities spokesmen said Tuesday.

Statewide peak electricity usage Monday for the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) was 910,000 kilowatt hours, an NPPD spokesman said. This compares with the record, set July 19, of 1,632,000 kwh.

Lincoln Uses Less

NPPD, which supplies electricity to Lincoln, got a reduced peak from the Capital City to help its total. The estimated peak for Tuesday was 176,000 kwh, according to a Lincoln Electric System spokesman. A record peak of 335,100 kwh was set July 18.

Lincoln water consumption Tuesday also was lower than before. The estimated usage was set at 55-57 million gallons by the office of Lee Blocker, city utilities director. Monday's total was 54.2 million gallons.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf had set a goal of reducing consumption to 60-65 million gallons daily, following a record 97.5 million gallons total July 13.

Lincoln's low early Tuesday morning of 51 degrees narrowly missed the record for that date, a temperature of 50 recorded in 1889.

42 At North Platte

North Platte dipped to a chilly 42, bettering the old record of 51 that had stood since 1895.

Grand Island had a low of 49, a degree below the record set 1902. The high of 73 reported at Grand Island Monday was the lowest Aug. 6 maximum since 1946.

Omaha joined in the cold, with the mercury dipping to 48, erasing a mark of 57 set in 1887 and equalled in 1888, 1889 and 1940.

McCook received 1.34 inches of moisture in the 24 hours ending Tuesday morning.

Fire Hazard Remains

The National Weather Service said the rangeland fire index would continue probably in the extreme category west and very high to extreme elsewhere Wednesday, urging caution.

Nebraska's extended forecast for Thursday through Saturday called for cooling trend and clear to partly cloudy skies. A Weather Service spokesman said precipitation chances were near 10%.

336 Violators, No 'Grouches'

The Lincoln Water System said crews haven't had any problems in getting people to turn off their water if they were in violation of the mayor's odd-even watering program.

Water System Superintendent Dick Hall said that up until Tuesday there had been 336 violations and "we thought we'd run into somebody who is grouchy," but didn't.

"Nothing unusual has happened and I have talked to all" of the two-man crews watching for violations, Hall said. There are ten crews altogether.

"All the people turned off their water when we asked them to," he said.

The police department said it hasn't had any reports of difficulties either.

Under the mayor's water emergency, homes with odd-numbered addresses can only water on odd-numbered days and homes with even-numbered addresses can only water on even-numbered days.

Nature Center Can Take It

Leaves are wilting. Ponds are getting dryer. A fire hazard exists.

But the current drought should have "no lasting effects" on plants and wildlife at the Chet Ager Nature Center, according to park naturalist Bryce Anderson.

All plant growth has been slowed, Anderson said, but the dry weather has not permanently damaged anything yet. Many of the center's native plants and grasses are hardy enougy to withstand periodic droughts, he emphasized.

Plants Go Dormant

The plants' most common reaction to the lack of rain has been to go dormant earlier than usual, Anderson said. Some late summer or fall-flowering plants already have blossomed, he added.

Ponds are more shallow than they have been according to Anderson, but they have not reached a critical water level. yet. Fish living in the ponds may have to be transported to Oak Lake if they do not get enough exygen, he said.

In Pioneers Park, where the center is located, other ponds are drying up, according to Dick Hilligus, city director of Parks. The water buffalo pond at the park zoo is almost dry, he said. He did not say what action would be taken if the pond had no water.

In the park as well as the nature center, fire hazards are worrying officials. Smoking has been restricted in the center, and fires of all types have been banned in the park.

Huge cracks in the ground also have appeared, Hilligus said, which are ruining the park's bicycle trails. He said the trails would be repaired next spring.

Drought May Help

The drought actually may help the nature center in one way, according to Anderson. Bluegrass, which will be adversely affected by dry weather, had overwhelmed the center's prairie, he said. If it is killed, he said, the native grasses will have a better chance for survival next year.

"Everything will be fine next year," he added, "if we get rain."

Drought Boosts Grocery Bill

By The Associated Press

Lawrence Brown is a farmer near Carmi, Ill. Sharon Stack is a housewife in New York City.

The drought that has cut Brown's corn crop in half is going to boost Mrs. Stack's bill for milk, poultry and hamburger in the coming months. How much, nobody knows.

Many parts of the Midwest, from the Dakotas east through Illinois and Indiana, have had little more than an inch of rain since early June. Estimates of the amount of damage to corn and soybean crops — key ingredients in the mixture fed to dairy cows, chickens and beef cattle — vary from 5 to 95%, depending on who you talk to, where you are and whether the land is irrigated.

Moderate rainfall was reported in Kansas on Monday and Tuesday — the first measurable amount since July 3 — and rain was expected to spread over Missouri. Lester Branson of the Kansas Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service said the wet weather could help the soybean and grain sorghum crops, but added that most of the corn grown on unirrigated land "is past the recovery stage."

Some Rain Helps

The Department of Agriculture issued a weekly review of weather conditions and said Tuesday that light rains and lower temperatures helped a few areas. It added, however, that "soil moisture supplies remain mostly short and development is behind normal throughout most of the corn belt."

The next government crop estimates aren't due until Aug. 12. The last report estimated there would be between 5.95 and 6.22 billion bushels — more than last year's record harvest of 5.64 billion bushels, but below previous predictions.

The National Corn Growers Association was less optimistic. A spokesman for the group said Tuesday in Iowa that it expects the crop will be barely 5.5 billion bushels.

Everyone agrees that the crops won't be as big as expected.

'Considerable' Crop

"We shall still have a very considerable corn crop . . . but less than people had been counting on," a spokesman for the American Farm Bureau Federation said Tuesday.

He said the impact on the farmer ranges from "a tragedy to a great windfall" — a tragedy for the man who loses his crop: a windfall for the man who produces a good crop in a year when over-all supply is low.

Brown expected to get 100 to 120 bushels of corn from each acre he planted this year — about average. Now, he says, he'll be lucky to salvage 50 or 60 bushels an acre.

"The crops are hurt pretty bad," he said. "It's been awful dry . . . This corn is used for feed. If there is a shortage of feed, beef prices have got to go higher."

Samuel Addoms, an executive with Monfort of Colorado, Inc., which operates one of country's largest feedlots, said, however, that it was difficult to tell what effect — if any — the increased cost of corn would mean at the supermarket.

Possible Cut-Back

He said higher corn prices could put pressure on the men who fatten cattle to cut back production. That would mean less beef and higher prices.

On the other hand, he said, "if the consumer is turned off by the rising price of beef, and there seems to be an indication of this, he may stop buying and that drives the price down."

The Agriculture Department reported last week that grain and cattle prices soared during the period from mid-June to mid-July. Corn reached an all-time high of $2.91 a bushel, up from $2.57 in June. The current cash price — pushed up by the fact that the corn from the old harvest is running out and the new harvest hasn't begun — is around $3.50 a bushel.

Agricultural experts say it takes about a bushel of corn to put eight pounds of weight on a steer. Feedlot operators who fatten animals to market, generally put about 400 pounds on each steer.

Beef Price Up

Cattle prices, which declined for months, causing livestock producers to complain they were losing money with every animal they sold, also rose last month, to $35 per 100 pounds. The price the farmer got paid was still below what he received last year, but retail prices were higher.

Rhodes Defects

. . . Nixon 'Intends To Stay'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Leader John J. Rhodes on Tuesday joined the swelling ranks of House members announcing they would vote to impeach President Nixon. But the embattled President was described as determined to fight to remain in office.

As the top Republican in the House, Rhodes become the most significant defector from the ranks of Nixon defenders.

"No person, whether he be rich or poor . . . citizen or President is above the law," Rhodes told a news conference. "Cover-up of criminal activity and misuse of federal agencies cannot be condoned or tolerated."

Then the Arizona Republican declared he would vote "aye" on Article I, which charges Nixon with obstruction of justice in the Watergate case.

Rhodes did not join other House Republicans in flatly calling on Nixon to resign.

But the White House was being bombarded with recommendations from Capitol Hill that Nixon step aside and permit Vice President Gerald R. Ford to succeed to the presidency.

Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and a staunch Nixon man, said, "It is my guess that the majority sentiment among Republican senators is that he should retire from office."

At the White House, Nixon met with his full Cabinet and after the 90-minute session was quoted as saying he "intends to stay on and allow the Constitution to be the overriding factor."

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, pressed by newsmen for a statement flatly ruling out a Nixon resignation, finally said, "He does not intend to resign."

Warren confirmed that during a weekend impeachment strategy session, Nixon had discussed the possibility of resignation.

Despite the show of determination at the White House, it was clear by midday that the President's support had evaporated in the House, where a vote on impeachment is scheduled before the end of August.

All 10 House Judiciary Committee Republicans who were the President's hard-line defenders said if he didn't resign they would support an impeachment article charging obstruction of justice.

In late afternoon, top Senate Republican leaders, plus Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., met to consider sending a GOP delegation to the White House.

GOP Leader Hugh Scott said the group will meet again Wednesday "to discuss the desirability and means of conveying to the President" the views of Republican senators.

This presumably includes points made earlier by Tower: the feeling that a majority of GOP senators want Nixon to resign and the concern that the White House does not comprehend the difficulties Nixon would face in an impeachment trial.

In a late-afternoon statement, Republican National Chairman George Bush said, "I would be less than honest if I did not express my deep feelings for those who supported the President on the basis of the facts they knew and which they believed to be true."

The tidal wave that swept away the last slender hopes of averting impeachment by the House was generated by Nixon himself on Monday when he admitted that six days after the June 17, 1972 Watergate break-in, he approved an attempt to thwart the FBI investigation.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, ranking Republican on the Judiciary Committee, said he felt that he had been deceived.

"It is clear to me the evidence is there to support Article I, the obstruction of justice charge," said Hutchinson, who voted against all three impeachment articles sent to the House by the committee.

A similar comment came from Rep. Henry P. Smith III, R-N.Y., who also opposed all three articles in committee: "In view of this new evidence I must vote for impeachment on the grounds of obstruction of justice." The other two articles charged Nixon with abusing the powers of his office by attempting to misuse government agencies and with contempt of Congress for his refusal to give the Judiciary Committee evidence it demanded.

Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr., D-N.J., said he hoped Nixon would "act with dispatch" to resign. "My view now is the (House) vote will be practically unanimous."

But from the Nixon Cabinet came renewed word that the beleagured President had no intention of leaving office voluntarily.

"The President sincerely believes he has not committed an impeachable offense," said Treasury Secretary William E. Simon. "He also believes the Constitution provides for a process that should, indeed, be overriding."

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, emerging from the meeting, told newsmen "no foreign government should assume" that the traditional bipartisan support of American foreign policy had been altered by Watergate.

Asked if any Cabinet members indicated a desire to quit, Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan said: "Everybody's staying on. They've got a job to do."

Nixon summoned the Cabinet to the White House on short notice Tuesday as the reaction to his surprise disclosures the day before pushed him to the worst crisis of presidency.

As Nixon had anticipated in his Monday statement, "a House vote of impeachment is, as a practical matter, virtually a foregone conclusion."

But there also were significant defections by Senate Republicans.

Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., urged Nixon to reconsider his refusal to resign.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, assistant Republican leader, who had called for Nixon's resignation on Monday before the latest disclosures, said Tuesday he was considering offering legislation to grant the President immunity from criminal prosecution once he leaves office.

"I have no basis for so saying, but I still think there is good reason to believe the President might resign," Griffin told newsmen.

County Offers Record Budget

Lancaster County's three commissioners Tuesday neatly wrapped up their 1974-75 budget, decorated it with a two-mill increase in the county tax rate and presented it to the public.

The proposed budget is a record $21.2 million, up $2.7 million over last year's $18.5 million.

According to figures ironed out Tuesday by the Lancaster County Clerk, Carl Hartman, the total amount to be raised by taxation for the coming fiscal year is $6.05 million, compared to $4.5 million last year.

That means Lancaster County property owners can look forward to a 25% increase in the county portion of their total tax bill.

The levy needed to support the proposed budget was estimated at 10.77 mills. Last year's mill levy was 8.63 and the year before, 1972-73, it was 11.77.

Commissioner Jan Gauger said she thought the estimated levy for the coming year was "pretty accurate. It shouldn't vary much from that," she added.

Commissioners say the budget increases will help offset the rising costs of running the county. They cited inflationary forces and a new pay scale for county employes as two of the biggest factors.

A public hearing on the proposed budget will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 13 in Room A255 of the County-City Building.

A breakdown of the proposed budget includes:

State Agencies Biased—Porras

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Stan Porras, director of the State Mexican-American Commission, said Tuesday he is investigating instances of alleged discrimination in employment by state agencies for possible action by the Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

Porras said he has received complaints from job applicants, employes and former employes concerning six state agencies which receive federal funds.

"I'd rather not say right now which agencies they are," he said. "It might cause them to go out and hire anybody just to shut people up. I don't want that; I want them to hire somebody who can do the job.

Gathering Information

"Serious discrimination exists in at least a half dozen agencies," he said. "I'm gathering information right now and trying to get signed statements from people."

Porras said he intends to discuss the alleged instances of discrimination in hiring, firing and promoting with agency directors before a request is made to the EEOC.

Then, he said if the situation is not rectified he will present the information to the Mexican-American Commission for a decision on whether or not to ask the federal agency to review the employment practices.

EEOC Probing NU

Porras noted that the University of Nebraska's hiring and promotion policies are currently being examined by the EEOC.

After the practices are examined, he said, the EEOC makes recommendations on hiring practices and additional time is given to comply. If no improvement results, he said anyone can bring a suit against the agency.

"The state doesn't even have an Affirmative Action Plan to ensure minority employes are treated fairly," he said.

Ready June 30, 1975

Porras said his information-gathering should be completed and the commission should be able to act before June 30, 1975.

"All we have to do is to show probable cause and (the EEOC) will come in and monitor agency procedures," he said.

He estimated there are no more than 150 Mexican-Americans employed by state government; the state's payroll has approximately 25,000 people on it.

Cool Spell Helps Utilities

Continuing unseasonably cool weather has reduced water and electricity consumption by almost 50% from last month's records, utilities spokesmen said Tuesday.

Statewide peak electricity usage Monday for the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) was 910,000 kilowatt hours, an NPPD spokesman said. This compares with the record, set July 19, of 1,632,000 kwh.

Lincoln Uses Less

NPPD, which supplies electricity to Lincoln, got a reduced peak from the Capital City to help its total. The estimated peak for Tuesday was 176,000 kwh, according to a Lincoln Electric System spokesman. A record peak of 335,100 kwh was set July 18.

Lincoln water consumption Tuesday also was lower than before. The estimated usage was set at 55-57 million gallons by the office of Lee Blocker, city utilities director. Monday's total was 54.2 million gallons.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf had set a goal of reducing consumption to 60-65 million gallons daily, following a record 97.5 million gallons total July 13.

Lincoln's low early Tuesday morning of 51 degrees narrowly missed the record for that date, a temperature of 50 recorded in 1889.

42 At North Platte

North Platte dipped to a chilly 42, bettering the old record of 51 that had stood since 1895.

Grand Island had a low of 49, a degree below the record set 1902. The high of 73 reported at Grand Island Monday was the lowest Aug. 6 maximum since 1946.

Omaha joined in the cold, with the mercury dipping to 48, erasing a mark of 57 set in 1887 and equalled in 1888, 1889 and 1940.

McCook received 1.34 inches of moisture in the 24 hours ending Tuesday morning.

Fire Hazard Remains

The National Weather Service said the rangeland fire index would continue probably in the extreme category west and very high to extreme elsewhere Wednesday, urging caution.

Nebraska's extended forecast for Thursday through Saturday called for cooling trend and clear to partly cloudy skies. A Weather Service spokesman said precipitation chances were near 10%.

336 Violators, No 'Grouches'

The Lincoln Water System said crews haven't had any problems in getting people to turn off their water if they were in violation of the mayor's odd-even watering program.

Water System Superintendent Dick Hall said that up until Tuesday there had been 336 violations and "we thought we'd run into somebody who is grouchy," but didn't.

"Nothing unusual has happened and I have talked to all" of the two-man crews watching for violations, Hall said. There are ten crews altogether.

"All the people turned off their water when we asked them to," he said.

The police department said it hasn't had any reports of difficulties either.

Under the mayor's water emergency, homes with odd-numbered addresses can only water on odd-numbered days and homes with even-numbered addresses can only water on even-numbered days.

Nature Center Can Take It

Leaves are wilting. Ponds are getting dryer. A fire hazard exists.

But the current drought should have "no lasting effects" on plants and wildlife at the Chet Ager Nature Center, according to park naturalist Bryce Anderson.

All plant growth has been slowed, Anderson said, but the dry weather has not permanently damaged anything yet. Many of the center's native plants and grasses are hardy enougy to withstand periodic droughts, he emphasized.

The plants' most common reaction to the lack of rain has been to go dormant earlier than usual, Anderson said. Some late summer or fall-flowering plants already have blossomed, he added.

Ponds are more shallow than they have been according to Anderson, but they have not reached a critical water level. yet. Fish living in the ponds may have to be transported to Oak Lake if they do not get enough exygen, he said.

In Pioneers Park, where the center is located, other ponds are drying up, according to Dick Hilligus, city director of Parks. The water buffalo pond at the park zoo is almost dry, he said. He did not say what action would be taken if the pond had no water.

In the park as well as the nature center, fire hazards are worrying officials. Smoking has been restricted in the center, and fires of all types have been banned in the park.

Huge cracks in the ground also have appeared, Hilligus said, which are ruining the park's bicycle trails. He said the trails would be repaired next spring.

Drought May Help

The drought actually may help the nature center in one way, according to Anderson. Bluegrass, which will be adversely affected by dry weather, had overwhelmed the center's prairie, he said. If it is killed, he said, the native grasses will have a better chance for survival next year.

"Everything will be fine next year," he added, "if we get rain."

Drought Boosts Grocery Bill

The Agriculture Department reported last week that grain and cattle prices soared during the period from mid-June to mid-July. Corn reached an all-time high of $2.91 a bushel, up from $2.57 in June. The current cash price — pushed up by the fact that the corn from the old harvest is running out and the new harvest hasn't begun — is around $3.50 a bushel.

Agricultural experts say it takes about a bushel of corn to put eight pounds of weight on a steer. Feedlot operators who fatten animals to market, generally put about 400 pounds on each steer.

Beef Price Up

Cattle prices, which declined for months, causing livestock producers to complain they were losing money with every animal they sold, also rose last month, to $35 per 100 pounds. The price the farmer got paid was still below what he received last year, but retail prices were higher.

County Offers Record Budget

Lancaster County's three commissioners Tuesday neatly wrapped up their 1974-75 budget, decorated it with a two-mill increase in the county tax rate and presented it to the public.

The proposed budget is a record $21.2 million, up $2.7 million over last year's $18.5 million.

According to figures ironed out Tuesday by the Lancaster County Clerk, Carl Hartman, the total amount to be raised by taxation for the coming fiscal year is $6.05 million, compared to $4.5 million last year.

That means Lancaster County property owners can look forward to a 25% increase in the county portion of their total tax bill.

The levy needed to support the proposed budget was estimated at 10.77 mills. Last year's mill levy was 8.63 and the year before, 1972-73, it was 11.77.

Commissioner Jan Gauger said she thought the estimated levy for the coming year was "pretty accurate. It shouldn't vary much from that," she added.

Commissioners say the budget increases will help offset the rising costs of running the county. They cited inflationary forces and a new pay scale for county employes as two of the biggest factors.

A public hearing on the proposed budget will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 13 in Room A255 of the County-City Building.

A breakdown of the proposed budget includes:

State Agencies Biased—Porras

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Stan Porras, director of the State Mexican-American Commission, said Tuesday he is investigating instances of alleged discrimination in employment by state agencies for possible action by the Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

Porras said he has received complaints from job applicants, employes and former employes concerning six state agencies which receive federal funds.

"I'd rather not say right now which agencies they are," he said. "It might cause them to go out and hire anybody just to shut people up. I don't want that; I want them to hire somebody who can do the job.

Gathering Information

"Serious discrimination exists in at least a half dozen agencies," he said. "I'm gathering information right now and trying to get signed statements from people."

Porras said he intends to discuss the alleged instances of discrimination in hiring, firing and promoting with agency directors before a request is made to the EEOC.

Then, he said if the situation is not rectified he will present the information to the Mexican-American Commission for a decision on whether or not to ask the federal agency to review the employment practices.

EEOC Probing NU

Porras noted that the University of Nebraska's hiring and promotion policies are currently being examined by the EEOC.

After the practices are examined, he said, the EEOC makes recommendations on hiring practices and additional time is given to comply. If no improvement results, he said anyone can bring a suit against the agency.

"The state doesn't even have an Affirmative Action Plan to ensure minority employes are treated fairly," he said.

Ready June 30, 1975

Porras said his information-gathering should be completed and the commission should be able to act before June 30, 1975.

"All we have to do is to show probable cause and (the EEOC) will come in and monitor agency procedures," he said.

He estimated there are no more than 150 Mexican-Americans employed by state government; the state's payroll has approximately 25,000 people on it.

Kissinger Exonerated In Role In Wiretapping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger withdrew on Tuesday his threat to resign unless his name was cleared in a wiretapping matter

Earlier, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said it has found nothing to indicate Kissinger lied about his role in wiretapping newsmen and government officials. Kissinger had requested the investigation.

The committee affirmed its judgment made last September that Kissinger's role in the wiretapping was no barrier to his holding office.

"Had we known last September what we know now, we still would have confirmed him," Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., told reporters.

"He did not in my opinion initiate the program," Fulbright said, adding he thinks the plan of stopping leaks of sensitive material came out of conferences between President Nixon and the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

During his confirmation hearings before the committee last September, Kissinger said his role in wiretapping had been limited to supplying names of National Security Council staff members with access to material of the type being leaked to reporters. At the time, Kissinger was Nixon's chief adviser on national security affairs.

Two months ago, FBI files indicating Kissinger had initiated the wiretaps were published, and Kissinger, with Nixon in Salzburg, Austria, called a news conference to say he would resign unless his name was cleared.

It was then that the committee reopened its investigation into whether Kissinger had initiated the project of wiretapping 13 government officials and four newsmen in 1969 and 1970.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., a member of the committee, said that while differences over interpretations of words remained, he considered the panel's unanimous vote "a clear bill of health" for Kissinger.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., added "So far as the wiretapping is concerned, there was nothing we could find that was appreciably different from what Dr. Kissinger told us in September."

Fulbright said the committee's conclusion that Kissinger had not lied should not be read as an endorsement of the wiretap program. "I personally do not approve of it and I don't think the committee does," he added.

Fulbright repeated that the committee differentiated between setting up the program and actually carrying it out.

In a written report issued later Tuesday, the committee said:

"It should be noted that Dr. Kissinger's participation in the wiretapping came after assurances by the attorney general (John N. Mitchell) that such wiretaps were lawful and by Mr. Hoover that similar wiretaps were carried out under pverious administrations."

"It is highly unlikely that anyone with Dr. Kissinger's background, largely within the academic world, would question assurances of legality and precedents from the nation's chief law-enforcement officers," the panel wrote.

Vietcong Accuse U.S.

Paris — The Vietcong's provisional revolutionary government of South Vietnam made specific charges that American pilots are still flying combat missions over Communist-controlled areas north of Saigon.

Soviets Hear Of Mistakes

Moscow — Soviet television viewers learned Tuesday, nearly a day after the fact, that President Nixon had admitted making mistakes and had referred to a possibility of his being removed from office. The Soviet authorities evidently remain extremely reticent about disclosing the rapid movement toward impeachment.

Prisoners On Strike

Calcutta — Two young Americans who have been in prison for more than a year are on a hunger strike while awaiting trial. The case, which has stirred tensions between the U.S. and India, has political overtones and involves allegations that the men are spies.

Savings Plan Created

London — Government moves to protect pensioners and small savers started with creation of two savings plans that pay dividends based on Britain's retail price index.

Disturbed Inmates Neglected

New York — Some of New York City's most disturbed prisoners — those in danger of committing suicide or harming other prisoners — are barely getting stopgap psychiatric treatment because of an acute shortage of beds in hospital prison wards. Most of the 146 beds in city security wards are used for suspects sent to see if they are competent to stand trial. For those convicted, treatment has broken down as they shuttle from jail to hospital bed.

Amphitheater Planned

New York — New York City Parks Department officials and Joseph Papp, producer of the New York Shakespeare Festival, are in tentative agreement on plans for a new 2,500-seat open-air theater in Central Park. The probable site is the present Delacorte Theater, a wooden structure dating from 1962.

S. Vietnam Could Remain U.S. Burden, Report Says

By OSWALD JOHNSTON
(c) Washington Star-News

Washington — Despite calculated official optimism, South Vietnam remains economically, politically and militarily in peril and could continue to be a burden to the United States for years to come.

This gloomy assessment, 18 months after the Paris ceasefire agreement, emerges from a Senate Foreign Relations Committee report that charges the Nixon administration with a policy of aimless drift and specifically faults the U.S. embassy in Saigon for deliberately misrepresenting the gravity of the situation.

In addition, the report reveals for the first time the staggering cost of the military equipment transferred from U.S. stockpiles to South Vietnam between October 1972 (when peace was "at hand") and January 1973 when the cease-fire was agreed upon. That arms bill was $753.3 million — a figure that never appeared in any budget and was never approved by any congressional action.

Reports Distorted

Except for the details, the report, by committee staff aides Richard M. Moose and Charles F. Meissner, could have been written 10 years ago, when the United States was first sliding into the Vietnam quagmire. It describes the U.S. embassy as being so committed to the Saigon government that facts adverse to South Vietnamese policy are deleted from embassy reports to Washington.

The report charged that embassy reports to Washington either distorted or deleted information on deliberate cease-fire violations by the South Vietnamese army, on deteriorating security and poor performance by South Vietnamese troops, and on the actual course of some military actions.

U.S. Ambassador Graham A. Martin answered the charges during a committee hearing by saying deletions were made because he did not believe it necessary to report some actions more than once, and that military information was reaching Washington through Pentagon channels.

In a lengthy exposition on South Vietnam's faltering economy, the report argues that the country's top-heavy military establishment and excessive reliance on a U.S.-fostered artificial economy of expensive imports will make South Vietnam incapable of self-sufficiency for at least another 10 years.

'Takeoff' In 5 Years

In the face of this, the report notes, the Agency for International Development in Saigon is aiming for an economic "takeoff" in five years at the latest. AID officials base that projection in part on a reduction in South Vietnamese military expenditures which, the report notes, Martin and other embassy officials oppose.

Martin is currently in Washington to sell the administration's aid plans to a reluctant and preoccupied Congress. He has been arguing for a two-year program of massive doses of economic aid ($750 to $800 million a year) in addition to the $1 45 billion in military aid the administration has requested.

The committee report noted that total Soviet and Chinese aid to North Vietnam in 1973 was estimated by U.S. intelligence experts at no more than $713 million — of which $425 million was estimated as economic aid and only $290 million as military aid. This was exactly the reverse of the prevailing 2-to-1 military-to-economic ratio of U.S. aid to South Vietnam.

Fighting Heaviest Since Cease-Fire

LAPITHOS, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish soldiers, moving behind rolling barrages of mortar and artillery fire, swarmed down from the foothills of the Kyrenia mountains Tuesday to send Greek Cypriot troops into retreat in the heaviest fighting since the cease-fire signed in Geneva seven days earlier.

In the eastern port of Famagusta, meanwhile, tension continued between United Nations peacekeeping forces and Turkish Cypriots. Greek Cypriots and Turkish Cypriots fought a three-hour battle there Monday night, but a U.N. spokesman said Tuesday evening in New York that the situation had quieted down "after a strong protest" from the U.N. peacekeepers.

In Ankara the Turkish government accused Greek Cypriots of holding Turkish Cypriots as prisoners and hostages under "inhuman conditions." An official spokesman said the Turkish Cypriots were being tortured and their homes looted in violation of the Geneva agreement.

The spokesman said U.N. peacekeepers were unable to help, and the Turkish National Security Council had met for five-hours to consider urgent measures "to eliminate the inhuman conditions." He gave no details of council's decisions.

Arthur Hartman, a United States assistant secretary of state, met Tuesday with Greek government leaders in Athens.

7 Bodies Unburied; Records Sought

Miami (UPI) — Rescue workers Tuesday finished the grisly job of recovering bodies from the collapsed southeast headquarters of the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration and proceeded with the task of salvaging records and evidence in vaults buried under tons of debris.

Seven persons were crushed to death and 15 were injured in the cave-in Monday morning. Firemen worked through the night recovering bodies. The last one was pulled from beneath a precariously positioned steel beam before noon Tuesday.

Damage estimates were not available, but FDEA administrator John R. Bartles Jr., said invaluable evidence and records on pending drug cases were locked safely in vaults buried beneath the rubble.

The Miami office was the regional headquarters for the Southeastern United States and Caribbean FDEA operations. Bartels said the office was rated "one of the top four in activity — it was an awfully important one."

The collapse occurred Monday when a rooftop parking lot with 57 cars caved in.

Prosecution Possible After Conviction

Washington (UPI) — The Constitution leaves no doubt that if President Nixon is convicted in the Senate he would also be subject to criminal prosecution in federal courts if there is sufficient evidence.

Discussing the Senate's impeachment powers, the Constitution provides that judgment shall not go further then removal from office and disqualification from any future federal position of honor, trust or profit.

But it adds: "The party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law."

Presumably any post-conviction action against Nixon would be discussed by his successor, Vice President Gerald Ford, with Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and possibly Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Although Jaworski is in charge of all Watergate prosecutions, a decision to proceed against the former president would be of such a high order that he would not be the sole arbiter as he is in the case of Nixon's subordinates.

"In the end it will doubtless be determined by public sentiment," said a Washington attorney. "If people are really mad, the government may have to go ahead. It's a tough nut on which to make a decision."

Officials Have Option

He said the Constitution obviously gives high government officials the option to prosecute if they are so minded.

Immunity legislation, which is expected to be introduced in Congress at some point, could protect the President from further action against him. Part of the theory of this approach is that removal from office in disgrace is punishment enough.

There has been some feeling in recent months that fear of criminal prosecution was one of the factors keeping the President from resigning. Legal opinion differs as to whether a president can be indicted while in office.

On the other hand, resignation would allow Nixon to keep his pension of $62,500 a year and expense allowance of $96,000 and a $20,000 pension for Mrs. Nixon should she become widowed. Removal from office would mean loss of all these benefits.

Ford Could Make Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Vice President Gerald R. Ford should replace President Nixon as chief executive, Ford could nominate someone to replace him as vice president.

The 25th Amendment to the Constitution, ratified in 1967, specifies that the vice president shall succeed to the presidency "in case of removal of the president from office or of his death or resignation."

"Whenever there is a vacancy in the office of the vice president, the president shall nominate a vice president who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both houses of Congress," the article says. Ford became the first vice president named in this fashion after Spiro T. Agnew resigned.

The Senate parliamentarian's office said the amendment means Ford could also name a vice president if he became president.

Subpoenaed Conversation 'Not Recorded' — St. Clair

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon's lawyers said Tuesday that another White House conversation subpoenaed by Watergate prosecutors was not available and apparently was never recorded.

The conversation involved a midnight telephone call between Nixon and his former counsel Charles W. Colson on June 20, 1972, three days after the Watergate break-in. It was supposedly on one of 13 tapes surrendered to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica Friday under terms of a Supreme Court order.

But James D. St. Clair, Nixon's chief defense lawyer, said in a formal analysis delivered to Sirica's chambers Tuesday that the call was not found on the reel of tape containing Nixon's telephone conversations for that day.

Placed From Bedroom

"It is counsel's belief that the President placed this call from his bedroom on the second floor on the White House and that it was, therefore, not recorded," St. Clair said.

This was the third conversation the White House has said was not taped and the second for the same reason. Last November, the White House said a call Nixon made to John N. Mitchell, also on June 20, 1972, could not be found because it apparently was made from a phone in the White House living quarters not plugged into the taping system.

A third subpoenaed tape was also reported missing last fall because, it was said, the tape ran out before an April 15, 1973, meeting between Nixon and John W. Dean III.

Two other subpoenaed tapes have lengthy gaps.

Nixon is scheduled to surrender another 31 tapes to Sirica Wednesday, the balance of the 64 subpoenaed by Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski for the Watergate cover-up trial due to start Sept. 9. Sirica will listen to them for relevancy.

St. Clair filed eight more executive privilege claims Tuesday covering 5 hours, 8 minutes and 27 seconds of the 13 tapes delivered to the court Friday.

No privilege claims were made for one of the three conversations between Nixon and H. R. Haldeman on June 23, 1972. That conversation, which the White House made public Monday, acknowledged that the President sought immediately after the Watergate bugging to block the investigation for political reasons.

But St. Clair did claim executive privilege for parts of the other two Nixon-Haldeman meetings that day — nearly 90 minutes on one of the tapes and more than 18 minutes on the other.

House Considers Short Debate

Washington (AP) — House leaders reached preliminary agreement Tuesday on an impeachment debate schedule that cuts in half the time devoted to the matter.

Speaker Carl Albert told newsmen the debate will open Aug. 19, as previously planned, but that the leadership hopes it can be concluded on Aug. 23 or 24. The earlier schedule had called for debate through Aug. 29.

The definitive votes that determine whether Nixon is sent to trial before the Senate will come at the end of the proceedings, although the House will take preliminary action earlier on the three impeachment articles.

Albert, emphasizing that no final decisions have been reached, said present plans are to devote 25 hours, or three days, to general debate.

Members would speak under time limitations, with those who serve on the Judiciary Committee that prepared the impeachment articles allowed at least 10 minutes. Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., and ranking Republican committee member Edward Hutchinson would have more time to lay out the case.

After general debate, the House would take up the articles one by one.

A major point still to be determined, Albert said, is whether members will be required to vote yes or no on each entire article as it was reported by the Judiciary Committee, or whether opportunity to attempt to strike out parts of each will be allowed. There is no thought of permitting additions, he said.

An 'Appalling' Situation

The situation in the White House, as Rep. Charles Thone describes it, is indeed "appalling."

Although, Americans really should have guessed that another bombshell would be dropped. It is all part of the President's dismal record that each time he is forced to come to his own defense, he grudgingly coughs up only incomplete explanations. And something else is always lurking in the shadows to condemn him. It is his own fault. He has not learned from experience.

Nixon in the spring, on national television, pointed to the stacks of transcripts — an awesome bulk of material — and told the people that contained in them was all that was needed to make a proper judgment of his role in the election scandals of 1972.

Now, in a last-ditch, skin-saving effort prompted by the U.S. Supreme Court's wise decision two weeks ago, he admits that judgments are being made on incomplete evidence — that he has withheld transcripts of crucial conversations with H. R. Haldeman only six days after the Watergate breakin. He says he did not recollect making certain statements relevent to the inquiry, but we are of the opinion that what happened was somewhat worse than not recollecting. It is inconceivable that President Nixon could not remember recognizing the political implications of Watergate and acting to quiet an FBI investigation of the breakin.

At any rate, his latest admission has all but doomed him in his fight to be vindicated. His defenses are sagging with most of his staunchest supporters deserting the cause.

Nebraska's three Republican congressmen have now gone on record as favoring either resignation or impeachment. And whether that public posture is taken as a result of a breakdown of party discipline or because of an objective weighing of evidence is something Nebraskans may want to ponder.

The President is joined in his lonely fight by Sen. Carl Curtis of Nebraska — Nixon's most outspoken and almost only defender at this date — who has exhibited an amazingly consistent, if not objective, loyalty to the President in the face of overwhelming evidence linking the President with criminal conduct.

Either Curtis is so naive as to not realize the meaning of obstruction of justice — that it is not just a "political mistake" to try to hide misconduct from the "enemy camp" — or he doesn't have very high standards when it comes to official behavior. And if the latter is the case, Nebraskans have been hoodwinked for 35 years.

Curtis' loyalty aside, it should be abundantly clear by now that President Nixon should leave office. Either by resigning, or, as Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Cal., puts it, that his service be "involuntarily terminated."

Biting Back

We're of the opinion that there is no such thing as a bad dog — that pups and other pets become problems only because of overindulgent, cruel or irresponsible masters.

Nevertheless, there is a pet problem in Lincoln, as well as other cities. In addition to the fact that there are probably too many dogs and cats in Lincoln as elsewhere — too many in that many are not cared for properly — Lincoln does not have any pet controls with teeth. Many residents are plagued by neighboring four-legged nuisances which bark, bite or fertilize their yards and there is not much they can do about it except complain to owners who often times won't listen.

Proposed to the Omaha City Council is an ordinance which would authorize Omaha Humane Society personnel and Omaha police officers to issue tickets with a fine to be paid to pet owners for violating animal control laws.

Tickets could be issued, for example, for allowing a dog to run at large, keeping an unlicensed dog, insufficient food, water or shelter, cruelty to animals, allowing a female dog in season to run at large, harboring a vicious animal or barking dogs causing a nuisance.

The proposed Omaha animal control ordinance was outlined to the Lincoln City Council this week and we think it merits implementation here. It is too bad that some owners do not love their pets enough to be responsible for them, but it really shouldn't be anyone else's responsibility.

WILLIAM McGAFFIN

Move To Impeachment Quickens

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has committed the unpardonable transgression in the political profession of betraying his friends who risked their careers for him.

Although this breach of the politicians' code was not mentioned, it no doubt figured in the decisions of some of the Nixon stalwarts to join the growing demand for the President to resign — or be impeached.

The gravity of the President's situation could be measured by the fact that he immediately lost not only three members of the House Judiciary Committee who refused to go along with the bipartisan majority that voted to recommend impeachment.

He also lost the support of House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona, and caused Vice President Gerald Ford to halt his public speeches in defense of the President. More defections are expected to follow.

Obviously, the principal motivation for the defections of Republican Reps. Charles E. Wiggins of California, Wiley Mayne of Iowa, and Joseph Maraziti of New Jersey, the three committee members who refused to vote for impeachment, was Nixon's amazing admission that he had concealed the personal role he played in the Watergate coverup.

However, the emotions stirred by a sense of betrayal also came through when Wiggins read to reporters a two-page statement giving the reasons for his complete switch-over on the impeachment issue.

His facial expressions and the tone of his voice revealed the turmoil within as he stated that the facts "have now changed." It was his conclusion, he said, that "standing alone they are legally sufficient . . . to sustain at least one count against the President of conspiracy to obstruct justice."

After considerable reflection, he said, he had "reached the painful conclusion that the President of the United States should resign."

He conceded that "any competent counsel could mount a principled defense before the bar of the Senate which might avoid the conviction of the President." But he felt that the greater issue is the welfare of the United States.

"Even a successful defense would leave the nation terribly divided and the capacity of the President to lead fatally weakened. The national interest thus requires the President to concentrate his efforts on a speedy and orderly transition of power to the vice president."

Failing such action, he said, "with great reluctance and deep personal sorrow, I am prepared to conclude that the magnificent career of public service of Richard Nixon must be terminated involuntarily." He would vote for impeachment, he said, on Article One alleging obstruction of justice in the Watergate coverup.

☆ ☆ ☆

House Republican Leader Rhodes said that the apparent attempt to use the CIA to cover up the depth of the Watergate conspiracy was shocking. "The fact that the President's veracity is put in question by this disclosure is a tragedy," he added.

"It seems to me that this disclosure makes a quick House vote on impeachment an imperative, in the best interests of our country."

He said he would continue to counsel with Republican members of the House as to the best course of action for all of them to take and would hold a news conference.

A news conference he had scheduled to announce his position on impeachment was postponed with the explanation that he was suffering from a high fever.

☆ ☆ ☆

What puzzled members on all sides in the House was the President's motivation in releasing the damaging tapes — unless he hoped to limit the damage by putting them out himself now with his own rationale rather than letting them come out later through the Sirica court.

"It's very difficult for me to see how this helps him," commented Rep. John Anderson of Illinois, the No. 3 Republican leader in the House.

Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman (D-N.Y.), one of the Judiciary Committee members who voted for all three articles of impeachment, reacted bitterly. She said that "it's about time he (the President) lived up to his constitutional responsibility to tell the truth and stopped playing games with the judicial process."

Another Nixon opponent on the committee, Rep. Robert F. Drinan (D-Mass.), said he thought the President may have sounded his "death knell." He said, "It's unbelievable."

Vice President Ford said, "I have come to the conclusion that the public interest is no longer served by repetition of my previously expressed belief that on the basis of all the evidence known to me and to the American people, the President is not guilty of an impeachable offense under the constitutional definition of treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

After stating that he intended to "respectfully decline to discuss impeachment matters in public or in response to questions until the facts are more fully available," he tacitly adknowledged that the House would impeach the President.

"The whole truth should be the objective of the trial before the Senate," he said.

He said he had promised Congress to be a "calm communicator and ready conciliator" when he became Vice President but that now the President and Congress are in an adversary relationship.

"The business of government must go on and the genuine needs of the people must be served. I believe I can make a better contribution to this end by not involving myself in an impeachment debate in which I have no constitutional role."

'. . . YOU'RE Sick Of Hearing About Watergate!?'

Camping Chaos

WASHINGTON — Tens of thousands of vacationers have been unable to reserve campsites at 21 national parks this summer because the telephone reservation system was handled by an inexperienced firm.

The contract was awarded to Park Reservation System, which was incorporated in Claremont, Calif., on June 7 and began operations on June 23.

By a curious coincidence, the firm's president, L. Donald Middleton, happens to be a close friend of National Parks Director Ronald Walker. Spokesman for both men deny that their friendship influenced the deal.

It is a fact, nevertheless, that the company was organized for the sole purpose of handling the camping reservations contract. The executives of the new company had no real experience in the field.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, a member of the Senate Parks subcommittee, asked the General Accounting Office to investigate the firm's performance. Here are the preliminary findings:

— One day, 25,000 of 29,464 callers got only a busy signal. A spot check by GAO investigators on July 18 disclosed that only one out of every 20 calls got through the reservations switchboard.

— Although the firm had raked in about $150,000 in reservations from campers by mid-July, it still hadn't posted the $100,000 performance bond required to protect the government's take.

— The Park Service, after promising "virtually instantaneous" service for campers, has now called upon them to make their reservations by cards and letters. This slow service will be too late for many vacationers.

— The Park Service has conceded, as a result of the foul-up, that "most parks are still receiving a fairly small number of reservations . . . resulting in many campgrounds no more than 10 to 15 per cent filled."

Nevertheless, the Park Service has extended the contract into August.

President Nixon's closest crony, Bebe Rebozo, escaped a possible contempt citation only through the personal action of kindly old Senate Watergate Chairman Sam Ervin, D-N.C.

As one of the committee's last acts, Ervin subpoenaed Rebozo's financial, telephone and other records. But the secretive Rebozo resisted bitterly, even going to court to fight the subpoena.

The showdown came behind the closed doors of Ervin's spacious Capitol hideaway. Rebozo sat by silently while his Miami attorney, William Frates, assailed the Watergate staff for harassing his client.

The angry lawyer charged that Rebozo had been questioned repeatedly, that his bank had been pawed through, that unfavorable secret testimony had been leaked to the press. Once lawmen rushed to Rebozo's Key Biscayne, Fla., bank to investigate a report that two suspicious men were casing it for a robbery. The two suspects turned out to be Watergate investigators.

At one point, Frates reportedly refused to negotiate if committee investigator Scott Armstrong was in the room. A general hubbub developed after co-chairman Howard Baker, R-Tenn., joined in the attack upon committee counsel Terry Lenzner.

Ervin restored order and twice sent the staff into a smaller hideaway belonging to Sen. Dan Inouye, D-Hawaii, to work out an agreement. The negotiations dragged on until the staffers and Frates, their nerves raw, fell into bitter dispute.

Meeting again with the senators, Frates agreed to sign a letter formalizing the accord. But first, he had to meet with the Watergate prosecutors, he said, promising he would be back.

That was the last they saw of him. Instead of returning to Capitol Hill, he flew to Miami. A committee staffer was dispatched to Miami, but Frates refused to give up the promised material, complaining that still more damaging material had been leaked to the press.

Despite the runaround, Ervin let the contempt question die at a final meeting. The old constitutionalist explained to us that it was true "we were promised" the Rebozo material and "we didn't get it." But he said the committee was going out of business and "the Justice Department would have had to enforce the subpoena."

Concluded Ervin: "I have never favored contempt proceedings."

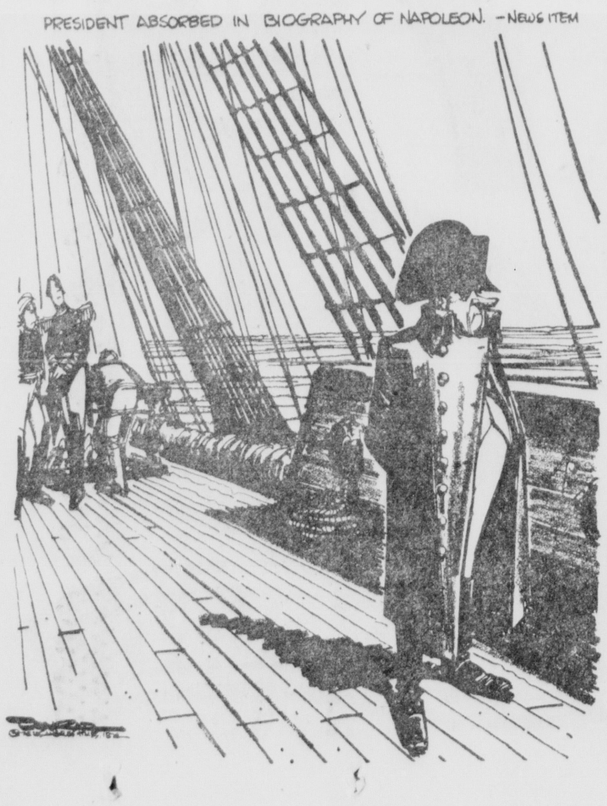
PRESIDENT ABSORBED IN BIOGRAPHY OF NAPOLEON. -NEWS ITEM



JAMES RESTON

The Waiting Game

WASHINGTON — Almost everybody talks these days about the problems of the Nixons, but just for a change, consider the problems of the Fords — the vice president and his family.

Ford is spending most of his time traveling, praying and listening. He's traveling to keep out of the impeachment politics here and hold his party together out in the country. He's praying either to get out of the presidency or be up to it if he has to take over. And he's listening because he can't avoid it.

All his old buddies on Capitol Hill are giving him advice, most of it contradictory. He's being urged by some to lobby against the impeachment of the President on Capitol Hill. He's being urged by others to shut up and get lost until the trial is over, and by still others to start picking a new vice president and cabinet.

The big guy just smiles and nods. You can't interview him because the most relevant questions about what kind of administration he would have are precisely the topics he can't discuss without seeming to be disloyal to the President.

Some things about him, however, are fairly clear. He is the same open, unspoiled character. He is calm and fatalistic about his place in the current drama, as if he were an accidental player in some large inevitable script beyond his control.

He is an open and spontaneous man, accustomed to party talk and this leads him into some confusion from time to time between his loyalty to his President and his loyalty to his new role as president-in-waiting.

But as President Nixon's troubles have deepened and Ford's responsibilities have increased, the vice president has become more canny. He avoids specifics and personalities but talks a good deal about the longing in the country for peace and reconciliation.

He also talks about the need for teamwork and openness in Washington. He notes that he ran an open shop in Congress, sharing responsibility with his colleagues and keeping in close touch with the opposition leaders whom he still regards as his friends.

GERALD FORD
. . . getting lots of advice . . .

But it is not clear that he would try to put together a really outstanding ministry of exceptional talents or a bipartisan cabinet and government of reconciliation. He shies away from fancy talk like that.

He describes himself as conservative in financial matters, a moderate on social questions, and a strong supporter of Secretary of State Kissinger's pragmatism in foreign affairs.

☆ ☆ ☆

If he does have to take over, much will depend on his choice of a vice president and the role he assigns to that man. The guess here is that it will be either Nelson Rockefeller or Elliot Richardson, but that is only a guess.

Here again he is getting widely divergent advice. In a time of political upheaval, he is being told, steadiness is the main thing: The fewer the changes, the better.

This was what President Johnson did after the murder of John F. Kennedy. "Let us continue," he said, and kept the entire Kennedy cabinet into the second Johnson term.

In contrast, after the death of Franklin Roosevelt, President Truman changed most of the cabinet within six months, and even some members of the present Nixon cabinet argue that if Nixon is convicted, Ford should make a clean sweep of the whole Nixon cabinet, except Kissinger.

Ford, however, will not allow himself to be drawn into discussion of these points. He turns the conversation to questions such as the new problems before his family.

They are plain folks in a difficult situation. He has just switched jobs. They live, and have lived for many years, in a plain house on a plain street in Alexandria, Va., but in the new job as vice president, he is now regarded as a national treasure, so the Secret Service has moved into his garage and protect him night and day, and watches over his kids on dates.

Recognizing that this may be a little awkward, the government has now provided Ford with a new official residence on Massachusetts Avenue just up the hill from the British Embassy. It is an imposing white wooden structure with porches as long as a bowling alley, surrounded by grounds that could encompass a nine-hole golf course, and the whole thing could easily be maintained if the Congress would just bring back slavery.

Like most husbands, Ford is absent during the moving and leaving these details to his wife. While he's on the road, she is getting rid of the former tenant's modern furniture and picking out different rugs and drapes to fit the Victorian background.

Maybe this takes her mind off the political convulsion in their lives, but before she ever gets the new place in shape, she may have to move again. Sometimes she must wish her guy hadn't been so successful or lucky.

Test Of Faith In Justice

Lincoln, Neb.

It has been said that if Nixon is impeached, it will ruin the country. I think he has already done that, so why give him any more time to mess it up further? He has had his fingers in the till ever since he took office.

If Nixon didn't know what was going on right under his nose (as he said he didn't), isn't that admitting pretty poor leadership? He certainly wasn't minding the store. These men he himself appointed. Mr. Nixon said Haldeman and Ehrlichman were most dedicated public servants. They, too, have proved to be crooks.

Nixon has appointed a number of young men to office, only to mortally wound them. These men were anxious to get ahead and were not seasoned in crooked politics and some are now serving time, a very sad experience.

After my husband died, I didn't make an estimate on income. I was notified I had to — or else. I wrote IRS that my income came from the farm and I never knew if I would have any or not and that I "didn't want to count my chickens before they hatched." But I got penalized. Now, I wonder if Mr. Nixon goes by those same rules. I would like to know.

I took a refresher course in law at business college and two things I have always remembered. "Before investing, investigate," and, "Never admit you are guilty." This must be what these men under Nixon and he himself are doing — swearing under oath to tell the truth. Is this any way to run a country?

I have served on election boards for over 20 years and have taken the oath of that office many times, but I had more respect for that oath than these men are displaying.

I was amazed at Rep. Sandman when he jumped down the throat of Elizabeth Holtzman at the hearings. Had he been any gentleman, he would have apologized before the TV viewer, a quality he seems to lack.

We have too many meaningless laws. They should make laws that fit everyone, not just a few. Otherwise we will defeat our purpose.

I can't condone these scores of wrong-doings. They are not just mistakes, as some have said that a president is entitled to make a few honest mistakes. Perhaps three or four, but not the number Nixon has made.

He should resign. That way he would still get the pension and otherwise not. This man is on sinking ground and if he isn't impeached, I will have no faith in justice.

Proposed to the Omaha City Council is an ordinance which would authorize Omaha Humane Society personnel and Omaha police officers to issue tickets with a fine to be paid to pet owners for violating animal control laws.

Tickets could be issued, for example, for allowing a dog to run at large, keeping an unlicensed dog, insufficient food, water or shelter, cruelty to animals, allowing a female dog in season to run at large, harboring a vicious animal or barking dogs causing a nuisance.

The proposed Omaha animal control ordinance was outlined to the Lincoln City Council this week and we think it merits implementation here. It is too bad that some owners do not love their pets enough to be responsible for them, but it really shouldn't be anyone else's responsibility.

Move To Impeachment Quickens

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has committed the unpardonable transgression in the political profession of betraying his friends who risked their careers for him.

Although this breach of the politicians' code was not mentioned, it no doubt figured in the decisions of some of the Nixon stalwarts to join the growing demand for the President to resign — or be impeached.

The gravity of the President's situation could be measured by the fact that he immediately lost not only three members of the House Judiciary Committee who refused to go along with the bipartisan majority that voted to recommend impeachment.

He also lost the support of House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona, and caused Vice President Gerald Ford to halt his public speeches in defense of the President. More defections are expected to follow.

Obviously, the principal motivation for the defections of Republican Reps. Charles E. Wiggins of California, Wiley Mayne of Iowa, and Joseph Maraziti of New Jersey, the three committee members who refused to vote for impeachment, was Nixon's amazing admission that he had concealed the personal role he played in the Watergate coverup.

However, the emotions stirred by a sense of betrayal also came through when Wiggins read to reporters a two-page statement giving the reasons for his complete switch-over on the impeachment issue.

His facial expressions and the tone of his voice revealed the turmoil within as he stated that the facts "have now changed." It was his conclusion, he said, that "standing alone they are legally sufficient . . . to sustain at least one count against the President of conspiracy to obstruct justice."

After considerable reflection, he said, he had "reached the painful conclusion that the President of the United States should resign."

He conceded that "any competent counsel could mount a principled defense before the bar of the Senate which might avoid the conviction of the President." But he felt that the greater issue is the welfare of the United States.

"Even a successful defense would leave the nation terribly divided and the capacity of the President to lead fatally weakened. The national interest thus requires the President to concentrate his efforts on a speedy and orderly transition of power to the vice president."

Failing such action, he said, "with great reluctance and deep personal sorrow, I am prepared to conclude that the magnificent career of public service of Richard Nixon must be terminated involuntarily." He would vote for impeachment, he said, on Article One alleging obstruction of justice in the Watergate coverup.

'. . . YOU'RE Sick Of Hearing About Watergate!?'

☆ ☆ ☆

House Republican Leader Rhodes said that the apparent attempt to use the CIA to cover up the depth of the Watergate conspiracy was shocking. "The fact that the President's veracity is put in question by this disclosure is a tragedy," he added.

"It seems to me that this disclosure makes a quick House vote on impeachment an imperative, in the best interests of our country."

He said he would continue to counsel with Republican members of the House as to the best course of action for all of them to take and would hold a news conference.

A news conference he had scheduled to announce his position on impeachment was postponed with the explanation that he was suffering from a high fever.

☆ ☆ ☆

What puzzled members on all sides in the House was the President's motivation in releasing the damaging tapes — unless he hoped to limit the damage by putting them out himself now with his own rationale rather than letting them come out later through the Sirica court.

"It's very difficult for me to see how this helps him," commented Rep. John Anderson of Illinois, the No. 3 Republican leader in the House.

Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman (D-N.Y.), one of the Judiciary Committee members who voted for all three articles of impeachment, reacted bitterly. She said that "it's about time he (the President) lived up to his constitutional responsibility to tell the truth and stopped playing games with the judicial process."

Another Nixon opponent on the committee, Rep. Robert F. Drinan (D-Mass.), said he thought the President may have sounded his "death knell." He said, "It's unbelievable."

Vice President Ford said, "I have come to the conclusion that the public interest is no longer served by repetition of my previously expressed belief that on the basis of all the evidence known to me and to the American people, the President is not guilty of an impeachable offense under the constitutional definition of treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

After stating that he intended to "respectfully decline to discuss impeachment matters in public or in response to questions until the facts are more fully available," he tacitly adknowledged that the House would impeach the President.

"The whole truth should be the objective of the trial before the Senate," he said.

He said he had promised Congress to be a "calm communicator and ready conciliator" when he became Vice President but that now the President and Congress are in an adversary relationship.

"The business of government must go on and the genuine needs of the people must be served. I believe I can make a better contribution to this end by not involving myself in an impeachment debate in which I have no constitutional role."

Camping Chaos

WASHINGTON — Tens of thousands of vacationers have been unable to reserve campsites at 21 national parks this summer because the telephone reservation system was handled by an inexperienced firm.

The contract was awarded to Park Reservation System, which was incorporated in Claremont, Calif., on June 7 and began operations on June 23.

By a curious coincidence, the firm's president, L. Donald Middleton, happens to be a close friend of National Parks Director Ronald Walker. Spokesman for both men deny that their friendship influenced the deal.

It is a fact, nevertheless, that the company was organized for the sole purpose of handling the camping reservations contract. The executives of the new company had no real experience in the field.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, a member of the Senate Parks subcommittee, asked the General Accounting Office to investigate the firm's performance. Here are the preliminary findings:

— One day, 25,000 of 29,464 callers got only a busy signal. A spot check by GAO investigators on July 18 disclosed that only one out of every 20 calls got through the reservations switchboard.

— Although the firm had raked in about $150,000 in reservations from campers by mid-July, it still hadn't posted the $100,000 performance bond required to protect the government's take.

— The Park Service, after promising "virtually instantaneous" service for campers, has now called upon them to make their reservations by cards and letters. This slow service will be too late for many vacationers.

— The Park Service has conceded, as a result of the foul-up, that "most parks are still receiving a fairly small number of reservations . . . resulting in many campgrounds no more than 10 to 15 per cent filled."

Nevertheless, the Park Service has extended the contract into August.

President Nixon's closest crony, Bebe Rebozo, escaped a possible contempt citation only through the personal action of kindly old Senate Watergate Chairman Sam Ervin, D-N.C.

As one of the committee's last acts, Ervin subpoenaed Rebozo's financial, telephone and other records. But the secretive Rebozo resisted bitterly, even going to court to fight the subpoena.

The showdown came behind the closed doors of Ervin's spacious Capitol hideaway. Rebozo sat by silently while his Miami attorney, William Frates, assailed the Watergate staff for harassing his client.

The angry lawyer charged that Rebozo had been questioned repeatedly, that his bank had been pawed through, that unfavorable secret testimony had been leaked to the press. Once lawmen rushed to Rebozo's Key Biscayne, Fla., bank to investigate a report that two suspicious men were casing it for a robbery. The two suspects turned out to be Watergate investigators.

At one point, Frates reportedly refused to negotiate if committee investigator Scott Armstrong was in the room. A general hubbub developed after co-chairman Howard Baker, R-Tenn., joined in the attack upon committee counsel Terry Lenzner.

Ervin restored order and twice sent the staff into a smaller hideaway belonging to Sen. Dan Inouye, D-Hawaii, to work out an agreement. The negotiations dragged on until the staffers and Frates, their nerves raw, fell into bitter dispute.

Meeting again with the senators, Frates agreed to sign a letter formalizing the accord. But first, he had to meet with the Watergate prosecutors, he said, promising he would be back.

That was the last they saw of him. Instead of returning to Capitol Hill, he flew to Miami. A committee staffer was dispatched to Miami, but Frates refused to give up the promised material, complaining that still more damaging material had been leaked to the press.

Despite the runaround, Ervin let the contempt question die at a final meeting. The old constitutionalist explained to us that it was true "we were promised" the Rebozo material and "we didn't get it." But he said the committee was going out of business and "the Justice Department would have had to enforce the subpoena."

Concluded Ervin: "I have never favored contempt proceedings."

The Waiting Game

WASHINGTON — Almost everybody talks these days about the problems of the Nixons, but just for a change, consider the problems of the Fords — the vice president and his family.

Ford is spending most of his time traveling, praying and listening. He's traveling to keep out of the impeachment politics here and hold his party together out in the country. He's praying either to get out of the presidency or be up to it if he has to take over. And he's listening because he can't avoid it.

All his old buddies on Capitol Hill are giving him advice, most of it contradictory. He's being urged by some to lobby against the impeachment of the President on Capitol Hill. He's being urged by others to shut up and get lost until the trial is over, and by still others to start picking a new vice president and cabinet.

The big guy just smiles and nods. You can't interview him because the most relevant questions about what kind of administration he would have are precisely the topics he can't discuss without seeming to be disloyal to the President.

Some things about him, however, are fairly clear. He is the same open, unspoiled character. He is calm and fatalistic about his place in the current drama, as if he were an accidental player in some large inevitable script beyond his control.

He is an open and spontaneous man, accustomed to party talk and this leads him into some confusion from time to time between his loyalty to his President and his loyalty to his new role as president-in-waiting.

But as President Nixon's troubles have deepened and Ford's responsibilities have increased, the vice president has become more canny. He avoids specifics and personalities but talks a good deal about the longing in the country for peace and reconciliation.

He also talks about the need for teamwork and openness in Washington. He notes that he ran an open shop in Congress, sharing responsibility with his colleagues and keeping in close touch with the opposition leaders whom he still regards as his friends.

GERALD FORD
. . . getting lots of advice . . .

But it is not clear that he would try to put together a really outstanding ministry of exceptional talents or a bipartisan cabinet and government of reconciliation. He shies away from fancy talk like that.

He describes himself as conservative in financial matters, a moderate on social questions, and a strong supporter of Secretary of State Kissinger's pragmatism in foreign affairs.

☆ ☆ ☆

If he does have to take over, much will depend on his choice of a vice president and the role he assigns to that man. The guess here is that it will be either Nelson Rockefeller or Elliot Richardson, but that is only a guess.

Here again he is getting widely divergent advice. In a time of political upheaval, he is being told, steadiness is the main thing: The fewer the changes, the better.

This was what President Johnson did after the murder of John F. Kennedy. "Let us continue," he said, and kept the entire Kennedy cabinet into the second Johnson term.

In contrast, after the death of Franklin Roosevelt, President Truman changed most of the cabinet within six months, and even some members of the present Nixon cabinet argue that if Nixon is convicted, Ford should make a clean sweep of the whole Nixon cabinet, except Kissinger.

Ford, however, will not allow himself to be drawn into discussion of these points. He turns the conversation to questions such as the new problems before his family.

They are plain folks in a difficult situation. He has just switched jobs. They live, and have lived for many years, in a plain house on a plain street in Alexandria, Va., but in the new job as vice president, he is now regarded as a national treasure, so the Secret Service has moved into his garage and protect him night and day, and watches over his kids on dates.

Recognizing that this may be a little awkward, the government has now provided Ford with a new official residence on Massachusetts Avenue just up the hill from the British Embassy. It is an imposing white wooden structure with porches as long as a bowling alley, surrounded by grounds that could encompass a nine-hole golf course, and the whole thing could easily be maintained if the Congress would just bring back slavery.

Like most husbands, Ford is absent during the moving and leaving these details to his wife. While he's on the road, she is getting rid of the former tenant's modern furniture and picking out different rugs and drapes to fit the Victorian background.

Maybe this takes her mind off the political convulsion in their lives, but before she ever gets the new place in shape, she may have to move again. Sometimes she must wish her guy hadn't been so successful or lucky.

It has been said that if Nixon is impeached, it will ruin the country. I think he has already done that, so why give him any more time to mess it up further? He has had his fingers in the till ever since he took office.

If Nixon didn't know what was going on right under his nose (as he said he didn't), isn't that admitting pretty poor leadership? He certainly wasn't minding the store. These men he himself appointed. Mr. Nixon said Haldeman and Ehrlichman were most dedicated public servants. They, too, have proved to be crooks.

Nixon has appointed a number of young men to office, only to mortally wound them. These men were anxious to get ahead and were not seasoned in crooked politics and some are now serving time, a very sad experience.

After my husband died, I didn't make an estimate on income. I was notified I had to — or else. I wrote IRS that my income came from the farm and I never knew if I would have any or not and that I "didn't want to count my chickens before they hatched." But I got penalized. Now, I wonder if Mr. Nixon goes by those same rules. I would like to know.

I took a refresher course in law at business college and two things I have always remembered. "Before investing, investigate," and, "Never admit you are guilty." This must be what these men under Nixon and he himself are doing — swearing under oath to tell the truth. Is this any way to run a country?

I have served on election boards for over 20 years and have taken the oath of that office many times, but I had more respect for that oath than these men are displaying.

I was amazed at Rep. Sandman when he jumped down the throat of Elizabeth Holtzman at the hearings. Had he been any gentleman, he would have apologized before the TV viewer, a quality he seems to lack.

We have too many meaningless laws. They should make laws that fit everyone, not just a few. Otherwise we will defeat our purpose.

I can't condone these scores of wrong-doings. They are not just mistakes, as some have said that a president is entitled to make a few honest mistakes. Perhaps three or four, but not the number Nixon has made.

He should resign. That way he would still get the pension and otherwise not. This man is on sinking ground and if he isn't impeached, I will have no faith in justice.

Israel Ready To Negotiate Compromise Accord With Jordan

©The New York Times

Jerusalem — Israel is prepared to negotiate a compromise agreement with Jordan involving some degree of military withdrawal from the Jordan River and a limited return of Jordanian civilian administration in the Israeli-occupied West Bank, according to senior government officials here.

Although no specific proposals have yet been drawn up, the officials believe that both these elements will be involved in an initial Israeli-Jordanian pact.

In response to American urging, Israel is now prepared to open talks with Jordan as the next step in the Arab-Israeli negotiating process, rather than move directly to a second-stage agreement with Egypt. The United States has urged Israel to try to negotiate at least an interim agreement with Jordan before the next phase of the Geneva peace talks.

Preliminary contacts towards this end apparently were begun in late May, when, according to usually reliable government sources, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger arranged a secret meeting between former Premier Golda Meir and former Defense Minister Moshe Dayan with Jordan's King Hussein.

Talk In Car

According to this account, the leaders met and talked in an automobile on the Israeli-Jordanian border.

The sources said the leaders discussed the general outlines of an agreement, but not the details. Hussein reportedly stressed the need for an Israeli military withdrawal, while Mrs. Meir and Dayan proposed the return of a Jordanian civilian administration to the occupied area.

The meeting was kept secret at the request of the Jordanians, the sources said, for fear of the problems it might create for Hussein in the Arab world. Nonetheless, news of the meeting ultimately leaked to foreign journalists here, apparently by sources close to Dayan.

The sources said they had no knowledge of any further meetings. Premier Yitzhak Rabin succeeded Mrs. Meir June 3, several days after the reported meeting.

Kissinger was described as the "broker," who proposed the idea of a direct meeting to both sides during his visits to Jerusalem and Amman earlier in May. The sources said he did not participate in the talks.

The Israeli government issued a denial after the first accounts of the meeting were published, but this was regarded as pro forma by most observers in Jerusalem. Rabin repeated it in a speech before parliament Tuesday, but he made it clear at the same time that his government was prepared to meet secretly with the Jordanians if that proved necessary.

"Israel has not and will not neglect any opportunity to achieve contacts as openly as possible and as directly as possible with every neighboring country," he said. "Nor shall we reject even opportunities to conduct dialogues without publicity, should the opposite side so desire for reasons of its own."

Demand Won't Be Met

Discussing the possible elements of an Israeli-Jordanian agreement in interviews here in the last two days, Israeli officials stressed that Israel was not prepared to grant Hussein's demand for an Israeli withdrawal of some six to eight miles in depth along the entire length of the Jordan River.

But the officials said more limited withdrawals at various points along the river — such as the key Damiya and Allenby bridges and the Jericho area — would be "conceivable."

"I think the Rabin government is prepared to consider limited withdrawals as part of an agreement," one official said.

Israel would insist, however, on maintaining military positions along most of the length of the Jordan River as insurance against a surprise Arab attack from the east.

Under this plan, Jordanian civil administration would move into the areas evacuated by the Israelis, including Jericho. Jordanian civilian authorities might also begin to administer other populated areas of the West Bank.

The crucial issue of Jerusalem, in the opinion of Israeli officials, would probably be left to a later stage in the negotiations.

None of these Israeli "ideas," as the officials described them, have yet been codified into a formal proposal. The officials say it is too early for that since it is not yet clear when, where and under what auspices negotiations with Jordan might be held.

Israeli, Lebanese Forces Clash On Border

By The Associated Press

Lebanese and Israeli forces clashed Tuesday along their common border. Israel claimed the fighting stemmed from the kidnaping of four Arabs working in Israel, but Lebanon blamed it on an incursion by Israeli halftracks into a Lebanese village.

There was no word of casualties.

The Israeli command said the fighting started when armed infiltrators from Lebanon crossed into Israel and kidnaped four Arab laborers working on a security fence along the Lebanese border. The command said Israeli troops tried to save the workers, but failed to retrieve them and seized "six suspects" instead.

The command report indicated Israeli troops crossed into Lebanon to seize the suspects. It said Israeli forces exchanged mortar fire with Lebanese troops.

In Beirut, the Lebanese Defense Ministry said the clash began when four Israeli halftracks crossed the border into the farming village of Majidieh under a cover of artillery fire. The ministry said Lebanese and Israeli gunners exchanged heavy artillery fire for 45 minutes.

Ten more Israeli halftracks were stationed just across the border near Majidieh, the ministry said. Various reports from southern Lebanon said the Israelis conducted a house-to-house search in Majidieh, apparently looking for Palestinian guerrillas, and took four Lebanese citizens with them.

The Israeli communique said the incident occurred near Mt. Dov, where the Syrian, Israeli and Lebanese borders converge.

The Israeli statement said the Israeli troops were called into action by a fifth Arab laborer who escaped the kidnapers. The Arabs were from Majdel Shams, a Syrian village on the Golan Heights, the statement said.

In other Mideast developments, Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres claimed Tuesday in Jerusalem that the Soviet Union had supplied Syria with $2 billion in arms since the October war. He said the sum compares with a total of $2½ billion in arms in the six years preceding the war.

Responding to opposition party questions about government warnings of a possible new war in less than a year, Peres told parliament that the new Soviet hardware includes sophisticated MIG23 warplanes, missiles able to hit Israeli towns and 180mm artillery.

Syria's air force is 25 per cent bigger than in October, he said, and its stock of antiaircraft missiles has grown by 20 per cent.

Premier Yitzhak Rabin told parliament Israel was willing to make more territorial compromises. He said Israel did not regard Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's disengagement diplomacy as the final step toward peace.

L.A. Airport Bomb Kills Two

Los Angeles (UPI) — A bomb exploded in a busy ticket section of an overseas terminal at Los Angeles International Airport Tuesday, creating a "whoosh like a wind tunnel" that sent bodies flying across the lobby.

The coroner's office said two persons were known dead. One was a skycap. The other also wore the uniform of an airport employe.

Thirty six other persons, most of them passengers waiting in line to check in, were injured. The fire department said 17 were taken to hospitals, three in critical condition.

The blast originated in a row of public pay lockers adjoining a Pan American counter which was handling more than 300 check-ins for a flight to Hawaii. Some of the passengers had already boarded the plane which was in an area far from the explosion.

Plate glass windows facing the sidewalk and street were shattered along a block-long stretch and there was a rain of glass in the lobby which caused dozens of minor injuries. A telephone booth door was sprung off and luggage was ripped apart.

Ten more Israeli halftracks were stationed just across the border near Majidieh, the ministry said. Various reports from southern Lebanon said the Israelis conducted a house-to-house search in Majidieh, apparently looking for Palestinian guerrillas, and took four Lebanese citizens with them.

The Israeli communique said the incident occurred near Mt. Dov, where the Syrian, Israeli and Lebanese borders converge.

The Israeli statement said the Israeli troops were called into action by a fifth Arab laborer who escaped the kidnapers. The Arabs were from Majdel Shams, a Syrian village on the Golan Heights, the statement said.

In other Mideast developments, Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres claimed Tuesday in Jerusalem that the Soviet Union had supplied Syria with $2 billion in arms since the October war. He said the sum compares with a total of $2½ billion in arms in the six years preceding the war.

Responding to opposition party questions about government warnings of a possible new war in less than a year, Peres told parliament that the new Soviet hardware includes sophisticated MIG23 warplanes, missiles able to hit Israeli towns and 180mm artillery.

Syria's air force is 25 per cent bigger than in October, he said, and its stock of antiaircraft missiles has grown by 20 per cent.

Premier Yitzhak Rabin told parliament Israel was willing to make more territorial compromises. He said Israel did not regard Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's disengagement diplomacy as the final step toward peace.

L.A. Airport Bomb Kills Two

Los Angeles (UPI) — A bomb exploded in a busy ticket section of an overseas terminal at Los Angeles International Airport Tuesday, creating a "whoosh like a wind tunnel" that sent bodies flying across the lobby.

The coroner's office said two persons were known dead. One was a skycap. The other also wore the uniform of an airport employe.

Thirty six other persons, most of them passengers waiting in line to check in, were injured. The fire department said 17 were taken to hospitals, three in critical condition.

The blast originated in a row of public pay lockers adjoining a Pan American counter which was handling more than 300 check-ins for a flight to Hawaii. Some of the passengers had already boarded the plane which was in an area far from the explosion.

Plate glass windows facing the sidewalk and street were shattered along a block-long stretch and there was a rain of glass in the lobby which caused dozens of minor injuries. A telephone booth door was sprung off and luggage was ripped apart.

Burns Proposes Plan To Combat Unemployment

©The New York Times

Washington — Dr. Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, proposed Tuesday a $4 billion program of public service employment to create some 800,000 jobs in state and local government if the nation's unemployment rate should rise above 6% of the labor force.

Burns told a highly receptive congressional Joint Economic Committee that this would ease the pain of a necessarily prolonged program of budgetary and monetary restraint on the economy to cure inflation.

He also termed "wholesome" a suggestion of Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., that in enacting the new program of emergency job creation Congress should also "trigger in" some tax increase to pay for at least part of the program.

Percy mentioned elimination of the deduction on federal income tax returns of state and local gasoline taxes, which he said would raise $600 million in revenue.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said during a television interview last Sunday that he was "intrigued" by a similar suggestion made by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. Thus administration backing of the plan seems a good possibility.

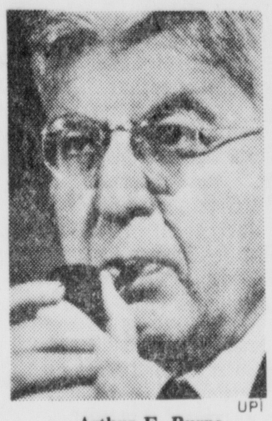
Burns also suggested toughening President Nixon's proposal of last week for a new cost of living task force to monitor price and wage increases in important sectors of the economy.

The Federal Reserve chief, speaking for the entire seven-man board, said the new agency should be empowered "to appoint ad hoc review boards that could delay wage and price increases in key industries, hold hearings, make recommendations, monitor results, issue reports, and thus bring the force of public opinion to bear on wage and price changes that appear to involve an abuse of economic power."

He suggested under questioning that the new boards should have the power to delay wage or price increase by 30 or 45 days. Without such additional power, he said, the President's proposal would be "quite ineffective." Again, he received a sympathetic response from those committee members who commented on the idea.

Question Ducked

Burns declined under questioning from Javits and Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the committee, to assess the economic effect of a transfer of power from Nixon to Vice President Ford, the Federal Reserve, he said, "must stay out of impeachment politics."



UPI

Arthur F. Burns

Asked if there might not be a "new spirit of cooperation" on the part of business and labor in exercising price and wage restraint, he said, "There is a distinction between rhetoric and reality, and the rhetoric will improve more than the reality."

As for a possible improvement in the stock market from the removal or resignation of the President, he said only that "the fortunes of the stock market will depend fundamentally on corporate profits and the level and direction of interest rates."

He called profits "dangerously low" despite recent increases in the dollar amount of profits reported.

In his prepared statement and in response to questions Burns reiterated the basic government policy of sustained monetary and fiscal (budget) restraint, with a resulting "period of slow growth" in the economy and "a higher rate of unemployment than any of us would like."

He made other points:

—There has been some "financial adventuring" on the part of banks which is "especially deplorable," but taken as a whole "the commercial banking system in the United States is entirely sound and can be counted on to continue to function efficiently."

—Unlike Simon, he feels that dealing with the huge financial flows resulting from higher oil prices is an "unmanageable problem in the absence of a reduction in prices." Central banks alone cannot cope with the problem.

—While the economy remains sluggish "recent economic movements do not have the characteristics of a cumulative decline in business activity."

Investors Flock To Buy 9% Notes

©The New York Times

New York — Thousands of investors, most of them disgruntled with interest rates on their savings accounts and not interested in the stock market, flocked Tuesday to buy the federal government's new 9% notes — the highest rate ever put on a Treasury issue maturing in more than a year.

Demand for the notes was so great that the actual yield investors will get on them will be somewhat less than 9%. Even so, the return will be a large increase from the 5½% that many, if not most, of the purchasers were getting on their money before withdrawing it from savings accounts.

An estimated 5,000 to 6,000 individuals waited patiently in the sunshine outside the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in downtown Manhattan and then filed through the heavily guarded building to fill out forms to purchase the notes — a process that generally took three hours or more.

"It must be the best investment in the country," one onlooker remarked after he inquired why so many had gathered in front of the bank.

The record 9% interest rate that the Treasury had fixed on the notes late last week was clearly the attraction for the investors. In addition, they liked the safety of lending to the United States government at a time when dividend omissions made them suspect utility and bank securities. They also liked not paying any brokerage fee to buy the notes.

And there did not seem to be concern that the price of the notes was likely to fluctuate in the bond market during the 33 months to maturity on May 15, 1977. "We love Las Vegas," one purchaser remarked with a smile.

For investors, the additional income was impressive. Albert Ferrerio, a retired Manhattan printer, calculated for example that he would get about 2¼ percentage points more in income by switching from his savings account. "And I don't have to pay state and city income taxes on the income," he noted happily.

For his $10,000 investment, the change would produce roughly $1,000 more in income over the 33-month life of the notes, Ferrerio calculated.

Rush: Fight Inflation, 'Buy Something Else'

Washington (AP) — Kenneth Rush, the President's economic counselor, said Tuesday that Americans should "buy something else" when confronted with a product in great demand but short supply.

That is an example, he said, of ways in which citizens can give their full cooperation to the government in fighting inflation, which he called "a worldwide phenomenon."

Rush made the statement to the national conference of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

U.S. Faces Depression —Meany

CHICAGO AP) — George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said Tuesday that the United States faces an economic depression, partly because of a lack of confidence in the presidency.

He also repeated his position was that President Nixon should resign.

"We're in a recession now and approaching a disasterous depression, and one of the contributing causes is the lack of confidence in this country in the President," said Meany, who was in Chicago for a meeting of the labor federation's executive council.

"For the next four months the executive branch will be crippled, Meany said, referring to House impeachment proceedings, preparations for a Senate trial and the trial itself.

Even at present, he said, "We don't have a functioning executive branch. The President is not functioning as he should be."

The union leader said the executive branch lacks direction and tries to operate with many important jobs unfilled.

He said Nixon's revelations Monday about Watergate show again that if he does not resign "surely he should be impeached and surely he should be tried by the Senate."

He said there seems to be no end to Watergate revelations, commenting that the President's statement was not really like the other shoe dropping. "It's the 465th shoe," he said.

If Nixon is still in office in the fall, Meany said, the congressional elections will be a disaster for the Republican party, "and I mean a real disaster."

He predicted the GOP would lose 60 seats in the House. There are now 187 Republican representatives.

Trials Of Cesar Chavez Continue

By JOE BIGHAM
Associated Press Writer

Keene, Calif. — The trials of Cesar Chavez go on.

In the spring of 1972, he hoped to begin concentrating on philosophical aspects of "La Causa," the cause of improving the lives of field hands that his United Farm Workers of America then dominated.

He would let ranch committees of working members solve union-grower conflicts, even renegotiating historic table grape contracts due to expire the next year, Chavez told an interviewer.

He began regular seminars for workers at La Paz, the union's headquarters in this central California town, to "raise their consciousness, create brotherhood, a dedication to the struggle and a commitment to nonviolence."

Chavez even dreamed of eventually cooperating for better crop prices with small farmers, whom he considered "glorified farm workers with a mortgage. If they organized for better prices, it becomes our interest."

A year later, his hopes vanished as the UFW was jolted back into a struggle to survive as a union, a battle Chavez thought he had won with the successful grape boycott and strike of the 1960s.

By early this year Chavez had been stripped of most of his union's membership. From 250 pacts covering 55,000 workers in 1972 the union shrank to 20 contracts representing about 12,000 workers. Only one California table grape pact is left.

Growers, who struggled to avoid any unionization before capitulating to Chavez in 1970, swung sharply to the Teamsters when contracts expired last year. Today, according to organizer James Hanson, the Teamsters have about 306 contracts in the 13 Western states covering a potential 80,000 workers during peak summer harvest.

Chavez believes his union will prevail, and UFW organizers are negotiating with several growers. There is picketing of table grape and fruit ranches and strawberry fields, and Chavez has been waging a sagging nationwide boycott of non-UFW California table grapes and iceberg lettuce.

But the Teamsters, who concentrated the past two years on ousting the UFW from the vineyards and adding farm workers to their ranks, are confident their successes will continue.

Wages are not a significant issue. The Teamsters' latest contract calls for a $2.52 an hour minimum, one cent more than the UFW's lone table grape pact.

Most of Chavez' trouble stems from allegations of poor administration of hiring halls the UFW set up to break the power of some unscrupulous labor contractors. Chavez concedes the validity of some charges but says the problems were being overcome. He insists the UFW's troubles stem mainly from a grower-Teamster "conspiracy," an allegation denied by both groups.

Many workers in the state's grape, vegetable and fruit areas — agriculture is still California's No. 1 money-maker — have carried cards from both unions, showing whichever is recognized at a given ranch.

"I don't care what union comes in or if none does," one field hand said. "All I want is to be able to work."

At Keene Larson's 160-acre Coachella Valley vineyard — one of the first to sign with Chavez in 1970 — workers voted 2 to 1 not to affiliate with either union. The UFW accused Larson of rigging the election.

Still, although nonunion sentiments are shared by him and other growers, Larson later negotiated a contract with the Teamsters. Most growers have been told by their brokers that publicity has made it almost impossible to sell grapes that have not been picked by some union.

Lionel Steinberg of Thermal, the lone table grape grower still with Chavez, had complaints about the UFW hiring hall — "frequently union leadership in the hiring hall was young and inexperienced and inflexible, which resulted in some alienation" — but believes most of the problems have been rectified.

He likes Chavez, saying he has "made some significant contributions to the welfare for farm workers that probably exceeded that done by anyone in this century."

Chavez is fighting back with the lettuce and grape boycott. It began last year, but its success has been minimal, despite the AFL-CIO, to which the UFW belongs. The labor group urged its 13.5 million members to support the boycott.

The first grape boycott, which ended in 1970, rallied many consumers to the UFW's side and made Chavez a hero to liberals. Chavez hopes to bolster support for the new boycott with advertising campaigns financed by AFL-CIO money.

He also hopes his union will begin to see "some signs of a reversal" away from the Teamsters.

Growers say Teamster pacts are attractive because they do not require establishment of union-administered hiring halls. Instead of using the workers dispatched by the union, a grower can hire whomever he wants as long as he joins the Teamsters in 10 days. Chavez says this has resulted in growers hiring illegal Mexican immigrants who often work for less than American farm hands. Growers deny the allegation.

Growers who switched to the Teamsters branded the UFW hiring hall a failure because workers weren't dispatched efficiently when needed.

"We can't be at the mercy of union dispatch hall people, and management has to have the right to get its own workers," said John Giumarra of Delano, general counsel for the state's largest table grape grower.

Some ex-UFW workers claimed the hiring hall dispatchers played favorites. Others were irritated at signup procedures that sometimes split families with only one car among different ranches.

In an interview Chavez acknowledged there were some "administrative problems" with the hiring halls but said they were being overcome as the union passed through the "growing pains" phases of development.

He considers the hiring hall a must.

"It gives workers the right to determine by their own democratic process the rules and regulations about how they get hired and the conditions of their work," he explained.

Chavez contends the growers, still spiteful at the UFW for unionizing farm workers, are using the hiring hall issue to cover a conspiracy with the Teamsters to destroy the UFW.

"If there were no Teamsters, we'd easily have a $3 base pay scale instead of $2.50," Chavez said, "and our union would have 100,000 workers organized in the state.

"Don't forget that the Teamsters don't organize workers — they organize growers. They sign sweetheart deals with the growers and tell the workers they now belong to a union."

Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons says the Teamsters have worked hard for the workers — "for the first time there is a strong union of farm workers of their own choosing," he explained.

Several growers say they prefer working with the "pros" of the Teamsters to the "angry young men" of the UFW.

Fitzsimmons earlier this month officially chartered an agricultural workers local — Local 1973 — which is being headquartered in Salinas. The states covered by it are California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Hawaii, Utah and Alaska.

Whether California's 300,000 farm labor force wants the Teamsters, the UFW — or no union — has never been accurately determined. There are no secret ballot union representation elections for farm workers.

Couple Returns After Retirement Ends In Cyprus

NEW WINDSOR, N.Y. (AP) — John and Irene Savas are back in this peaceful Hudson Valley town nine months after moving to Cyprus to retire. The "golden years" were abruptly ended by bombs, shells and gunfire as a military coup racked the Mediterranean island.

"I'll go back to visit, but not to live," said John Savas who sold his tailor shop in nearby Newburgh before leaving. The Savas couple is now thinking of settling in the relative peace and quiet of Florida.

They took all their household goods with them, but came back with only one suitcase and the portable radio neighbors gave them as a retirement present. They had their first word of the coup over that radio.

Eagleton Renominated

By The Associated Press

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, who stepped down as a vice presidential candidate two years ago, easily won renomination to the Senate in Missouri's Democratic primary Tuesday and said he will never again seek national office.

"I have no national ambitions whatsoever, whether to seek higher office or be asked," said Eagleton, who withdrew as George McGovern's running mate in 1972 after disclosures that Eagleton had undergone treatment for mental depression.

"I don't think the events of 1972 have been forgotten, but when put into their historical context, voters will cast ballots based on the events of 1974 and not what happened in 1972," he said.

This fall, Eagleton will face the man he defeated for the Senate six years ago, former Republican Congressman Thomas B. Curtis.

In St. Louis's predominantly black 1st District, William Clay, Missouri's only black congressman, defeated black businessman Clifton Gates in the Democratic primary,

Clay's Republican opponent this fall will be Arthur O. Martin, who defeated Fred H. Stout and Larry S. Conley.

In Kansas, U.S. Rep. Bill Roy won the Democratic nomination to challenge U.S. Sen. Bob Dole in November. Dole, a former Republican national chairman, was unopposed in the GOP primary.

Robert F. Bennett, president of the Kansas Senate, led three opponents in the Republican gubernatorial primary.

State Atty. Gen. Vern Miller was unopposed for the Democratic nomination for governor.

In Michigan, former state Sen. Sander Levin defeated former Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Incumbent Gov. William G. Milliken, who defeated Levin in the 1970 general election, was unopposed in the Republican primary.

As voters went to the polls Tuesday, Michigan's nine Republican congressmen announced they would vote for impeachment of President Nixon.

Voters in the Detroit suburb of Inkster approved a resolution to impeach President Nixon.

The referendum question asked: "Should President Nixon be impeached? The vote was 1,677 for impeachment, and 449 against.

Aid To Vietnam Cut $300 Million

Washington (UPI) — House critics of defense spending, gaining their first victories in two years, late Tuesday pushed through a surprise $300 million cut in proposed military aid for South Vietnam and killed funding for a proposed new nerve gas.

In yet another victory the bloc cut from the defense budget for the next 11 months a $5 million secret contingency fund used by the secretary of defense.

But Pentagon supporters successfully defeated a move to junk the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system on a vote of 219 to 182.

Working late on an $83.7 billion defense appropriation bill for fiscal 1975, the House accepted by a vote of 233 to 157 an amendment reducing the Vietnam military aid figure to $700 million. The administration initially had asked $1.45 billion but later said it could live with a House-Senate compromise of $1 billion.

In a non-record vote of 63 to 34 the House decreed a cut of 10% in the number of U.S. personnel stationed in South Vietnam, most of them connected with the embassy. The measure would require the U.S. mission to cut its staff from 3,288 to 2,850.

Funding for the proposed new nerve gas, intended as a replacement for older stocks of a gas which is difficult to transport safely, was killed on a 214 to 186 vote.

Defeat of the Army's request for $5.8 million to start making the new gas — which is theoretically safer to transport because its two components are not lethal until mixed together — marked the first liberal victory on a defense measure in the House in two years.

Low Down Business Is Risky

Railroad Car Blast Kills 2

Wenatchee, Wash. (AP) — Two persons were killed and more than 60 injured Tuesday when a tank car, apparently filled with a volatile chemical, exploded in a railroad yard near here, officials said.

"We can't locate this car so we're pretty sure that's the one that's blown up," a spokesman for the Burlington Northern Railroad said.

He said at least four other tank cars carrying chemicals that were potentially explosive were moved from rail yard.

Fire Chief Glen Harris said the chemcial in the tank cars was ammonium-nitrate, used in making fertilizer. He said its explosive potential was equivalent to low-grade dynamite.

Chelan County sheriff's deputies said David M. Jones, a railroad switchman, and an unidentified transient were killed as a result of the blast.

Most of the injuries were suffered by residents who lived in homes about 1½ blocks from the scene of the explosion.

The Burlington spokesman said, "The explosion reduced the area near the yard to rubble. Several homes have been wiped out."

The explosion occurred about three miles south of here. The rail yard is bordered on the east by the Columbia River and by a reidential area on the west.

Police said more than a dozen homes were destroyed and a doctor said after touring the residential area that he found people walking around with cuts and in shock shortly after the blast.

The blast scattered debris across the half-mile-wide river, and an area within a mile radius of the explosion was evacuated.

An Amtrak ticket agent said: "It blew everything out. The lights went out. The phones went out. And it darned near blew me off the chair, and I was a mile and a half from it."

Bill To Cut White House Staff Passed By House

Washington (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate Tuesday a compromise bill to limit the number of high-paid White House assistants to the President. Passage was by a voice vote.

Backers contended the White House staffs have grown enormously over the years, and that the staff men wield much of the power in government without being responsible to Congress.

The bill would not require President Nixon to make cuts in his current staff.

Rep. Edward Derwinski, R-Ill., and other Republicans charged the bill was a case of pure partisan politics.

Now the President has 14 top level staff men each of whom earns $42,500 a year. The bill would require that this number be reduced to 12 by Jan. 1, 1976 and to eight from Jan. 20, 1977, and thereafter.

The number of staff men in lesser grades is reduced on a similar schedule.

In the Senate, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., began a filibuster against the bill, seeking to force reconsideration of his proposal to restrict White House access to Internal Revenue Service files. The measure does not include the provision, which grew out of the Senate Watergate Committee's investigation. Weicker was a member of the committee.

Eagleton Renominated

By The Associated Press

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, who stepped down as a vice presidential candidate two years ago, easily won renomination to the Senate in Missouri's Democratic primary Tuesday and said he will never again seek national office.

"I have no national ambitions whatsoever, whether to seek higher office or be asked," said Eagleton, who withdrew as George McGovern's running mate in 1972 after disclosures that Eagleton had undergone treatment for mental depression.

"I don't think the events of 1972 have been forgotten, but when put into their historical context, voters will cast ballots based on the events of 1974 and not what happened in 1972," he said.

This fall, Eagleton will face the man he defeated for the Senate six years ago, former Republican Congressman Thomas B. Curtis.

In St. Louis's predominantly black 1st District, William Clay, Missouri's only black congressman, defeated black businessman Clifton Gates in the Democratic primary,

Clay's Republican opponent this fall will be Arthur O. Martin, who defeated Fred H. Stout and Larry S. Conley.

In Kansas, U.S. Rep. Bill Roy won the Democratic nomination to challenge U.S. Sen. Bob Dole in November. Dole, a former Republican national chairman, was unopposed in the GOP primary.

Robert F. Bennett, president of the Kansas Senate, led three opponents in the Republican gubernatorial primary.

State Atty. Gen. Vern Miller was unopposed for the Democratic nomination for governor.

In Michigan, former state Sen. Sander Levin defeated former Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Incumbent Gov. William G. Milliken, who defeated Levin in the 1970 general election, was unopposed in the Republican primary.

As voters went to the polls Tuesday, Michigan's nine Republican congressmen announced they would vote for impeachment of President Nixon.

Voters in the Detroit suburb of Inkster approved a resolution to impeach President Nixon.

The referendum question asked: "Should President Nixon be impeached? The vote was 1,677 for impeachment, and 449 against.

Aid To Vietnam Cut $300 Million

Washington (UPI) — House critics of defense spending, gaining their first victories in two years, late Tuesday pushed through a surprise $300 million cut in proposed military aid for South Vietnam and killed funding for a proposed new nerve gas.

In yet another victory the bloc cut from the defense budget for the next 11 months a $5 million secret contingency fund used by the secretary of defense.

But Pentagon supporters successfully defeated a move to junk the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system on a vote of 219 to 182.

Working late on an $83.7 billion defense appropriation bill for fiscal 1975, the House accepted by a vote of 233 to 157 an amendment reducing the Vietnam military aid figure to $700 million. The administration initially had asked $1.45 billion but later said it could live with a House-Senate compromise of $1 billion.

In a non-record vote of 63 to 34 the House decreed a cut of 10% in the number of U.S. personnel stationed in South Vietnam, most of them connected with the embassy. The measure would require the U.S. mission to cut its staff from 3,288 to 2,850.

Funding for the proposed new nerve gas, intended as a replacement for older stocks of a gas which is difficult to transport safely, was killed on a 214 to 186 vote.

Defeat of the Army's request for $5.8 million to start making the new gas — which is theoretically safer to transport because its two components are not lethal until mixed together — marked the first liberal victory on a defense measure in the House in two years.

Railroad Car Blast Kills 2

Wenatchee, Wash. (AP) — Two persons were killed and more than 60 injured Tuesday when a tank car, apparently filled with a volatile chemical, exploded in a railroad yard near here, officials said.

"We can't locate this car so we're pretty sure that's the one that's blown up," a spokesman for the Burlington Northern Railroad said.

He said at least four other tank cars carrying chemicals that were potentially explosive were moved from rail yard.

Fire Chief Glen Harris said the chemcial in the tank cars was ammonium-nitrate, used in making fertilizer. He said its explosive potential was equivalent to low-grade dynamite.

Chelan County sheriff's deputies said David M. Jones, a railroad switchman, and an unidentified transient were killed as a result of the blast.

Most of the injuries were suffered by residents who lived in homes about 1½ blocks from the scene of the explosion.

The Burlington spokesman said, "The explosion reduced the area near the yard to rubble. Several homes have been wiped out."

The explosion occurred about three miles south of here. The rail yard is bordered on the east by the Columbia River and by a reidential area on the west.

Police said more than a dozen homes were destroyed and a doctor said after touring the residential area that he found people walking around with cuts and in shock shortly after the blast.

Please help me find a two-piece ornamental donkey and cart planter for my yard.

—Flower Lover, York

ACTION LINE: Campbell's Nursery and Garden Center, 2342 So. 40th St., carries just the lawn mate you're looking for. The red-trimmed wagon has 17 x 10 inches of planter space and the donkey stands 24 inches high. Cost is $36.95.

When are the Cincinnati Reds holding their tryouts in Lincoln?

—Tom Compton, Syracuse

ACTION LINE: Sorry, Tom, you missed joining the Reds this year. Scouts gave local hitters a chance to show their stuff June 28 at Sherman Field, 2nd and South Sts.

But keep swingin'. Loran Cottrell, adjutant of the Lincoln American Legion Post No. 3 which provides the field for the tryouts, says the scouts will blaze a trail back to Nebraska again next year in late June.

How can I subscribe to the Lincoln Gazette?

—Rae Schupack, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Write the Lincoln Gazette, 2814 Y St., to order 13 issues for $2.60 or 26 issues for $5.20. The paper is published once every three weeks.

Is it true there were once plans to have the Beatles perform in Lincoln?

—Still a Beatle Fan, Waverly

ACTION LINE: When the so-called Beatlemania hit the Capital City, Lincoln promoter Jim Dier proposed an August of 1966 Beatle booking. A "Beatles to Lincoln" committee was formed to get that new rock group from England here, "even if they just step off the plane and wave."

Beatles enthusiasts met with one hitch though — where to put the expected 60,000 fans. Dier suggested the University of Nebraska Memorial Stadium and offered $40,000 of the estimated $500,000 gross income for rental.

The University's reaction was thumbs down. "What would happen to the field after a Beatles concert?" officials questioned. The plans crumbled and fans had no choice but to soften their sorrow at the record store.

Are learner's permits available for motorcycle operators?

—Anxious, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Take your birth certificate or any other identification that proves you are 15 years old down to the State Department of Motor Vehicles examination bureau in the Capitol building. That's all you need to make application for a permit allowing you to legally operate a motorcycle when accompanied by a licensed Nebraska driver at least 19 years old.

Where can I take aluminum beer cans to be recycled in Lincoln?

—Larry Eret, Dorchester

ACTION LINE: Northwestern Metal, North 27 Industrial Park, accepts aluminum cans and ships them to a recycling plant, Dave Thompson, office manager said. Aluminum beer cans are now selling for about 10¢ a pound ($200 a ton), but prices fluctuate constantly with current market value.

Thompson said only a few beer cans, such as Olympia and Coors are 100% aluminum.

Where can I take my garden vegetables to be canned?

—Lazy Gardener, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Sorry, a check of local home economists and community service groups has been unsuccessful in turning up someone to can your vegetables. State food processing laws usually put the damper on the small-volume canner. Try freezing if canning turns you cold!

Will the City Parks and Recreation Dept. be sponsoring any free field trips for junior and senior high students like the ones set up for grade schoolers?

—M.Y., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: A cut in federal grants, which paid for the free trips offered low income grade school students the last three years, has braked such events to an abrupt halt, Betty Larson, supervisor of playgrounds and special activities for the Parks and Recreation Dept., said.

She said trips for teen-agers have been planned in the past, but participation was minimal. The department will plan a trip for any age group, she said, but any expenses will be your responsibility.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Your skin is an intricate covering that needs your protection and care, according to the Nebraska Medical Association.

Do you realize the elements contained in one square centimeter of skin structure?

One small square centimeter of skin includes: one yard of blood vessels, one hundred sweat glands, three thousand sensory cells at the ends of nerve fibers, four yards of nerves, twenty-five pressure apparatuses for the perception of touch stimuli, two hundred nerve endings to record pain, two sensory apparatuses for cold and twelve sensory for heat, three million cells, ten hairs, and fifteen oil glands.

A square centimeter of skin is about the size of your fingertip. Multiply that small area times the surface of your body to appreciate skin and its structure.

The Nebraska Medical Association suggests you care for your skin. Protect it from excessive exposure to burning sun rays. Cleanse it regularly. Protect your skin so it may protect you properly.

Garbage May Become Car Fuel

(Editor's note: Garbage no longer means waste. Gordon Graff, an assistant editor at Chemical Week, a McGraw-Hill publication, explains how recycling refuse will save the consumer money.)

By GORDON GRAFF

New York — Some day, perhaps as early as 1980, your neighborhood garbage collector may head not for the city dump, but to a special treatment center where the litter will be transformed into high-grade, low polluting fuel for your car.

The secret lies in a new process that U.S. Army researchers have developed for converting cellulose into glucose, a simple sugar. Cellulose, which is found in such items as paper, cardboard, cotton, leaves and straw, makes up about half the weight of municipal waste. Chemically, it is composed of a long chain of glucose molecules.

Breaking down the chain by ordinary chemical means is expensive and impractical. However, scientists have found that a fungus known as Tricoderma Viride can produce large amounts of an enzyme — a substance that speeds up a chemical reaction that is capable of breaking down the cellulose into glucose easily and relatively cheaply. The glucose can subsequently be turned into ethanol, or grain alcohol.

Leo Spano, manager of the Army project, claims that the large amounts of ethanol produced could be blended with ordinary gasoline and water to produce a motor fuel that is cheaper than pure gasoline.

Better Mileage Given

Furthermore, it gives better mileage and is far less polluting. Already, he notes, scientists at Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. have patented a similar successful formula involving a type of alcohol called butanol. The new process, says Spano, could help the nation dispose of its ever-growing mountains of garbage, and simultaneously upgrade the quality of the air and alleviate the energy shortage.

One of the great advantages of the new process, Spano says, is that it can start with any waste that contains cellulose, even animal manure. Consequently, the waste needs no pretreatment. "The enzyme is specific," he says. "It touches nothing but the cellulose." Impurities in the garbage, he adds, do not hinder the conversion process.

Spano estimates that treatment of the total yearly output of wastes in the U.S. with the new process could produce an amount of ethanol equivalent (in terms of energy value) to 15 per cent of the gasoline currently produced in the U.S.

Amount Higher

If other cellulose sources were tapped, the amount of useful fuel would be much higher, Spano asserts.

There are other potential benefits from the cellulose project, says Spano. Ethanol can be chemically converted to produce valuable plastics or into solvents used in the chemical industry.

In addition, the first-stage glucose can be converted into antibiotics and drugs, citric acid (a soft drink ingredient), and can be used in the production of protein for animal feed or as a human nutritional supplement.

In order to develop technology for large-scale production, the Army has built a pilot plant at its Natick, Mass. facility that treats 1000 lbs. per month of waste paper. Once a workable model is achieved, Spano says, the researchers hope to construct a larger demonstration plant with a capacity of 200,000 lbs. of paper per month. Work on the demonstration plant could start as soon as 18 months from now, Spano says, "provided we get all the support we need." Such support, he hopes, will come from the federal and state governments.

While Spano does not think cellulose conversion will solve the nation's energy problems, he believes it is a good beginning.

Council Okays Budget Proposal For Clinton

By LYNN ZERSCHING
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Tuesday night somewhat reluctantly approved the proposed budget for redeveloping the Clinton neighborhood. That plan came under fire during budget hearings last week.

But, while the lawmakers authorized the $122,925 budget for Phase I of the development, they earmarked another $13,000 to hire professional help to put the finishing touches on plan.

Community Development Director Leo Scherer had budgeted $13,000 to hire a redevelopment coordinator. The council didn't like that idea.

And Councilman Steve Cook again questioned the scope of the plan and its design.

It was on Cook's suggestion that the council agreed to contract with university students and local architects who would be willing to assist in the plans.

After the proposal, which would pave streets, put in a park and add other improvements, came under fire last week, Scherer submitted a report outlining the amount of time spent developing the plan.

Cook was not impressed, asking, "Does it take 2,000 hours to do down there and propose exactly what the people wanted in the first place?"

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf defended the plan.

"This is the peoples' plan. We worked on it together."

Other council members questioned the proposed city subsidy formula under which the city would pay 75% of street paving cost. Property owners would pick up the remaining 25%.

The lawmakers decided to tackle that issue at a later date.

And on another budget item, this time their own, a somewhat cantankerous group of lawmakers again hassled over whether or not to hire an assistant.

Earlier this summer, a majority of the group agreed to budget $16,000 for a legislative assistant. In June, the city received a $6,000 grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to help pay that salary.

But, Tuesday night, Councilman Max Denney and Dick Baker called the expenditure unnecessary and frivolous.

Said Baker, "Whatever this guy can do can be done by existing people in existing city departments."

And Denney's argument that the assistant would become a city manager or, worse yet, a "second mayor," elicited an "absurd" reply from Councilwoman Helen Boosalis.

"The city is exploding all over the place. The only place it hasn't is in the City Council," Boosalis retorted, adding, "It's ridiculous for us to operate on a shoestring."

Councilman Bob Sikyta, long a proponent of hiring some outside help, maintained, "I've done my damnedest to be a productive councilman. But we're kidding ourselves if we think we don't need an assistant."

Denney warned that with a legislative aide the council would start encroaching more and more on executive functions.

Boosalis said she saw the danger as relying entirely on the administration for reports and information.

"I've been asking for a home occupation ordinance for how long now? And where's your mobile home ordinance?" she asked Denney.

Cook asserted the assistant would be "just another body" which the council couldn't get rid of later.

Additionally, Cook contended that a $16,000 salary could not hire the kind of expertise the council wanted — fiscal analysist, researcher, assistant.

Councilwoman Sue Bailey said she would be willing to budget funds to hire outside "experts" but pointed out few are available.

"We need some brains to help us," she said. "I don't care if we contract for it or hire someone full time, just so we get it."

The lawmakers finally compromised on a $20,000 figure earmarked for "professional services," thus leaving the door open for future discussions. Denney cast the lone no vote.

Ship Welcomes New Commander

BOSTON (AP) — The USS Constitution welcomed aboard her 59th commanding officer Tuesday.

He is Navy Cmdr. Tyrone G. Martin, installed in ceremonies on the berthing deck of the nation's oldest commissioned ship, known as Old Ironsides.

Dog's Rescuer Slain

Detroit (UPI) — An elderly man was stabbed to death because he tried to save a dog's life.

Police said Joseph Peoples, 64, tried to stop an unidentified man from slashing a dog's throat.

The man killed the dog, according to witnesses, and then told Peoples to "shut up, old man, or I'll kill you, too."

The assailant left the scene, police said, but returned later with four friends and repeatedly stabbed Peoples in the chest.

When a witness threatened to call police, one of the assailants began shooting at random on the West Side street.

Three persons were wounded and were listed in serious condition at Ford Hospital.

Police said they have three suspects in the incident.

Funds Earmarked For Jail Proposals

Largely at the pushing of Councilwoman Sue Bailey, city lawmakers Tuesday night earmarked $25,000 to establish correctional programs and planning for the city jail.

The vote was 5-2 with Councilmen Max Denney and Dick Baker opposing that move. And Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf let it be known he didn't think the council was making a wise decision, either.

Schwartzkopf pointed out that the Jail Study Committee is working on recommendations and suggested that it would be useless to budget funds until specific proposals are made.

But Bailey, responded that the jail has been in operation for a number of years, that every year it is suggested that a corrections program be instituted and yet nothing has been done.

"So far there has been no administration response to those requests," said Bailey, who has devoted her volunteer efforts in recent years to correction reforms.

The mayor said he has yet to hear any specific proposals, except for an exercise area for inmates lodged at the jail.

Bailey said the only reason that construction of an exercise area has become an issue is because "there's been no response to the real need — a corrections staff."

"Nobody's saying we don't care," the mayor stated.

The majority of the council agreed that the $25,000 should be set aside pending specific recommendations from the Jail Study Committee and other groups.

On another controversial item the council took the first step toward consolidating the legal staffs under one roof.

The council transfered the Police Department's legal advisor to the city attorney's staff. The city had received federal funds for the attorney. This year the city is picking up the entire salary, which is $16,432.

Councilmen John Robinson and Dick Baker opposed the transfer. Robinson said he felt a more thorough review should be made and police department officials consulted before the trade was made.

In earlier budget discussions, the council agreed to meet with the administrative boards of the Lincoln Electric System (LES) and Lincoln General Hospital to discuss closer ties between the boards' legal counsels and the city legal department.

The council also agreed Tuesday that the entire issue of city-hospital cooperation should be discussed with the hospital board.

Bailey questioned why the hospital's administrator is paid $10,500 a year from private, Lincoln Hospital Association funds. The association is a private corporation. The remaining $32,000 of the administrator's salary is paid by the public body, the hospital board.

Baker, a former council representative on the board, explained that administrator Bob Brungard handles the association's trusts and other funds.

Then, Bailey asked, "What does their attorney do for them?"

In further business the council added $70,000 to the budget to study, along with LES, the conversion of solid waste to fuel and other uses.

Hinky Dinky To Reopen Transmatic System Soon

The Transmatic Money System which gained court approval Monday will be reopened in the two Lincoln Hinky Dinky stores in the very near future.

John Dean, executive vice-president of First Federal Lincoln, told The Star that he anticipates approval yet this month from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to reopen the service at the Hinky Dinky stores at 59th & Adams and 17th & South.

Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin ruled Monday that American Community Stores, doing business with Hinky Dinky, is not engaged in a banking or savings and loan function and therefore is not in violation of Nebraska's banking laws.

The state of Nebraska, which brought the suit challenging the Transmatic Money System, had contended that Hinky Dinky's acceptance of deposits and paying funds on behalf of First Federal Lincoln are "essential elements of the banking business or the building and loan business."

Dean said it is possible that the service will be expanded into other Hinky Dinky stores, but that such a proposal has not been discussed to date.

Man Seized For Mailing Fatal Bomb

Yakima, Wash. (UPI) — U.S. Postal inspectors Tuesday arrested Ricky A. Young on charges of mailing the pipe bomb that killed Superior Court Judge James Lawless in his Pasco, Wash., office in June.

Young, a 22-year-old laborer from Prosser, Wash., was arrested in Richland, Wash., and brought here for an appearance before a federal magistrate.

He was held without bail in the Yakima County Jail.

Mobil Oil To Buy Marcor

NEW YORK (AP) — Mobil Oil Corp. announced Tuesday a cash tender offer to gain 51 per cent control of the stock of Marcor Inc., parent company of Montgomery Ward department store and catalogue chain.

Under terms agreed to by both firms, Mobil would pay $35 a share for common stock, and $70 a share on Marcor series "A" preferred. Marcor's common stock traded Tuesday at $24.25, and the preferred at $48 before trading in both issues was halted shortly before the stock market closed pending the new development.

Mobil now owns 1,235,000 shares of Marcor common. The oil company previously announced on June 17 plans to increase its interest in Marcor to a controlling 51 per cent from the 4.5 per cent it already owned. Marcor has nearly 29 million outstanding shares of common, and nearly six million shares of series "A" preferred.

The Justice Department later said it was examining the proposed takeover, but Mobil refused to cooperate with a department request to notify it 60 days before making a formal offer for Marcor stock.

Mobil said its counsel advised that there was no violation of antitrust laws, but the Justice Department has told Mobil the acquisition is being studied for possible antitrust violations.

Omaha Woman Killed As Car Slides Into Pole

Omaha (UPI) — A 44-year-old Omaha woman was killed Tuesday when the car in which she was riding struck a power pole.

Mabel Kay was listed dead on arrival at an Omaha hospital. She was a passenger in a car driven by Richard Jones, 29, Oakland, Iowa.

Police said witnesses told them the Jones car was traveling south at high speeds on 20th Street when it apparently slid out of control on wet pavement and struck a high voltage power pole just north of 20th and Pierce Sts.

Jones, who was trapped in the car for more than an hour afterwards, was charged with motor vehicle homicide, police said.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Your skin is an intricate covering that needs your protection and care, according to the Nebraska Medical Association.

Do you realize the elements contained in one square centimeter of skin structure?

One small square centimeter of skin includes: one yard of blood vessels, one hundred sweat glands, three thousand sensory cells at the ends of nerve fibers, four yards of nerves, twenty-five pressure apparatuses for the perception of touch stimuli, two hundred nerve endings to record pain, two sensory apparatuses for cold and twelve sensory for heat, three million cells, ten hairs, and fifteen oil glands.

A square centimeter of skin is about the size of your fingertip. Multiply that small area times the surface of your body to appreciate skin and its structure.

The Nebraska Medical Association suggests you care for your skin. Protect it from excessive exposure to burning sun rays. Cleanse it regularly. Protect your skin so it may protect you properly.

Garbage May Become Car Fuel

(Editor's note: Garbage no longer means waste. Gordon Graff, an assistant editor at Chemical Week, a McGraw-Hill publication, explains how recycling refuse will save the consumer money.)

By GORDON GRAFF

New York — Some day, perhaps as early as 1980, your neighborhood garbage collector may head not for the city dump, but to a special treatment center where the litter will be transformed into high-grade, low polluting fuel for your car.

The secret lies in a new process that U.S. Army researchers have developed for converting cellulose into glucose, a simple sugar. Cellulose, which is found in such items as paper, cardboard, cotton, leaves and straw, makes up about half the weight of municipal waste. Chemically, it is composed of a long chain of glucose molecules.

Breaking down the chain by ordinary chemical means is expensive and impractical. However, scientists have found that a fungus known as Tricoderma Viride can produce large amounts of an enzyme — a substance that speeds up a chemical reaction that is capable of breaking down the cellulose into glucose easily and relatively cheaply. The glucose can subsequently be turned into ethanol, or grain alcohol.

Leo Spano, manager of the Army project, claims that the large amounts of ethanol produced could be blended with ordinary gasoline and water to produce a motor fuel that is cheaper than pure gasoline.

Better Mileage Given

Furthermore, it gives better mileage and is far less polluting. Already, he notes, scientists at Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. have patented a similar successful formula involving a type of alcohol called butanol. The new process, says Spano, could help the nation dispose of its ever-growing mountains of garbage, and simultaneously upgrade the quality of the air and alleviate the energy shortage.

One of the great advantages of the new process, Spano says, is that it can start with any waste that contains cellulose, even animal manure. Consequently, the waste needs no pretreatment. "The enzyme is specific," he says. "It touches nothing but the cellulose." Impurities in the garbage, he adds, do not hinder the conversion process.

Spano estimates that treatment of the total yearly output of wastes in the U.S. with the new process could produce an amount of ethanol equivalent (in terms of energy value) to 15 per cent of the gasoline currently produced in the U.S.

Amount Higher

If other cellulose sources were tapped, the amount of useful fuel would be much higher, Spano asserts.

There are other potential benefits from the cellulose project, says Spano. Ethanol can be chemically converted to produce valuable plastics or into solvents used in the chemical industry.

In addition, the first-stage glucose can be converted into antibiotics and drugs, citric acid (a soft drink ingredient), and can be used in the production of protein for animal feed or as a human nutritional supplement.

In order to develop technology for large-scale production, the Army has built a pilot plant at its Natick, Mass. facility that treats 1000 lbs. per month of waste paper. Once a workable model is achieved, Spano says, the researchers hope to construct a larger demonstration plant with a capacity of 200,000 lbs. of paper per month. Work on the demonstration plant could start as soon as 18 months from now, Spano says, "provided we get all the support we need." Such support, he hopes, will come from the federal and state governments.

While Spano does not think cellulose conversion will solve the nation's energy problems, he believes it is a good beginning.

Nixon Country Lawmakers To Vote For Impeachment

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

And now, almost overnight, with stunning speed, even "Nixon Country" is gone.

Nebraska, the self-proclaimed, tried, true and tested bastion of support for Richard Nixon, will cast three votes to impeach the President when the issue reaches the House of Representatives.

All three representatives — all Republicans, and each of them the recipient of past campaign assistance from Nixon — have announced that they will vote to impeach him.

Their abandonment of the President is far more significant to Nixon in terms of deadly attrition than raw arithmetic.

Consider the people they represent.

Carried Three Times

Three times the citizens of Nebraska have overwhelmingly voted to elect Richard Nixon as their president, each time by an increasingly larger margin.

In 1960, when he lost to John Kennedy, Nixon carried Nebraska with 62% of the vote, the largest percentage victory he achieved in all of the 50 states.

In 1968, when he beat Hubert Humphrey, Nixon won 65% of the vote in Nebraska, again piling up his largest percentage victory among all the states.

70% In 1972

In 1972, Nixon won re-election, gathering 70% of the votes in Nebraska and sweeping every one of its 93 counties. Only a few southern states, displaying their anathema to George McGovern, denied Nebraska the largest percentage mark for the third time.

All together, in those three years, Nebraska cast 50 votes at Republican national nominating conventions. All 50 were cast for Richard Nixon.

Nixon won GOP presidential primary elections in Nebraska in each of those three years, rising from a startling write-in total of 74,356 in 1960 to 179,464 votes in 1972.

(Even in 1964, when he was not a full-fledged candidate for the presidential nomination, he attracted 43,613 write-in votes in Nebraska's primary.)

21 Stops In All

In the past 22 years, since California Sen. Richard Nixon made his first foray into the state, he could count 21 Nebraska appearances, all of them campaign stops — except for the last one.

The last stop in Nebraska was Jan. 14, 1971, when the President came to Lincoln to honor the national champion football team of the University of Nebraska.

That was Nixon's seventh appearance in Lincoln during those two decades. He made it to Omaha eight times.

With the exception of 1962, when he sought the California governorship, and 1972, Nixon made campaign journeys to Nebraska in every election year since 1952.

Record Setter

In 1960, as vice president, he set a Republican Founders Day crowd record in Lincoln (9,000) which still stands. In 1965, he headlined a Lincoln dinner salute to Sen. Carl Curtis.

In 1970, he took his political coattails to Omaha and urged the election of all three Republican congressional nominees, speaking in John McCollister's home district, and offering special praise for Charles Thone, the former GOP state chairman who assisted him in his first presidential bid in 1960.

Now Thone and McCollister and Dave Martin will all vote to impeach him.

The President's admission about undisclosed evidence "speaks for itself," Thone said. "He's kind of pleading no contest.

'No Question'

"When he says it's virtually a foregone conclusion that he will be impeached in the House, he's right. There's no question about it, and this will include my vote."

Thone, the First District congressman, was the last of the three to announce his decision.

Earlier, Martin suggested "it's all over now."

The President's admission, the Third District congressman said, is "so obvious an obstruction of justice."

Now Overwhelming

Second District Rep. McCollister said "the major difference" resulting from Nixon's disclosure of new evidence is that the House vote to impeach will be "overwhelming."

Both Thone and Martin suggested that Nixon might best resign.

"The government's bogged down," Martin said. "We're at a standstill — out in the middle of the stream — and we've lost the oars."

Curtis Takes Defense Case To Television

Sen. Carl Curtis Tuesday took his defense of President Nixon to national television.

"I do not believe Watergate is worth starting the parade toward becoming a banana republic," Curtis said in an interview on the NBC "Today" show.

"I find nothing in the President's latest statements that says he (Nixon) was engaged in obstructing justice."

The new disclosure of evidence made by Nixon Monday is not "of such proportion that it should be the controlling factor — at least at this time — in determining the impeachment question," Curtis said.

Sen. Roman Hruska said the disclosure by Nixon "will be damaging to him and will clearly hurt his case against impeachment.

"It certainly seems that his latest statement is in major divergence with some of his previous statements," Hruska said.

"But the entire record should be considered in determining if the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment should be sustained."

Dyas Questions Why Thone Joined So Late

Democratic congressional nominee Hess Dyas Tuesday asked Republican Rep. Charles Thone, "What took you so long" in reaching a decision on the proposed impeachment of President Nixon?

Dyas welcomed Thone into "the growing camp which believes President Nixon ought to remove himself from office, or be removed."

The First District congressman "finally admitted that the sooner the whole thing is resolved, the better," Dyas said.

"It could have been better resolved, three, four or more months ago, when it was becoming apparent to a majority of Americans that the President should resign or be impeached."

If Thone and others "had provided that kind of leadership back then, Congress could have since been working on this nation's problems . . . inflation, farm disaster aid, campaign reform and so on," Dyas said.

Bank Branch Hearing Set

The state Banking Department announced a hearing will be held Sept. 24 on an application for a branch savings and loan office at Weeping Water.

The application for the branch was filed by the Plattsmouth Savings and Loan Association.

The department said the hearing would be held in its conference room beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Council Okays Budget Proposal For Clinton

By LYNN ZERSCHING
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Tuesday night somewhat reluctantly approved the proposed budget for redeveloping the Clinton neighborhood. That plan came under fire during budget hearings last week.

But, while the lawmakers authorized the $122,925 budget for Phase I of the development, they earmarked another $13,000 to hire professional help to put the finishing touches on plan.

Community Development Director Leo Scherer had budgeted $13,000 to hire a redevelopment coordinator. The council didn't like that idea.

And Councilman Steve Cook again questioned the scope of the plan and its design.

It was on Cook's suggestion that the council agreed to contract with university students and local architects who would be willing to assist in the plans.

After the proposal, which would pave streets, put in a park and add other improvements, came under fire last week, Scherer submitted a report outlining the amount of time spent developing the plan.

Cook was not impressed, asking, "Does it take 2,000 hours to do down there and propose exactly what the people wanted in the first place?"

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf defended the plan.

"This is the peoples' plan. We worked on it together."

Other council members questioned the proposed city subsidy formula under which the city would pay 75% of street paving cost. Property owners would pick up the remaining 25%.

The lawmakers decided to tackle that issue at a later date.

And on another budget item, this time their own, a somewhat cantankerous group of lawmakers again hassled over whether or not to hire an assistant.

Earlier this summer, a majority of the group agreed to budget $16,000 for a legislative assistant. In June, the city received a $6,000 grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to help pay that salary.

But, Tuesday night, Councilman Max Denney and Dick Baker called the expenditure unnecessary and frivolous.

Said Baker, "Whatever this guy can do can be done by existing people in existing city departments."

And Denney's argument that the assistant would become a city manager or, worse yet, a "second mayor," elicited an "absurd" reply from Councilwoman Helen Boosalis.

"The city is exploding all over the place. The only place it hasn't is in the City Council," Boosalis retorted, adding, "It's ridiculous for us to operate on a shoestring."

Councilman Bob Sikyta, long a proponent of hiring some outside help, maintained, "I've done my damnedest to be a productive councilman. But we're kidding ourselves if we think we don't need an assistant."

Denney warned that with a legislative aide the council would start encroaching more and more on executive functions.

Boosalis said she saw the danger as relying entirely on the administration for reports and information.

"I've been asking for a home occupation ordinance for how long now? And where's your mobile home ordinance?" she asked Denney.

Cook asserted the assistant would be "just another body" which the council couldn't get rid of later.

Additionally, Cook contended that a $16,000 salary could not hire the kind of expertise the council wanted — fiscal analysist, researcher, assistant.

Councilwoman Sue Bailey said she would be willing to budget funds to hire outside "experts" but pointed out few are available.

"We need some brains to help us," she said. "I don't care if we contract for it or hire someone full time, just so we get it."

The lawmakers finally compromised on a $20,000 figure earmarked for "professional services," thus leaving the door open for future discussions. Denney cast the lone no vote.

Ship Welcomes New Commander

BOSTON (AP) — The USS Constitution welcomed aboard her 59th commanding officer Tuesday.

He is Navy Cmdr. Tyrone G. Martin, installed in ceremonies on the berthing deck of the nation's oldest commissioned ship, known as Old Ironsides.

Dog's Rescuer Slain

Detroit (UPI) — An elderly man was stabbed to death because he tried to save a dog's life.

Police said Joseph Peoples, 64, tried to stop an unidentified man from slashing a dog's throat.

The man killed the dog, according to witnesses, and then told Peoples to "shut up, old man, or I'll kill you, too."

The assailant left the scene, police said, but returned later with four friends and repeatedly stabbed Peoples in the chest.

When a witness threatened to call police, one of the assailants began shooting at random on the West Side street.

Three persons were wounded and were listed in serious condition at Ford Hospital.

Police said they have three suspects in the incident.

Funds Earmarked For Jail Proposals

Largely at the pushing of Councilwoman Sue Bailey, city lawmakers Tuesday night earmarked $25,000 to establish correctional programs and planning for the city jail.

The vote was 5-2 with Councilmen Max Denney and Dick Baker opposing that move. And Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf let it be known he didn't think the council was making a wise decision, either.

Schwartzkopf pointed out that the Jail Study Committee is working on recommendations and suggested that it would be useless to budget funds until specific proposals are made.

But Bailey, responded that the jail has been in operation for a number of years, that every year it is suggested that a corrections program be instituted and yet nothing has been done.

"So far there has been no administration response to those requests," said Bailey, who has devoted her volunteer efforts in recent years to correction reforms.

The mayor said he has yet to hear any specific proposals, except for an exercise area for inmates lodged at the jail.

Bailey said the only reason that construction of an exercise area has become an issue is because "there's been no response to the real need — a corrections staff."

"Nobody's saying we don't care," the mayor stated.

The majority of the council agreed that the $25,000 should be set aside pending specific recommendations from the Jail Study Committee and other groups.

On another controversial item the council took the first step toward consolidating the legal staffs under one roof.

The council transfered the Police Department's legal advisor to the city attorney's staff. The city had received federal funds for the attorney. This year the city is picking up the entire salary, which is $16,432.

Councilmen John Robinson and Dick Baker opposed the transfer. Robinson said he felt a more thorough review should be made and police department officials consulted before the trade was made.

In earlier budget discussions, the council agreed to meet with the administrative boards of the Lincoln Electric System (LES) and Lincoln General Hospital to discuss closer ties between the boards' legal counsels and the city legal department.

The council also agreed Tuesday that the entire issue of city-hospital cooperation should be discussed with the hospital board.

Bailey questioned why the hospital's administrator is paid $10,500 a year from private, Lincoln Hospital Association funds. The association is a private corporation. The remaining $32,000 of the administrator's salary is paid by the public body, the hospital board.

Baker, a former council representative on the board, explained that administrator Bob Brungard handles the association's trusts and other funds.

Then, Bailey asked, "What does their attorney do for them?"

In further business the council added $70,000 to the budget to study, along with LES, the conversion of solid waste to fuel and other uses.

Hinky Dinky To Reopen Transmatic System Soon

The Transmatic Money System which gained court approval Monday will be reopened in the two Lincoln Hinky Dinky stores in the very near future.

John Dean, executive vice-president of First Federal Lincoln, told The Star that he anticipates approval yet this month from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to reopen the service at the Hinky Dinky stores at 59th & Adams and 17th & South.

Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin ruled Monday that American Community Stores, doing business with Hinky Dinky, is not engaged in a banking or savings and loan function and therefore is not in violation of Nebraska's banking laws.

The state of Nebraska, which brought the suit challenging the Transmatic Money System, had contended that Hinky Dinky's acceptance of deposits and paying funds on behalf of First Federal Lincoln are "essential elements of the banking business or the building and loan business."

Dean said it is possible that the service will be expanded into other Hinky Dinky stores, but that such a proposal has not been discussed to date.

Man Seized For Mailing Fatal Bomb

Yakima, Wash. (UPI) — U.S. Postal inspectors Tuesday arrested Ricky A. Young on charges of mailing the pipe bomb that killed Superior Court Judge James Lawless in his Pasco, Wash., office in June.

Young, a 22-year-old laborer from Prosser, Wash., was arrested in Richland, Wash., and brought here for an appearance before a federal magistrate.

He was held without bail in the Yakima County Jail.

Mobil Oil To Buy Marcor

NEW YORK (AP) — Mobil Oil Corp. announced Tuesday a cash tender offer to gain 51 per cent control of the stock of Marcor Inc., parent company of Montgomery Ward department store and catalogue chain.

Under terms agreed to by both firms, Mobil would pay $35 a share for common stock, and $70 a share on Marcor series "A" preferred. Marcor's common stock traded Tuesday at $24.25, and the preferred at $48 before trading in both issues was halted shortly before the stock market closed pending the new development.

Mobil now owns 1,235,000 shares of Marcor common. The oil company previously announced on June 17 plans to increase its interest in Marcor to a controlling 51 per cent from the 4.5 per cent it already owned. Marcor has nearly 29 million outstanding shares of common, and nearly six million shares of series "A" preferred.

The Justice Department later said it was examining the proposed takeover, but Mobil refused to cooperate with a department request to notify it 60 days before making a formal offer for Marcor stock.

Mobil said its counsel advised that there was no violation of antitrust laws, but the Justice Department has told Mobil the acquisition is being studied for possible antitrust violations.

Omaha Woman Killed As Car Slides Into Pole

Omaha (UPI) — A 44-year-old Omaha woman was killed Tuesday when the car in which she was riding struck a power pole.

Mabel Kay was listed dead on arrival at an Omaha hospital. She was a passenger in a car driven by Richard Jones, 29, Oakland, Iowa.

Police said witnesses told them the Jones car was traveling south at high speeds on 30th Street when it apparently slid out of control on wet pavement and struck a high voltage power pole just north of 30th and Pierce Sts.

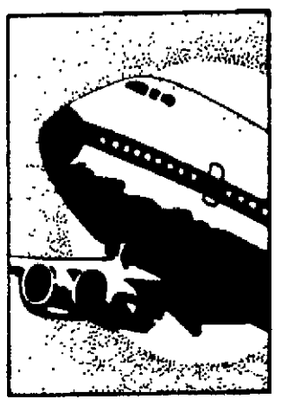
Jones, who was trapped in the car for more than an hour afterwards, was charged with motor vehicle homicide, police said.

King Receives Roa

Stockholm, Sweden (UPI) — Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa was received in audience by King Carl Gustaf, the foreign ministry said.

MoPac is, first of all, a railroad. But we're also airfreight forwarding.

Our job is distribution. Total distribution. To bring you the goods you need the best way possible. And while our rails are important, they simply can't do it all.



So MoPac has made a point of developing other capabilities, including airfreight. Today we operate this service from 64 major airports throughout the country. Working in cooperation with all major airlines.

Airfreight is just one of MoPac 17 vital shipper services which we're continually improving and adding to. So that we can always serve your community's needs. No matter how you need us.

You see, MoPac is much more than just a railroad. We're a progressive . . . total distribution system with our feet on the ground.

Waverly Denied Nursing Facility

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Elderly persons in Waverly need certain community-supported services, such as home health care, but a nursing home is not the answer, the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Planning Council decided Tuesday.

On a 10-5 vote, the council reaffirmed an earlier decision refusing to approve construction of a 60-bed nursing home in Waverly.

A re-evaluation by the council's review committee reached the same conclusion, namely, the City of Waverly failed to demonstrate a need exists.

Not only might there be too few people in need of nursing home care to make it financially feasible, review committee chairman Don Nielsen said, but it might not be able to find sufficient professional staff.

"We are satisfied there certainly is a need for additional services," Neilsen said. However, he said those needs could be met outside of a nursing home.

He said the community might consider housing for the elderly, home health care services and hot meals programs as possible alternatives.

Nielsen said, "We've offered to work with them to see what people would really want. This offer has gone without response."

Lloyd Bevans, Waverly city attorney, challenged the committee's recommendation and said, "A lot of older people would like to be in nursing homes."

As for the project's feasibility, Bevans said that decision should rest with the City of Waverly, the bonding company and the C. M. Corp., which would operate the facility.

"We have no doubts that we could fill it," Bevans said. He said the home would draw many people from northeast Lincoln where there are no nursing homes. In fact, Bevans said, there are no nursing homes north of O Street.

A representative of the C. M. Corp said many people are going outside of Lancaster County to find nursing home care.

Bill Joern of the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council said almost 90% of the nursing home beds in Lancaster County are full. The last check, he said, indicated there are 94 empty beds.

Nielsen told Bevans, "We're not saying you can't fill the nursing home. We're saying it's not needed."

The fact that ten elderly people were able to attend the hearing in support of the nursing home indicates that they do not need to be in a nursing home, Nielsen said.

Council member Ted Shafer of Lincoln favored approval of the nursing home for the reason that there are none in northern Lancaster County.

"I don't think we should force people in Waverly to come into a Lincoln nursing home," he said.

Council member Mildred Katz said the taxpayer who is paying for the revenue bonds should be kept in mind before a nursing home which is not needed is approved.

In other action, council member Max Denney, who is also a Lincoln city councilman, said he would ask the City Council to act on ordinances altering the rate-making procedure for Lincoln General Hospital without the health planning council's approval if action is not taken at the health planning council's next meeting.

Denney said a committee which has been studying whether the hospital's board of trustees or the City Council should have final authority over hospital rates has taken too long.

The council also endorsed a $50,000 study to determine the feasibility of establishing Health Maintenance Organizations (HMOs) in Lincoln. An HMO is a non-profit third-party insurer of health care.

5,000 Electric Workers Continue Omaha Strike

Omaha — A strike by 5,000 members of Local 1974, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW), continued Tuesday at the Western Electric plant here. A union official said he had "no guess" of how long the strike will last.

Whitey Clark, vice president of Local 1974, said all workers walked off the job late Sunday night. About 20 pickets greeted office and supervisory workers Tuesday as they went to their jobs.

The first strike in the Omaha works' 16-year-history began after negotiators on a national contract failed to reach agreement on a new three-year pact.

The firm's old contract with the union expired July 18.

The major points of disagreement concern wage and fringe benefit increases. The union claims the company's offers are not enough to offset the past year's cost-of-living increases resulting from inflation.

User Costs May Rise From Phone Settlement

Omaha (AP) — The reported $3 billion Bell System contract offer, which was tentatively accepted by the membership of the Communications Workers of America, may mean that Nebraska telephone users will be hearing more expensive bells when their phones ring.

A spokesman for Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., here says the settlement could force another increase in rates.

If ratified by the workers, the new agreement will cost Northwest Bell about $80 million, $11 million in Nebraska.

Company officials say labor costs are a major factor in the firm's costs of operation, and that the contract will have a "definite impact."

The new, three-year package calls for a 35.8 per cent boost in wages and fringe benefits.

Although officials say the settlement may mean Northwestern Bell will have to ask the Nebraska Public Service Commission for rate hikes, it is not known how soon such a request will be made.

Belated Report Shows Death Of Firth Man, Injured In Crash

In a belated report, Lincoln General Hospital said Tuesday that a rural Firth man injured in a truck accident near there July 25 died last Wednesday.

Albert Smice, 75, was involved in a truck accident on a gravel road about four miles west of Firth.

He sustained head and chest injuries when he lost control of the truck and struck a power pole. He had been listed in good condition.

The hospital, state patrol and mortuary were unable to say whether he died of natural causes or of injuries resulting from the accident.

Smice's physician, Dr. Y. Scott Moore was unavailable for comment.

Bellevue Misses Annual Event; To Sponsor Own Raft Regatta

Bellevue (UPI) — Bellevue promoters, miffed at being left out of the annual "Great Missouri River Raft Regatta," announced Tuesday they'll sponsor a regatta of their own.

The original regatta, sponsored the past several years by Omaha interests, formerly ran from Blair to Bellevue. This year, sponsors decided to make Omaha the finish point, and according to Bellevue spokesmen didn't even invite Bellevue to the annual planning session.

"It is not so much competition, it's more a matter of being left out," Bellevue banker Ron Johnson said. "We are starting our own Labor Day regatta beginning at Dodge Park (in north Omaha) and going down to Haworth Park in Bellevue, a distance of 26.25 miles."

Johnson said first prize in the Bellevue regatta would be $200. Entrance fee will be $15, he said, or half that of the Omaha regatta.

All contestants will use four-man rubber survival rafts. Johnson said the regatta will be capped by a festival at Haworth Park.

Retired Unionist Suffers Stroke

Elton Berck, the retired president of the Nebraska State Farmers Union, was listed in fair condition Tuesday at Bryan Memorial Hospital.

He suffered a stroke July 20, which left him partially paralyzed.

Nixon Country Lawmakers To Vote For Impeachment

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

And now, almost overnight, with stunning speed, even "Nixon Country" is gone.

Nebraska, the self-proclaimed, tried, true and tested bastion of support for Richard Nixon, will cast three votes to impeach the President when the issue reaches the House of Representatives.

All three representatives — all Republicans, and each of them the recipient of past campaign assistance from Nixon — have announced that they will vote to impeach him.

Their abandonment of the President is far more significant to Nixon in terms of deadly attrition than raw arithmetic.

Consider the people they represent.

Carried Three Times

Three times the citizens of Nebraska have overwhelmingly voted to elect Richard Nixon as their president, each time by an increasingly larger margin.

In 1960, when he lost to John Kennedy, Nixon carried Nebraska with 62% of the vote, the largest percentage victory he achieved in all of the 50 states.

In 1968, when he beat Hubert Humphrey, Nixon won 65% of the vote in Nebraska, again piling up his largest percentage victory among all the states.

70% In 1972

In 1972, Nixon won reelection, gathering 70% of the votes in Nebraska and sweeping every one of its 93 counties. Only a few southern states, displaying their anathema to George McGovern, denied Nebraska the largest percentage mark for the third time.

All together, in those three years, Nebraska cast 50 votes at Republican national nominating conventions. All 50 were cast for Richard Nixon.

Nixon won GOP presidential primary elections in Nebraska in each of those three years, rising from a startling write-in total of 74,356 in 1960 to 179,464 votes in 1972.

(Even in 1964, when he was not a full-fledged candidate for the presidential nomination, he attracted 43,613 write-in votes in Nebraska's primary.)

21 Stops In All

In the past 22 years, since California Sen. Richard Nixon made his first foray into the state, he could count 21 Nebraska appearances, all of them campaign stops — except for the last one.

The last stop in Nebraska was Jan. 14, 1971, when the President came to Lincoln to honor the national champion football team of the University of Nebraska.

That was Nixon's seventh appearance in Lincoln during those two decades. He made it to Omaha eight times.

With the exception of 1962, when he sought the California governorship, and 1972, Nixon made campaign journeys to Nebraska in every election year since 1952.

Record Setter

In 1960, as vice president, he set a Republican Founders Day crowd record in Lincoln (9,000) which still stands. In 1965, he headlined a Lincoln dinner salute to Sen. Carl Curtis.

In 1970, he took his political coattails to Omaha and urged the election of all three Republican congressional nominees, speaking in John McCollister's home district, and offering special praise for Charles Thone, the former GOP state chairman who assisted him in his first presidential bid in 1960.

Now Thone and McCollister and Dave Martin will all vote to impeach him.

The President's admission about undisclosed evidence "speaks for itself," Thone said. "He's kind of pleading no contest.

'No Question'

"When he says it's virtually a foregone conclusion that he will be impeached in the House, he's right. There's no question about it, and this will include my vote."

Thone, the First District congressman, was the last of the three to announce his decision.

Earlier, Martin suggested "it's all over now."

The President's admission, the Third District congressman said, is "so obvious an obstruction of justice."

Now Overwhelming

Second District Rep. McCollister said "the major difference" resulting from Nixon's disclosure of new evidence is that the House vote to impeach will be "overwhelming."

Both Thone and Martin suggested that Nixon might best resign

"The government's bogged down," Martin said. "We're at a standstill — out in the middle of the stream — and we've lost the oars."

Curtis Takes Defense Case To Television

Sen Carl Curtis Tuesday took his defense of President Nixon to national television.

"I do not believe Watergate is worth starting the parade toward becoming a banana republic," Curtis said in an interview on the NBC "Today" show.

"I find nothing in the President's latest statements that says he (Nixon) was engaged in obstructing justice."

The new disclosure of evidence made by Nixon Monday is not "of such proportion that it should be the controlling factor — at least at this time — in determining the impeachment question," Curtis said.

Sen. Roman Hruska said the disclosure by Nixon "will be damaging to him and will clearly hurt his case against impeachment.

"It certainly seems that his latest statement is in major divergence with some of his previous statements," Hruska said.

"But the entire record should be considered in determining if the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment should be sustained."

Dyas Questions Why Thone Joined So Late

Democratic congressional nominee Hess Dyas Tuesday asked Republican Rep. Charles Thone, "What took you so long" in reaching a decision on the proposed impeachment of President Nixon?

Dyas welcomed Thone into "the growing camp which believes President Nixon ought to remove himself from office, or be removed."

The First District congressman "finally admitted that the sooner the whole thing is resolved, the better," Dyas said.

"It could have been better resolved, three, four or more months ago, when it was becoming apparent to a majority of Americans that the President should resign or be impeached."

If Thone and others "had provided that kind of leadership back then, Congress could have since been working on this nation's problems . . . inflation, farm disaster aid, campaign reform and so on," Dyas said.

Bank Branch Hearing Set

The state Banking Department announced a hearing will be held Sept. 24 on an application for a branch savings and loan office at Weeping Water.

The application for the branch was filed by the Plattsmouth Savings and Loan Association.

The department said the hearing would be held in its conference room beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Waverly Denied Nursing Facility

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Elderly persons in Waverly need certain community-supported services, such as home health care, but a nursing home is not the answer, the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Planning Council decided Tuesday.

On a 10-5 vote, the council reaffirmed an earlier decision refusing to approve construction of a 60-bed nursing home in Waverly.

A re-evaluation by the council's review committee reached the same conclusion, namely, the City of Waverly failed to demonstrate a need exists.

Not only might there be too few people in need of nursing home care to make it financially feasible, review committee chairman Don Nielsen said, but it might not be able to find sufficient professional staff.

"We are satisfied there certainly is a need for additional services," Neilsen said. However, he said those needs could be met outside of a nursing home.

He said the community might consider housing for the elderly, home health care services and hot meals programs as possible alternatives.

Nielsen said, "We've offered to work with them to see what people would really want. This offer has gone without response."

Lloyd Bevans, Waverly city attorney, challenged the committee's recommendation and said, "A lot of older people would like to be in nursing homes."

As for the project's feasibility, Bevans said that decision should rest with the City of Waverly, the bonding company and the C. M. Corp., which would operate the facility.

"We have no doubts that we could fill it," Bevans said. He said the home would draw many people from northeast Lincoln where there are no nursing homes. In fact, Bevans said, there are no nursing homes north of O Street.

A representative of the C. M. Corp said many people are going outside of Lancaster County to find nursing home care.

Bill Joern of the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council said almost 90% of the nursing home beds in Lancaster County are full. The last check, he said, indicated there are 94 empty beds.

Nielsen told Bevans, "We're not saying you can't fill the nursing home. We're saying it's not needed."

The fact that ten elderly people were able to attend the hearing in support of the nursing home indicates that they do not need to be in a nursing home, Nielsen said.

Council member Ted Shafer of Lincoln favored approval of the nursing home for the reason that there are none in northern Lancaster County.

"I don't think we should force people in Waverly to come into a Lincoln nursing home," he said.

Council member Mildred Katz said the taxpayer who is paying for the revenue bonds should be kept in mind before a nursing home which is not needed is approved.

In other action, council member Max Denney, who is also a Lincoln city councilman, said he would ask the City Council to act on ordinances altering the rate-making procedure for Lincoln General Hospital without the health planning council's approval if action is not taken at the health planning council's next meeting.

Denney said a committee which has been studying whether the hospital's board of trustees or the City Council should have final authority over hospital rates has taken too long.

The council also endorsed a $50,000 study to determine the feasibility of establishing Health Maintenance Organizations (HMOs) in Lincoln. An HMO is a non-profit third-party insurer of health care.

5,000 Electric Workers Continue Omaha Strike

Omaha — A strike by 5,000 members of Local 1974, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW), continued Tuesday at the Western Electric plant here. A union official said he had "no guess" of how long the strike will last.

Whitey Clark, vice president of Local 1974, said all workers walked off the job late Sunday night. About 20 pickets greeted office and supervisory workers Tuesday as they went to their jobs.

The first strike in the Omaha works' 16-year-history began after negotiators on a national contract failed to reach agreement on a new three-year pact.

The firm's old contract with the union expired July 18.

The major points of disagreement concern wage and fringe benefit increases. The union claims the company's offers are not enough to offset the past year's cost-of-living increases resulting from inflation.

User Costs May Rise From Phone Settlement

Omaha (AP) — The reported $3 billion Bell System contract offer, which was tentatively accepted by the membership of the Communications Workers of America, may mean that Nebraska telephone users will be hearing more expensive bells when their phones ring.

A spokesman for Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., here says the settlement could force another increase in rates.

If ratified by the workers, the new agreement will cost Northwest Bell about $80 million, $11 million in Nebraska.

Company officials say labor costs are a major factor in the firm's costs of operation, and that the contract will have a "definite impact."

The new, three-year package calls for a 35.8 per cent boost in wages and fringe benefits.

Although officials say the settlement may mean Northwestern Bell will have to ask the Nebraska Public Service Commission for rate hikes, it is not known how soon such a request will be made.

Belated Report Shows Death Of Firth Man, Injured In Crash

In a belated report, Lincoln General Hospital said Tuesday that a rural Firth man injured in a truck accident near there July 25 died last Wednesday.

Albert Smice, 75, was involved in a truck accident on a gravel road about four miles west of Firth.

He sustained head and chest injuries when he lost control of the truck and struck a power pole. He had been listed in good condition.

The hospital, state patrol and mortuary were unable to say whether he died of natural causes or of injuries resulting from the accident.

Smice's physician, Dr. Y. Scott Moore was unavailable for comment.

Bellevue Misses Annual Event; To Sponsor Own Raft Regatta

Bellevue (UPI) — Bellevue promoters, miffed at being left out of the annual "Great Missouri River Raft Regatta," announced Tuesday they'll sponsor a regatta of their own.

The original regatta, sponsored the past several years by Omaha interests, formerly ran from Blair to Bellevue. This year, sponsors decided to make Omaha the finish point, and according to Bellevue spokesmen didn't even invite Bellevue to the annual planning session.

"It is not so much competition, it's more a matter of being left out," Bellevue banker Ron Johnson said. "We are starting our own Labor Day regatta beginning at Dodge Park (in north Omaha) and going down to Haworth Park in Bellevue, a distance of 26.25 miles."

Johnson said first prize in the Bellevue regatta would be $200. Entrance fee will be $15, he said, or half that of the Omaha regatta.

All contestants will use four-man rubber survival rafts. Johnson said the regatta will be capped by a festival at Haworth Park.

Retired Unionist Suffers Stroke

Elton Berck, the retired president of the Nebraska State Farmers Union, was listed in fair condition Tuesday at Bryan Memorial Hospital.

Avocan Builds 'From Scratch'

By JOEL THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Avoca — Karl Uhlhorn believes that American workmanship would improve if more things were made "from scratch."

"Maybe that's the old German in me," says the retired sheet metal worker, who learned his trade in Germany 54 years ago. "I like to start from scratch and build things up from the bottom."

Applying that Old World philosophy of craftsmanship to his various retirement pursuits keeps Uhlhorn as busy as he was during the 32 years he spent working sheet metal in Omaha. His main absorption is woodworking and repairing old furniture.

Starts From Scratch

He starts with discarded logs and branches of native Nebraska timber (primarily walnut) and barks, squares, dries, cuts, turns and sands them into beautifully grained and finished furniture, candle holders and spinning wheels.

"I pick out wood with a special grain," he said, turning over a spinning wheel part in his hands. "When that's done, it'll be something you don't see every day."

Uhlhorn uses no patterns in turning wood on his lathe because, he said, "that would take the hand-made look away from it."

Integrity of Work

The integrity of a job done from start to finish by a single pair of hands "is the whole idea behind all the work I'm doing and all the work I've ever done," he said.

Uhlhorn finds his greatest satisfaction in completing a spinning wheel, each of which takes a total of two or three weeks' work. All variations on the same basic pattern, they are functional as well as ornamental — and Uhlhorn puts them to use himself.

Freshly sheared wool can be obtained without going far. Uhlhorn cards, spins and "plies" it into yarn for Mrs. Uhlhorn, who likes to knit during the winter months while he busies himself in his basement workshop.

She has used Uhlhorn's yarn in knitting, among other things, a cap and sweater for him and a cape for herself.

Uhlhorn went so far as to invent an electric device for feeding three plies of yarn into the spinning wheel with an even twist — resulting in a more nearly perfect product.

'Don't Take Pride'

"Part of the trouble in this country," Uhlhorn declares, "is that people don't take pride in their work. They just put it out and say 'pay me.'"

And part of the cause for that attitude, he believes, is assembly-line production in which a worker does the same thing all day. "It goes against human nature," Uhlhorn said. "That would drive me crazy . . . I always found work that was interesting." His jobs, he said, often required designing a product for a given need and building it from scratch.

"Those boys in Detroit just aren't on the ball," he said, offering as an alternative the production system developed by certain European auto manufacturers — wherein a group of workers are given collective responsibility for production of an entire section of the automobile.

'Trying To Go Back'

"They've been trying to go back a little bit to the old way," he said. "I think it's a very good idea. That way people take more of an interest in their work."

Uhlhorn also endorses the increasing emphasis on vocational education, noting that in Germany craftsmen leave school after the eighth grade to serve an apprenticeship while attending trade school.

"A practical man is worth more than a book man over there," he said.

Uhlhorn has difficulty understanding the American people's fear of the metric system. "People say it's so complicated," he said, "but it's so simple. Our money is the same way. All you do is move your decimal."

The big obstacle, he suggested, is the cost of retooling American industry — "but if we had converted 75 years ago, there'd be no problem."

Senator Praises Officer

Omaha (AP) — A frequent critic of the Omaha Police Department, State Sen. Ernest Chambers had some good words about the patrolman that ticketed him for speeding recently.

Chambers wrote to Chief Richard Andersen concerning Patrolman C. J. Crawford.

"Officer Crawford, using the hand 'radar gun,' clocked me exceeding the speed limit. When he stopped me to issue the citation, he carefully explained why and even showed me how the radar device works," Chambers wrote.

"His courtesy and professionalism in this instance are worthy of note, and provide a standard to be emulated by others," the senator continued.

Chambers said he would go to court and pay the fine.

"Clearly, it is never pleasant to receive a traffic citation — but officer Crawford made it almost nice," Chambers added.

A copy of the letter was sent to Mayor Edward Zorinsky, and Chambers asked that another copy be placed in Crawford's personnel file.

Good Rain Could Cause Heavy Demand For Seed

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Farmers are waiting for a good rain before planting winter wheat, but if a good general rain does come, officials at the Nebraska Crop Improvement Assn. (NCIA) in Lincoln expect a big demand for seed wheat.

"We have had some sales of wheat to Montana, Texas and the Dakotas which we didn't have last year. I think the combination of a good crop this year, a pretty high price and the drought have tended to move more farmers toward wheat," said Dean Lancaster, NCIA secretary-manager.

Lancaster said he expects some dryland corn to be plowed under for wheat if farmers don't have long-term herbicides in the field. "It will depend on what a farmer used on his crop," Lancaster said. "If the herbicide is still there, he can't plant wheat.

For this reason, I don't expect to see enough wheat to break prices."

Lancaster emphasized that it must rain before farmers can expect wheat seed to germinate. "What it boils down to is no rain, no wheat," he explained.

A spokesman for the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said it doesn't intend to take a survey of farmers' wheat-planting intentions until December, with a report to be issued on Dec. 23.

Marx Koehnke, chief of the State Agriculture Dept. Wheat Division, agrees with Lancaster's assessment. "Farmers don't like to plant wheat in dust," Koehnke said. "That is a pretty hazardous way to do it. You can easily lose your seed."

Koehnke noted there have been some good rains in western Nebraska. "If they have good moisture, we may see some planting of wheat back on last year's wheat stubble. The good price makes wheat growing quite attractive if moisture conditions are right," he said.

"Many farmers did plant wheat back on wheat land last fall, producing good crops this year. Normally, they will let the land lie fallow a year. If we get good rains, we will see a lot of wheat planted back this year, but if it stays dry, we will get a lot of fallow land."

For the third consecutive day Omaha temperatures dipped to record lows. Tuesday's low of 48 bettered the record of 57 degrees set in 1887. The record had been equalled in 1888, 1889 and 1940.

Sunday's low of 44 degrees and Monday's low of 49 degrees were also records.

North Platte's report of 42 degrees cancelled the previous record of 51 degrees recorded August 6, 1895.

Plunging to 49 degrees in Grand Island the temperature established a new record. The old record was 50 degrees set in 1902.

Rain across the southwest and western regions was welcomed. Topping the list was McCook with 1.34 inches

Marshals 'Stabilized Situation'—Director

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The appearance of U.S. Marshals on the Pine Ridge Reservation "stabilized a potentially dangerous situation," an associate director of the U.S. Marshals Service testified Tuesday in U.S. District Court.

Reis Kash, who testified in the trial of Wounded Knee defendants Michael Sturdevant and Gregorio Jaramillo, said about 40 marshals were sent to the reservation about two weeks before Wounded Knee.

The marshals, members of the "special operations group" in the U.S. Marshals Service, were called to the reservation by the U.S. Department of the Interior to "maintain order," Kash said.

Kash was excused from the stand Tuesday afternoon as the trial stayed on schedule for a conclusion this week, although special prosecutor Duane Nelson told Judge Warren K. Urbom that he will call two rebuttal witnesses.

Nelson said he expects those witnesses will make brief appearances.

Kash testified that it is his "considered opinion" the majority of the people on the reservation were glad marshals were present.

An earlier witness, Gladys Bissonette, testified she believes the marshals were sent to the reservation to "provoke something like what happened," apparently referring to Wounded Knee siege.

Impeachment Attempt

Kash said marshals were present at a hearing on the impeachment of Tribal Chairman Richard Wilson. Kash said there was a scuffle after the hearing, but that marshals did not intervene. The impeachment attempt failed.

Marshals were also present at meetings of an Indian civil rights organization on the reservation at the request of members of the organization, Kash said. The organization was opposed to some of Wilson's actions.

Marshals also were involved in daily patrolling on the reservation, secured the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA building) in Pine Ridge, and trained BIA police in the control of riots and the use of tear gas, Kash said.

'Goon Squads' Disbanded

Kash said marshals disbanded groups known as Wilson's "goon squads," which some trial witnesses claimed harassed full-blooded Indians on the reservation.

While the specially-trained marshals in the "special operations group" were at the reservation they received information that Russell Means was planning to "take over" the BIA building, Kash said.

Kash said the marshals obtained information from news media and police agencies, but he denied marshals were "running agents or informants" in an intelligence-gathering operation.

Former U.S. Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst, the last scheduled defense witness, is expected to take the stand early Wednesday morning in the Sturdevant-Jaramillo trial. Both defendants are charged with impeding or attempting to impede federal officers by sneaking ammunition into Wounded Knee.

Drought Cycles Said Unconfirmed Theory

Omaha (UPI) — George Cressman, director of the National Weather Service, said here Tuesday that the theory of drought cycles has yet to be confirmed.

Cressman, touring Weather Service installations, said it is possible that the current drought could be part of a cycle. But he said there is considerable disagreement among meteorologists and climatologists on drought cycle theories.

"That's how you find out," he said. "You formulate theories and you test them."

Cressman said he had not visited Nebraska's parched cornfields, but said he had stopped at some Kansas farms and found the corn there "is gone . . . I mean it's burned up, finished."

Cressman indicated that cloud seeding was a doubtful proposition.

Efforts to coax rain from clouds by seeding have met with success in some instances, he said, but "there are times you can dissipate the cloudy by seeding and get nothing."

The operation is "complex and controversial," he said.

He said he was eager to implement an agricultural weather service for the Midwest to provide weather information geared to farm needs. He said Congress had allocated money for such a service, but "now we don't have the personnel to staff such a service."

$41.5 Million Said Lost

Plattsmouth (UPI) — The Cass County ASCS emergency board has placed crop losses to county farmers because of the drought at $41.5 million.

The board said an additional $2 million in losses could be suffered by livestock producers because of animal deaths, low prices and the scarcity of grain for feeding.

Dryland corn, with 75% of the crop lost, topped the deficit list with a $28.2 million figure and irrigated corn crop losses were placed at $254,000.

Fifty per cent of the soybean crop is now lost, the board said, amounting to $7.1 million.

Nearly 100 farmers have requested crop assessments for disaster aid.

Wounded Knee Defendants Blast Federal Messenger

A Washington messenger to plea negotiations in Wounded Knee trials is interested only in political goals, an unsigned "statement" from Wounded Knee defendants charged Tuesday.

The written statement was given to news media representatives by Ann Durham, a press spokesman with the Wounded Knee Defense-Offense Committee.

Durham said she does not believe the statement violates Judge Warren K. Urbom's order that parties to the negotiations refrain from discussing the subject with news media.

Urbom said Tuesday that he had not seen the statement.

The statement charged that Alan H. Kirshen of the U.S. Department of Justice is interested only in justifying a "huge expenditure of government funds and military resources against the people of Wounded Knee."

"His concern is to prove that Indian people are wrong and that federal forces were right to lay seige against these 'criminals,'" the statement claimed.

"It is clear that he has no understanding of why Wounded Knee happened, what happened at Wounded Knee and what is happening to Indian people now. Furthermore he doesn't seem to care," the statement said.

The plea negotiations are aimed at reaching an agreement under which some defendants would enter guilty or no contest pleas in return for reduction of some charges and dismissal of other charges.

The statement also charged that Kirshen is directing the government side of the negotiations "straight out of Washington," and that the cases are now out of the control of William Clayton, U.S. Attorney for South Dakota.

Gering School Board Intends To Appeal Land Transfer Suit

Gering (UPI) — The Gering School Board has directed its attorney to continue legal efforts to declare illegal the 1967 transfer of the Gering Industrial Park out of its district.

The board directed attorney Robert Simmons of Scottsbluff to appeal to the State Supreme Court a district court dismissal of the school board's suit.

The park land was taken out of the district in 1967 and placed in the Gering Valley District No. 8 as part of a transaction to reduce taxes for Lockwood Corp., a farm equipment manufacturer, to induce the firm to remain in Gering. The legality of the move was questioned at the time.

The school board had expected to recover the land through a consolidation of school districts, but the consolidation never took place.

Supt. Hale Geister strongly recommended that the appeal be made. He showed the board a letter in which Simmons said he believes an appeal would have more than 50% chance of success.

Geister said, "My own personal opinion is that you have better than a 50% chance. At the state level, it won't be a matter of politics, but of law."

Board member J. Mickey Reazis argued against making the appeal until the fate of LB722, the state aid to education law, is finally settled. He said if the law stays on the books it would erase the benefit to the district from getting the disputed property back.

His argument was overruled by a 4-1 vote of the board to proceed with the appeal.

Committee Sets Hearing On Mayor's Salary Rule

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Charter Revision Committee will seek public comment Aug. 27 on the proposed repeal of a provision requiring the mayor to be the highest paid of any department head.

The commission also agreed Tuesday to hold a hearing on changing a provision dealing with bond interest rates.

Both items may be placed before the voters in November.

The charter requirement linking the mayor's salary to department heads has come under City Council scrutiny in recent months. The mayor is paid $25,000 a year.

Would Stop Raises

Without a change in the provision or a raise in the mayor's salary, three department heads could not be granted the proposed 7½% cost of living increase. Such an increase would boost the city attorney's, finance director's and public works director's annual wage above the $25,000 mark.

City lawmakers have rejected a temporary solution which would increase Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's paycheck.

Armed with recent reports and studies on the matter, commission member Bob Blaire suggested that repeal of the provision could create additional problems.

Erode Power

Commission Chairman Karl Dickinson said the severing of the salary relationship could erode the mayor's power and prestige since the mayor would be paid less than some of the city directors.

He also said a change in the charter could wreak havoc with the strong mayor form of government. A vindictive City Council could lower the mayor's salary for partisan motives.

But, commissioner Erv Peterson disagreed.

"It seems wrong to raise the mayor's salary because we need to raise others," said Peterson, a former mayor.

Responsible To Voters

Additionally, he contended that the council is ultimately responsible to the voters for any actions it takes.

Commissioner Bob Danielson said it would be more difficult to replace present department heads at current salary levels.

"We're dealing in a market system. This is not the case with the mayor," he said.

Commissioners also acknowledged that a possible violation of the charter is now occuring since administrators of both the Lincoln Electric System and Lincoln General Hospital receive higher wages than the mayor.

A hearing also will be held on the proposed repeal of a provision setting a 6% interest rate limit on the issuance of special assessment bonds and a 7% interest rate on delinquent bonds. A higher ceiling would be set to meet inflation.

The hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m., Aug. 27, in the City Council Chambers at the County-City Building.

Another School Charged

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Fire Department has apparently extended its campaign against fire code violations to District 66 on Omaha's West side.

Officials said a warrant charging Leslie L. Sladek, principal of Westbrook Elementary School, with violations of the city's fire codes.

Chief Deputy Prosecutor Richard Dunning said Sladek is accused of not moving an accumulation of flammable materials from a physical education area.

Fire inspectors ordered the removal of the materials June 26, and several other notices have been sent to the school, according to Dunning.

Four other warrants were issued earlier this week for hazards at Burke High School, Horace Mann Jr. High School, North High, and the University of Nebraska at Omaha administration building.

A spokesman for the District 66 said school officials are doing their best to comply with the fire regulations.

The spokesman said a $3,000 building to store the flammable materials is under construction, and that the building is to be completed in time for the start of school.

Meanwhile, Superintendent Owen A. Knutzen said his office will immediately begin an investigation of the alleged improper maintenance and custodial practices in the Omaha School District.

Knutzen's comments were made in response to the warrants issued against the principal and assistant maintenance supervisor at Burke High School.

Webster County Clinic Defeated

Lincoln Star Special

Red Cloud — Webster County voters Tuesday defeated a proposed County Medical Clinic to be built as an addition to the County Community Hospital here.

According to County Clerk Betty Bohrer's office, the unofficial tally was 799 for and 1,101 against the $200,000 bond issue.

Missing Waverly Girl Is Arrested In Kansas

A Waverly girl reported missing since Monday night was located Tuesday night in Merriam, Kan., according to Lancaster County Deputy Mel Green.

Green said Roberta Lee Titus, 18, was arrested at a motel along with a man tentatively identified as Wade Hampton Bigelow, 25, from Florida.

The two were arrested by Merriam police after the motel they checked into ran a check on the credit card they were using and found it to be listed as stolen.

The credit card belonged to Robert Mundy of San Diego, Calif., and Bigelow apparently had been passing himself off as Mundy for some time, Green said.

Mundy left his San Diego home for North Carolina in late July and has not been heard from since by his wife, with whom he reportedly quarrelled.

Officials had suspected foul play after Miss Titus called her mother about midnight Monday and said she was in Council Bluffs, Iowa, and was going "on vacation" to California. The phone then went dead.

Green said Miss Titus told Merriam police that she was not being held against her will.

He said another man thought to be traveling with Bigelow was still being sought.

'Pioneers' In Home Tailoring Provide Sewing Aids

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

There sits Mom at the sewing machine.

For years, she has been assembling suits and dresses for herself; school clothes, play clothes, pajamas for the children.

But when her hsband asks if she will make something for him — a sports jacket, slacks, a suit —she explains to him that the results of such an undertaking would probably be disastrous; that successful tailoring is best left to professionals.

That's the way it's been in the past. But thanks to the efforts of a Houston, Tex. couple — Ed and Dolores Edwards — the "secrets" of successful tailoring are now available to all seamstresses.

ED AND DOLORES EDWARDS . . . examine tailoring aid packets.

Mrs. Edwards, with the assistance of her husband, has developed a method whereby a seamstress can obtain professional tailoring results (for both men and women) at home.

In Lincoln this week for a tailoring workshop to be held Wednesday at Brandeis, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards explained that the method — which incorporates the use of a book written by Mrs. Edwards, packets of "findings" (the various materials used inside a suit by professional tailors), and workshops — has evolved over a period of about 20 years.

Mr. Edwards first asked his wife to attempt to make him a jacket when he "found out how much custom tailored apparel costs," the petite Mrs. Edwards said.

Although she had been sewing for some time, she found that tailoring men's wear was all but impossible, due to the inavailability of professional materials and instructions.

"I was never happy with the way the jackets I made looked," Mrs. Edwards continued.

So, she decided to attack the problem.

She disassembled several of her husband's custom made jackets, in an effort to discover the "secrets" of successful tailoring. She consulted tailors. And she kept experimenting.

When she had perfected her method, she began teaching classes through the adult education and YWCA programs in Houston.

"The classes were very successful," she stated, adding that, at one point, 252 people signed up for a class which could accomodate only 20 students.

As a result of the overwhelming response to her classes, Mrs. Edwards and her husband — who left his job as a television sportscaster — founded the Fashion Sewing Institute in Houston. And shortly thereafter, her book, "The Dolores Edwards Method: Men's Jackets and Pants," was published.

However, it was still difficult for women to obtain tailor's findings comparable to those "used by professional custom tailors and better ready-to-wear manufacturers," Mr. Edwards pointed out.

Consequently, he began looking around for sources from whom they could purchase findings.

The results of his search are the "Man-Pak Jac-Kit," the "Man-Pak Slac-Kit," and the "Ms-Pak," (for women's jackets) which are now available in fabric departments across the country. (And can be used with any jacket or slacks pattern.)

All of the findings contained in the packets are pre-assembled, so that the seamstress has only to "trim them to fit and insert them in the garment," Mrs. Edwards explained.

And the findings can be used with jacket patterns "up to size 50."

By supplying the seamstress with such items as prepadded canvas coat fronts, shoulder pads, sleeve heads, tailor's tape and pre-padded undercollars, the Edwardses have, in Mrs. Edward's words, "taken the hassle out of tailoring."

"Most women don't need to take one of our workshops to be able to use the materials," Edwards said. "But most feel that they do."

"They have to be kind of led by the hand," Mrs. Edwards added with a smile, referring to what she terms the "psychological barrier against sewing men's clothing."

However, tailoring is "a fun area," Mrs. Edwards stated. "Women can save a fantastic amount of money, and the men are happy."

Backing up her statement with facts, she went on to note that, for $35, she made her husband a Bill Blass designer suit that would retail for $200 to $250.

And the Ann Klein jacket she was wearing — which retails for $160 — can be made at home for as little as $20.

It should take the average seamstress about 15 hours to make a man's jacket, Mrs. Edwards said. And approximately six to eight hours of sewing will go into a woman's jacket.

"I don't think experience is as important as desire," she continued in response to a question concerning how much experience a seamstress needs in order to do a good job of tailoring.

Stating that he and his wife have also begun to market packets of lining material which is like that used by tailors, Edwards said, "We're trying to provide things that haven't been available at all to women."

Up to this time, home tailoring has been a "dormant area," according to Mrs. Edwards.

"We're trying to develop this area. In a sense, we're pioneering."

Abby Provides An Explanation

DEAR ABBY: Your advice works miracles.

On June 2, the Philadelphia Bulletin ran the following item, datelined Toronto, Canada:

"The tax department received a letter along with a tax return recently.

'I haven't been able to sleep since cheating on my income tax,' the letter read. 'Am enclosing my check for $500. If still unable to sleep, will mail you the balance.' "

The following item appeared on the same day in the DEAR ABBY column in the Washington (D.C.) Star-News:

"DEAR ABBY: I haven't been able to sleep very well. You see, I did a little creative bookkeeping on my income tax by way of 'deductions.' Any suggestions?

INSOMNIAC

"DEAR IN: Send the Internal Revenue Service a check for $500. And if you still can't sleep, send them the balance."

Now, that's what I call action!

A.C. ROBIDOUX, DOVER, DEL.

DEAR A.C.: Not really: The letter in my column was scheduled for release on March 22nd. And that's when it ran in Toronto.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a big mouth. I've heard that he has been blabbing all around the warehouse where he works all kinds of personal things about his sex life.

This is very embarrassing to me because I know all the guys who work there, and I can hardly look them in the eye knowing they know so much about me.

This is enough to make me want to pack up and leave him. Am I wrong?

STELLA

DEAR STELLA: Don't pack until you're sure he was talking about you.

DEAR ABBY: My fiance is a divorced man. His "ex" calls him once a week without fail "to talk." They have no children, so I don't know what they have to talk about. (She is still unmarried.)

My fiance says he doesn't mind her calling him because he appreciates knowing that she is okay.

He is very good to me, but these calls from his "ex" every week irritate me. I would like your opinion.

"R"

DEAR "R": In my opinion, your fiance appears to be a very kind and considerate man. He's not married yet. If his "ex" continues to call him, and he continues to "not mind" after he's married to you, write again, and I may have a different opinion.

CONFIDENTIAL TO KAY: Take your time, and get to know him better. When his true character "crops out," you may witness a crop failure.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Avocan Builds 'From Scratch'

By JOEL THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Avoca — Karl Uhlhorn believes that American workmanship would improve if more things were made "from scratch."

"Maybe that's the old German in me," says the retired sheet metal worker, who learned his trade in Germany 54 years ago. "I like to start from scratch and build things up from the bottom."

Applying that Old World philosophy of craftsmanship to his various retirement pursuits keeps Uhlhorn as busy as he was during the 32 years he spent working sheet metal in Omaha. His main absorption is woodworking and repairing old furniture.

Starts From Scratch

He starts with discarded logs and branches of native Nebraska timber (primarily walnut) and barks, squares, dries, cuts, turns and sands them into beautifully grained and finished furniture, candle holders and spinning wheels.

"I pick out wood with a special grain," he said, turning over a spinning wheel part in his hands. "When that's done, it'll be something you don't see every day."

Uhlhorn uses no patterns in turning wood on his lathe because, he said, "that would take the hand-made look away from it."

Integrity of Work

The integrity of a job done from start to finish by a single pair of hands "is the whole idea behind all the work I'm doing and all the work I've ever done," he said.

Uhlhorn finds his greatest satisfaction in completing a spinning wheel, each of which takes a total of two or three weeks' work. All variations on the same basic pattern, they are functional as well as ornamental — and Uhlhorn puts them to use himself.

Freshly sheared wool can be obtained without going far. Uhlhorn cards, spins and "plies" it into yarn for Mrs. Uhlhorn, who likes to knit during the winter months while he busies himself in his basement workshop.

She has used Uhlhorn's yarn in knitting, among other things, a cap and sweater for him and a cape for herself.

Uhlhorn went so far as to invent an electric device for feeding three plies of yarn into the spinning wheel with an even twist — resulting in a more nearly perfect product.

'Don't Take Pride'

"Part of the trouble in this country," Uhlhorn declares, "is that people don't take pride in their work. They just put it out and say 'pay me.'"

And part of the cause for that attitude, he believes, is assembly-line production in which a worker does the same thing all day. "It goes against human nature," Uhlhorn said. "That would drive me crazy . . . I always found work that was interesting." His jobs, he said, often required designing a product for a given need and building it from scratch.

"Those boys in Detroit just aren't on the ball," he said, offering as an alternative the production system developed by certain European auto manufacturers — wherein a group of workers are given collective responsibility for production of an entire section of the automobile.

'Trying To Go Back'

"They've been trying to go back a little bit to the old way," he said. "I think it's a very good idea. That way people take more of an interest in their work."

Uhlhorn also endorses the increasing emphasis on vocational education, noting that in Germany craftsmen leave school after the eighth grade to serve an apprenticeship while attending trade school.

"A practical man is worth more than a book man over there," he said.

Uhlhorn has difficulty understanding the American people's fear of the metric system. "People say it's so complicated," he said, "but it's so simple. Our money is the same way. All you do is move your decimal."

The big obstacle, he suggested, is the cost of retooling American industry — "but if we had converted 75 years ago, there'd be no problem."

Senator Praises Officer

Omaha (AP) — A frequent critic of the Omaha Police Department, State Sen. Ernest Chambers had some good words about the patrolman that ticketed him for speeding recently.

Chambers wrote to Chief Richard Andersen concerning Patrolman C. J. Crawford.

"Officer Crawford, using the hand 'radar gun,' clocked me exceeding the speed limit. When he stopped me to issue the citation, he carefully explained why and even showed me how the radar device works," Chambers wrote.

"His courtesy and professionalism in this instance are worthy of note, and provide a standard to be emulated by others," the senator continued.

Chambers said he would go to court and pay the fine.

"Clearly, it is never pleasant to receive a traffic citation — but officer Crawford made it almost nice," Chambers added.

A copy of the letter was sent to Mayor Edward Zorinsky, and Chambers asked that another copy be placed in Crawford's personnel file.

Good Rain Could Cause Heavy Demand For Seed

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Farmers are waiting for a good rain before planting winter wheat, but if a good general rain does come, officials at the Nebraska Crop Improvement Assn. (NCIA) in Lincoln expect a big demand for seed wheat.

"We have had some sales of wheat to Montana, Texas and the Dakotas which we didn't have last year. I think the combination of a good crop this year, a pretty high price and the drought have tended to move more farmers toward wheat," said Dean Lancaster, NCIA secretary-manager.

Lancaster said he expects some dryland corn to be plowed under for wheat if farmers don't have long-term herbicides in the field. "It will depend on what a farmer used on his crop," Lancaster said. "If the herbicide is still there, he can't plant wheat.

For this reason, I don't expect to see enough wheat to break prices."

Lancaster emphasized that it must rain before farmers can expect wheat seed to germinate. "What it boils down to is no rain, no wheat," he explained.

A spokesman for the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said it doesn't intend to take a survey of farmers' wheat-planting intentions until December, with a report to be issued on Dec. 23.

Marx Koehnke, chief of the State Agriculture Dept. Wheat Division, agrees with Lancaster's assessment. "Farmers don't like to plant wheat in dust," Koehnke said. "That is a pretty hazardous way to do it. You can easily lose your seed."

Koehnke noted there have been some good rains in western Nebraska. "If they have good moisture, we may see some planting of wheat back on last year's wheat stubble. The good price makes wheat growing quite attractive if moisture conditions are right," he said.

"Many farmers did plant wheat back on wheat land last fall, producing good crops this year. Normally, they will let the land lie fallow a year. If we get good rains, we will see a lot of wheat planted back this year, but if it stays dry, we will get a lot of fallow land."

For the third consecutive day Omaha temperatures dipped to record lows. Tuesday's low of 48 bettered the record of 57 degrees set in 1887. The record had been equalled in 1888, 1889 and 1940.

Sunday's low of 44 degrees and Monday's low of 49 degrees were also records.

North Platte's report of 42 degrees cancelled the previous record of 51 degrees recorded August 6, 1895.

Plunging to 49 degrees in Grand Island the temperature established a new record. The old record was 50 degrees set in 1902.

Rain across the southwest and western regions was welcomed. Topping the list was McCook with 1.34 inches

Marshals 'Stabilized Situation'—Director

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The appearance of U.S. Marshals on the Pine Ridge Reservation "stabilized a potentially dangerous situation," an associate director of the U.S. Marshals Service testified Tuesday in U.S. District Court.

Reis Kash, who testified in the trial of Wounded Knee defendants Michael Sturdevant and Gregorio Jaramillo, said about 40 marshals were sent to the reservation about two weeks before Wounded Knee.

The marshals, members of the "special operations group" in the U.S. Marshals Service, were called to the reservation by the U.S. Department of the Interior to "maintain order," Kash said.

Kash was excused from the stand Tuesday afternoon as the trial stayed on schedule for a conclusion this week, although special prosecutor Duane Nelson told Judge Warren K. Urbom that he will call two rebuttal witnesses.

Nelson said he expects those witnesses will make brief appearances.

Kash testified that it is his "considered opinion" the majority of the people on the reservation were glad marshals were present.

An earlier witness, Gladys Bissonette, testified she believes the marshals were sent to the reservation to "provoke something like what happened," apparently referring to Wounded Knee siege.

Impeachment Attempt

Kash said marshals were present at a hearing on the impeachment of Tribal Chairman Richard Wilson. Kash said there was a scuffle after the hearing, but that marshals did not intervene. The impeachment attempt failed.

Marshals were also present at meetings of an Indian civil rights organization on the reservation at the request of members of the organization, Kash said. The organization was opposed to some of Wilson's actions.

Marshals also were involved in daily patrolling on the reservation, secured the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA building) in Pine Ridge, and trained BIA police in the control of riots and the use of tear gas, Kash said.

'Goon Squads' Disbanded

Kash said marshals disbanded groups known as Wilson's "goon squads," which some trial witnesses claimed harassed full-blooded Indians on the reservation.

While the specially-trained marshals in the "special operations group" were at the reservation they received information that Russell Means was planning to "take over" the BIA building, Kash said.

Kash said the marshals obtained information from news media and police agencies, but he denied marshals were "running agents or informants" in an intelligence-gathering operation.

Former U.S. Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst, the last scheduled defense witness, is expected to take the stand early Wednesday morning in the Sturdevant-Jaramillo trial. Both defendants are charged with impeding or attempting to impede federal officers by sneaking ammunition into Wounded Knee.

Drought Cycles Said Unconfirmed Theory

Omaha (UPI) — George Cressman, director of the National Weather Service, said here Tuesday that the theory of drought cycles has yet to be confirmed.

Cressman, touring Weather Service installations, said it is possible that the current drought could be part of a cycle. But he said there is considerable disagreement among meteorologists and climatologists on drought cycle theories.

"That's how you find out," he said. "You formulate theories and you test them."

Cressman said he had not visited Nebraska's parched cornfields, but said he had stopped at some Kansas farms and found the corn there "is gone . . . I mean it's burned up, finished."

Cressman indicated that cloud seeding was a doubtful proposition.

Efforts to coax rain from clouds by seeding have met with success in some instances, he said, but "there are times you can dissipate the cloudy by seeding and get nothing."

The operation is "complex and controversial," he said.

He said he was eager to implement an agricultural weather service for the Midwest to provide weather information geared to farm needs. He said Congress had allocated money for such a service, but "now we don't have the personnel to staff such a service."

$41.5 Million Said Lost

Plattsmouth (UPI) — The Cass County ASCS emergency board has placed crop losses to county farmers because of the drought at $41.5 million.

The board said an additional $2 million in losses could be suffered by livestock producers because of animal deaths, low prices and the scarcity of grain for feeding.

Dryland corn, with 75% of the crop lost, topped the deficit list with a $28.2 million figure and irrigated corn crop losses were placed at $254,000.

Fifty per cent of the soybean crop is now lost, the board said, amounting to $7.1 million.

Nearly 100 farmers have requested crop assessments for disaster aid.

Heidler Receives Honorary Degree

Fremont — Midland Lutheran College has conferred an honorary doctor of divinity degree upon Oberkirchenrat Fritz Heidler of Berlin, German Democratic Republic. The ceremony took place in the New York City headquarters office of the Lutheran Church in America. Heidler, who is director of the Lutheran Church office of the United Evangelical Lutheran Church in the DDR and secretary of the national committee of the Lutheran World Federation of the DDR, was in the U.S. to attend an executive committee meeting of the Lutheran World Federation.

Wounded Knee Defendants Blast Federal Messenger

A Washington messenger to plea negotiations in Wounded Knee trials is interested only in political goals, an unsigned "statement" from Wounded Knee defendants charged Tuesday.

The written statement was given to news media representatives by Ann Durham, a press spokesman with the Wounded Knee Defense-Offense Committee.

Durham said she does not believe the statement violates Judge Warren K. Urbom's order that parties to the negotiations refrain from discussing the subject with news media.

Urbom said Tuesday that he had not seen the statement.

The statement charged that Alan H. Kirshen of the U.S. Department of Justice is interested only in justifying a "huge expenditure of government funds and military resources against the people of Wounded Knee."

"His concern is to prove that Indian people are wrong and that federal forces were right to lay seige against these 'criminals,'" the statement claimed.

"It is clear that he has no understanding of why Wounded Knee happened, what happened at Wounded Knee and what is happening to Indian people now. Furthermore he doesn't seem to care," the statement said.

The plea negotiations are aimed at reaching an agreement under which some defendants would enter guilty or no contest pleas in return for reduction of some charges and dismissal of other charges.

The statement also charged that Kirshen is directing the government side of the negotiations "straight out of Washington," and that the cases are now out of the control of William Clayton, U.S. Attorney for South Dakota.

Gering School Board Intends To Appeal Land Transfer Suit

Gering (UPI) — The Gering School Board has directed its attorney to continue legal efforts to declare illegal the 1967 transfer of the Gering Industrial Park out of its district.

The board directed attorney Robert Simmons of Scottsbluff to appeal to the State Supreme Court a district court dismissal of the school board's suit.

The park land was taken out of the district in 1967 and placed in the Gering Valley District No. 8 as part of a transaction to reduce taxes for Lockwood Corp., a farm equipment manufacturer, to induce the firm to remain in Gering. The legality of the move was questioned at the time.

The school board had expected to recover the land through a consolidation of school districts, but the consolidation never took place.

Supt. Hale Geister strongly recommended that the appeal be made. He showed the board a letter in which Simmons said he believes an appeal would have more than 50% chance of success.

Geister said, "My own personal opinion is that you have better than a 50% chance. At the state level, it won't be a matter of politics, but of law."

Board member J. Mickey Reazis argued against making the appeal until the fate of LB722, the state aid to education law, is finally settled. He said if the law stays on the books it would erase the benefit to the district from getting the disputed property back.

His argument was overruled by a 4-1 vote of the board to proceed with the appeal.

Committee Sets Hearing On Mayor's Salary Rule

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Charter Revision Committee will seek public comment Aug. 27 on the proposed repeal of a provision requiring the mayor to be the highest paid of any department head.

The commission also agreed Tuesday to hold a hearing on changing a provision dealing with bond interest rates.

Both items may be placed before the voters in November.

The charter requirement linking the mayor's salary to department heads has come under City Council scrutiny in recent months. The mayor is paid $25,000 a year.

Would Stop Raises

Without a change in the provision or a raise in the mayor's salary, three department heads could not be granted the proposed 7½% cost of living increase. Such an increase would boost the city attorney's, finance director's and public works director's annual wage above the $25,000 mark.

City lawmakers have rejected a temporary solution which would increase Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's paycheck.

Armed with recent reports and studies on the matter, commission member Bob Blaire suggested that repeal of the provision could create additional problems.

Erode Power

Commission Chairman Karl Dickinson said the severing of the salary relationship could erode the mayor's power and prestige since the mayor would be paid less than some of the city directors.

He also said a change in the charter could wreak havoc with the strong mayor form of government. A vindictive City Council could lower the mayor's salary for partisan motives.

But, commissioner Erv Peterson disagreed.

"It seems wrong to raise the mayor's salary because we need to raise others," said Peterson, a former mayor.

Responsible To Voters

Additionally, he contended that the council is ultimately responsible to the voters for any actions it takes.

Commissioner Bob Danielson said it would be more difficult to replace present department heads at current salary levels.

"We're dealing in a market system. This is not the case with the mayor," he said.

Commissioners also acknowledged that a possible violation of the charter is now occuring since administrators of both the Lincoln Electric System and Lincoln General Hospital receive higher wages than the mayor.

A hearing also will be held on the proposed repeal of a provision setting a 6% interest rate limit on the issuance of special assessment bonds and a 7% interest rate on delinquent bonds. A higher ceiling would be set to meet inflation.

The hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m., Aug. 27, in the City Council Chambers at the County-City Building.

Another School Charged

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Fire Department has apparently extended its campaign against fire code violations to District 66 on Omaha's West side.

Officials said a warrant charging Leslie L. Sladek, principal of Westbrook Elementary School, with violations of the city's fire codes.

Chief Deputy Prosecutor Richard Dunning said Sladek is accused of not moving an accumulation of flammable materials from a physical education area.

Fire inspectors ordered the removal of the materials June 26, and several other notices have been sent to the school, according to Dunning.

Four other warrants were issued earlier this week for hazards at Burke High School, Horace Mann Jr. High School, North High, and the University of Nebraska at Omaha administration building.

A spokesman for the District 66 said school officials are doing their best to comply with the fire regulations.

The spokesman said a $3,000 building to store the flammable materials is under construction, and that the building is to be completed in time for the start of school.

Meanwhile, Superintendent Owen A. Knutzen said his office will immediately begin an investigation of the alleged improper maintenance and custodial practices in the Omaha School District.

Knutzen's comments were made in response to the warrants issued against the principal and assistant maintenance supervisor at Burke High School.

Webster County Clinic Defeated

Lincoln Star Special

Red Cloud — Webster County voters Tuesday defeated a proposed County Medical Clinic to be built as an addition to the County Community Hospital here.

According to County Clerk Betty Bohrer's office, the unofficial tally was 799 for and 1,101 against the $200,000 bond issue.

Missing Waverly Girl Is Arrested In Kansas

A Waverly girl reported missing since Monday night was located Tuesday night in Merriam, Kan., according to Lancaster County Deputy Mel Green.

Green said Roberta Lee Titus, 18, was arrested at a motel along with a man tentatively identified as Wade Hampton Bigelow, 25, from Florida.

The two were arrested by Merriam police after the motel they checked into ran a check on the credit card they were using and found it to be listed as stolen.

The credit card belonged to Robert Mundy of San Diego, Calif., and Bigelow apparently had been passing himself off as Mundy for some time, Green said.

Mundy left his San Diego home for North Carolina in late July and has not been heard from since by his wife, with whom he reportedly quarrelled

Officials had suspected foul play after Miss Titus called her mother about midnight Monday and said she was in Council Bluffs, Iowa, and was going "on vacation" to California. The phone then went dead.

Green said Miss Titus told Merriam police that she was not being held against her will.

He said another man thought to be traveling with Bigelow was still being sought.

Test Your Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts and North leads the king of spades. How would you play the hand? (Assume that the trumps are divided 2-2.)

	♠ 82 ♥ KQJ94 ♦ A63 ♣ K75
♠ A763 ♥ A1082 ♦ K95 ♣ J4	N W E S

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump and North leads the diamond jack. How would you play the hand?

	♠ AK73 ♥ 82 ♦ AKQ6 ♣ AQ5
♠ 84 ♥ AK5 ♦ 53 ♣ 109764	N W E S

1. Win the spade with the ace, draw trumps, and play a low club towards the jack! This gives you a 75 per cent chance for the contract, which is clearly better than the 50 per cent chance you'd have if you started the clubs by leading one from dummy.

The low club play to the jack makes the contract whenever North has the queen, or 50 per cent of the time. He is compelled to take the queen, and when you later play the jack of clubs, forcing out the ace, you can then discard a diamond from dummy on the king of clubs. Your only losers are a spade and two clubs.

Even if South has the queen of clubs and wins the first club lead with it, you are not necessarily out of the ball game. You still have time to play a club to the king later on and, if South has the ace, make the contract that way.

The suggested play fails when South has the queen and North the ace — which occurs in one deal out of four — but in that case any other method of play also fails.

2. Win the diamond and play the ace of clubs, followed by the queen. This guarantees you either four or five club tricks — and the contract — regardless of how the suit is divided.

The trap to avoid is a heart lead to dummy at trick two, intending to take a club finesse. This would prove highly fatal if North had three or four clubs to the K-J and returned a heart as soon as he won the first club trick. It would permanently sever your connection with dummy and result in scoring only eight tricks — instead of eleven or twelve. The sure way is the best way.

ITEMIZED CHART . . . shows grocery prices at four Lincoln stores over the past year.

Grocery Prices Are Up—Again

Food prices are putting a pinch on the pocketbook — again.

After a brief reprieve during June, when surveyed prices were an average 75 cents less than those posted during last July's post-freeze period, they have resumed their upward climb.

This month's survey of grocery prices at four sample supermarkets revealed a dazzling 83-cent average increase over prices stamped on the same foodstuffs two months ago.

But the total cost of the 17 items still is well below the all-time high witnessed in March.

A paradoxical situation surfaces, however, when comparing this month's totals to those compiled by the Star Women's Department six months and one year ago.

No pattern exists.

Placed against February's prices, this month's are down at two of the chain stores and the locally owned grocery, but up at the third chain supermarket. Even the decreases are dissimilar, 49 cents at one, compared to 5 and 6 cents at the others. The increase at the fourth grocery from February to August was a noticeable 46 cents.

And the year-long comparisons are equally confusing with prices decreasing an average 27.5 cents at two of the chains while they increased 57.5 cents at the third chain and at the locally-owned grocery outlet.

The unsettling increase in groceries over the past two months may be attributed to increased costs of fresh foods, particularly eggs, bacon and pork chops (at two of the supermarkets), as well as penny-at-a-time jumps in the cost of canned goods.

— Large eggs cost an average of 11 cents per dozen more this month.

— Bacon, per one-pound package, underwent an astounding 34.5-cent average increase.

— Recovering from one chain store's outstanding special over the survey weekend in June, proved impossible for pork chops. The average increase was 21 cents, despite a 19-cent average decrease at two groceries.

— Although unchanged at two of the stores, the cost of green beans inched upward an average of three cents at two stores.

— And pork and beans underwent similar price changes, adding up to a 10-cent plus increase over the past year.

— Peanut butter is costing 3.5-cents up to a 10-cent-plus increase over the past year more these days.

— Ketchup, long the stable (pricewise) offspring of the tomato product industry, encountered a four-cent price increase over the two-month period.

— Although the cost of frozen peas dropped four cents at the locally-owned grocery, the same freezer-fresh vegetables climbed more than three cents, average, at each of the chain stores.

— Due to an advertised special, the average cost of ground beef seemed to be holding relatively stable despite four- and 10-cent increases at two supermarkets.

— A similar weekend special caused the price of round steak to drop 32 cents from June's surveyed prices. At two other stores, however, that same cut of meat went up more than 30 cents.

— In the dairy case, milk seems to have stabilized over the past months and now has settled at a price generally three-cents less than in June.

— Similar stabilizing effects were witnessed in the costs of flour, bread, tuna and spaghetti.

Women Fill Athletic Director Posts

They are beginning to show up here and there — women's athletic directors — and they are beginning to develop programs, including intercollegiate, for female college students.

In one of the most recent appointments, Katherine (Kit) Saunders, a native of Teaneck, N.J., was named women's athletic director at the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

And at Kansas State in Manhattan, 29-year-old Judy Akers has been named director of women's athletics. She already has been able to get the legislature to fund six state schools with $50,000 to $60,000 each for women's athletics for next fall, and secure equal time at gyms, playfields, tracks and pools.

And all this is what has the officials of college athletic departments, long male run for male athletes, worried, because they can see a loss of funds.

The mushrooming of women's athletic programs, including intercollegiate competition, has been spurred by Title IX of the Equal Amendments Act of 1972 that provides equality in athletics at any institutions getting federal funds.

The situation was described recently by Lon Farrell, administrative assistant to Athletic Director Frank Broyles at the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville. Said he:

"If the women could get a good strong program together that could support itself, why that's all right with us, you know. But it would quite naturally be real tough on us if we had to finance it. We operate solely on football at Arkansas. We have to carry all other sports and to be truthful, we're having a hard time making both ends meet right now."

In looking at her assignment, Ms. Saunders said: "There's a great deal of work to be done. It's an exciting future and I'm looking forward to building a solid women's program at Wisconsin." And Prof. Frederick W. Haberman, athletic board chairman, said she would get "strong support from the faculty, administration and the athletic board.

'Pioneers' In Home Tailoring Provide Sewing Aids

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

There sits Mom at the sewing machine.

For years, she has been assembling suits and dresses for herself; school clothes, play clothes, pajamas for the children.

But when her hsband asks if she will make something for him — a sports jacket, slacks, a suit —she explains to him that the results of such an undertaking would probably be disastrous; that successful tailoring is best left to professionals.

That's the way it's been in the past. But thanks to the efforts of a Houston, Tex. couple — Ed and Dolores Edwards — the "secrets" of successful tailoring are now available to all seamstresses.

ED AND DOLORES EDWARDS . . . examine tailoring aid packets.

Mrs. Edwards, with the assistance of her husband, has developed a method whereby a seamstress can obtain professional tailoring results (for both men and women) at home.

In Lincoln this week for a tailoring workshop to be held Wednesday at Brandeis, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards explained that the method — which incorporates the use of a book written by Mrs. Edwards, packets of "findings" (the various materials used inside a suit by professional tailors), and workshops — has evolved over a period of about 20 years.

Mr. Edwards first asked his wife to attempt to make him a jacket when he "found out how much custom tailored apparel costs," the petite Mrs. Edwards said.

Although she had been sewing for some time, she found that tailoring men's wear was all but impossible, due to the inavailability of professional materials and instructions.

"I was never happy with the way the jackets I made looked," Mrs. Edwards continued.

So, she decided to attack the problem.

She disassembled several of her husband's custom made jackets, in an effort to discover the "secrets" of successful tailoring. She consulted tailors. And she kept experimenting.

When she had perfected her method, she began teaching classes through the adult education and YWCA programs in Houston.

"The classes were very successful," she stated, adding that, at one point, 252 people signed up for a class which could accomodate only 20 students.

As a result of the overwhelming response to her classes, Mrs. Edwards and her husband — who left his job as a television sportscaster — founded the Fashion Sewing Institute in Houston. And shortly thereafter, her book, "The Dolores Edwards Method: Men's Jackets and Pants," was published.

However, it was still difficult for women to obtain tailor's findings comparable to those "used by professional custom tailors and better ready-to-wear manufacturers," Mr. Edwards pointed out.

Consequently, he began looking around for sources from whom they could purchase findings.

The results of his search are the "Man-Pak Jac-Kit," the "Man-Pak Slac-Kit," and the "Ms-Pak," (for women's jackets) which are now available in fabric departments across the country. (And can be used with any jacket or slacks pattern.)

All of the findings contained in the packets are pre-assembled, so that the seamstress has only to "trim them to fit and insert them in the garment," Mrs. Edwards explained.

And the findings can be used with jacket patterns "up to size 50."

By supplying the seamstress with such items as prepadded canvas coat fronts, shoulder pads, sleeve heads, tailor's tape and pre-padded undercollars, the Edwardses have, in Mrs. Edward's words, "taken the hassle out of tailoring."

"Most women don't need to take one of our workshops to be able to use the materials," Edwards said. "But most feel that they do."

"They have to be kind of led by the hand," Mrs. Edwards added with a smile, referring to what she terms the "psychological barrier against sewing men's clothing."

However, tailoring is "a fun area," Mrs. Edwards stated. "Women can save a fantastic amount of money, and the men are happy."

Backing up her statement with facts, she went on to note that, for $35, she made her husband a Bill Blass designer suit that would retail for $200 to $250.

And the Ann Klein jacket she was wearing — which retails for $160 — can be made at home for as little as $20.

It should take the average seamstress about 15 hours to make a man's jacket, Mrs. Edwards said. And approximately six to eight hours of sewing will go into a woman's jacket.

"I don't think experience is as important as desire," she continued in response to a question concerning how much experience a seamstress needs in order to do a good job of tailoring.

Stating that he and his wife have also begun to market packets of lining material which is like that used by tailors, Edwards said, "We're trying to provide things that haven't been available at all to women."

Up to this time, home tailoring has been a "dormant area," according to Mrs. Edwards.

"We're trying to develop this area. In a sense, we're pioneering."

Abby Provides An Explanation

DEAR ABBY: Your advice works miracles.

On June 2, the Philadelphia Bulletin ran the following item, datelined Toronto, Canada:

"The tax department received a letter along with a tax return recently.

'I haven't been able to sleep since cheating on my income tax,' the letter read. 'Am enclosing my check for $500. If still unable to sleep, will mail you the balance.' "

The following item appeared on the same day in the DEAR ABBY column in the Washington (D.C.) Star-News:

"DEAR ABBY: I haven't been able to sleep very well. You see, I did a little creative bookkeeping on my income tax by way of 'deductions.' Any suggestions?

INSOMNIAC

"DEAR IN: Send the Internal Revenue Service a check for $500. And if you still can't sleep, send them the balance."

Now, that's what I call action!

A.C. ROBIDOUX, DOVER, DEL.

DEAR A.C.: Not really: The letter in my column was scheduled for release on March 22nd. And that's when it ran in Toronto.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a big mouth. I've heard that he has been blabbing all around the warehouse where he works all kinds of personal things about his sex life.

This is very embarrassing to me because I know all the guys who work there, and I can hardly look them in the eye knowing they know so much about me.

This is enough to make me want to pack up and leave him. Am I wrong?

STELLA

DEAR STELLA: Don't pack until you're sure he was talking about you.

DEAR ABBY: My fiance is a divorced man. His "ex" calls him once a week without fail "to talk." They have no children, so I don't know what they have to talk about. (She is still unmarried.)

My fiance says he doesn't mind her calling him because he appreciates knowing that she is okay.

He is very good to me, but these calls from his "ex" every week irritate me. I would like your opinion.

"R"

DEAR "R": In my opinion, your fiance appears to be a very kind and considerate man. He's not married yet. If his "ex" continues to call him, and he continues to "not mind" after he's married to you, write again, and I may have a different opinion.

CONFIDENTIAL TO KAY: Take your time, and get to know him better. When his true character "crops out," you may witness a crop failure.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

ITEMIZED CHART . . . shows grocery prices at four Lincoln stores over the past year.

Grocery Prices Are Up—Again

Food prices are putting a pinch on the pocketbook — again.

After a brief reprieve during June, when surveyed prices were an average 75 cents less than those posted during last July's post-freeze period, they have resumed their upward climb.

This month's survey of grocery prices at four sample supermarkets revealed a dazzling 83-cent average increase over prices stamped on the same foodstuffs two months ago.

But the total cost of the 17 items still is well below the all-time high witnessed in March.

A paradoxical situation surfaces, however, when comparing this month's totals to those compiled by the Star Women's Department six months and one year ago.

No pattern exists.

Placed against February's prices, this month's are down at two of the chain stores and the locally owned grocery, but up at the third chain supermarket. Even the decreases are dissimilar, 49 cents at one, compared to 5 and 6 cents at the others. The increase at the fourth grocery from February to August was a noticeable 46 cents.

And the year-long comparisons are equally confusing with prices decreasing an average 27.5 cents at two of the chains while they increased 57.5 cents at the third chain and at the locally-owned grocery outlet.

The unsettling increase in groceries over the past two months may be attributed to increased costs of fresh foods, particularly eggs, bacon and pork chops (at two of the supermarkets), as well as penny-at-a-time jumps in the cost of canned goods.

— Large eggs cost an average of 11 cents per dozen more this month.

— Bacon, per one-pound package, underwent an astounding 34.5-cent average increase.

— Recovering from one chain store's outstanding special over the survey weekend in June, proved impossible for pork chops. The average increase was 21 cents, despite a 19-cent average decrease at two groceries.

— Although unchanged at two of the stores, the cost of green beans inched upward an average of three cents at two stores.

— And pork and beans underwent similar price changes, adding up to a 10-cent plus increase over the past year.

— Peanut butter is costing 3.5-cents up to a 10-cent-plus increase over the past year more these days.

— Ketchup, long the stable (pricewise) offspring of the tomato product industry, encountered a four-cent price increase over the two-month period.

— Although the cost of frozen peas dropped four cents at the locally-owned grocery, the same freezer-fresh vegetables climbed more than three cents, average, at each of the chain stores.

— Due to an advertised special, the average cost of ground beef seemed to be holding relatively stable despite four- and 10-cent increases at two supermarkets.

— A similar weekend special caused the price of round steak to drop 32 cents from June's surveyed prices. At two other stores, however, that same cut of meat went up more than 30 cents.

— In the dairy case, milk seems to have stabilized over the past months and now has settled at a price generally three-cents less than in June.

— Similar stabilizing effects were witnessed in the costs of flour, bread, tuna and spaghetti.

Test Your Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts and North leads the king of spades. How would you play the hand? (Assume that the trumps are divided 2-2.)

♠ 82 ♥ KQJ94 ♦ A63 ♣ K75 — N W E S — ♠ A763 ♥ A1082 ♦ K95 ♣ J4

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump and North leads the diamond jack. How would you play the hand?

♠ AK73 ♥ 82 ♦ AKQ6 ♣ AQ5 — N W E S — ♠ 84 ♥ AK5 ♦ 53 ♣ 1097642

1. Win the spade with the ace, draw trumps, and play a low club towards the jack! This gives you a 75 per cent chance for the contract, which is clearly better than the 50 per cent chance you'd have if you started the clubs by leading one from dummy.

The low club play to the jack makes the contract whenever North has the queen, or 50 per cent of the time. He is compelled to take the queen, and when you later play the jack of clubs, forcing out the ace, you can then discard a diamond from dummy on the king of clubs. Your only losers are a spade and two clubs.

Even if South has the queen of clubs and wins the first club lead with it, you are not necessarily out of the ball game. You still have time to play a club to the king later on and, if South has the ace, make the contract that way.

The suggested play fails when South has the queen and North the ace — which occurs in one deal out of four — but in that case any other method of play also fails.

2. Win the diamond and play the ace of clubs, followed by the queen. This guarantees you either four or five club tricks — and the contract — regardless of how the suit is divided.

The trap to avoid is a heart lead to dummy at trick two, intending to take a club finesse. This would prove highly fatal if North had three or four clubs to the K-J and returned a heart as soon as he won the first club trick. It would permanently sever your connection with dummy and result in scoring only eight tricks — instead of eleven or twelve. The sure way is the best way.

Women Fill Athletic Director Posts

They are beginning to show up here and there — women's athletic directors — and they are beginning to develop programs, including intercollegiate, for female college students.

In one of the most recent appointments, Katherine (Kit) Saunders, a native of Teaneck, N.J., was named women's athletic director at the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

And at Kansas State in Manhattan, 29-year-old Judy Akers has been named director of women's athletics. She already has been able to get the legislature to fund six state schools with $50,000 to $60,000 each for women's athletics for next fall, and secure equal time at gyms, playfields, tracks and pools.

And all this is what has the officials of college athletic departments, long male run for male athletes, worried, because they can see a loss of funds.

The mushrooming of women's athletic programs, including intercollegiate competition, has been spurred by Title IX of the Equal Amendments Act of 1972 that provides equality in athletics at any institutions getting federal funds.

The situation was described recently by Lon Farrell, administrative assistant to Athletic Director Frank Broyles at the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville. Said he:

"If the women could get a good strong program together that could support itself, why that's all right with us, you know. But it would quite naturally be real tough on us if we had to finance it. We operate solely on football at Arkansas. We have to carry all other sports and to be truthful, we're having a hard time making both ends meet right now."

In looking at her assignment, Ms. Saunders said: "There's a great deal of work to be done. It's an exciting future and I'm looking forward to building a solid women's program at Wisconsin." And Prof. Frederick W. Haberman, athletic board chairman, said she would get "strong support from the faculty, administration and the athletic board.

DEBBIE LAWLER OF PHOENIX . . . sits aboard her motorcycle in New York City.

She's A Female Evel Knievel

New York (AP) — Debbie Lawler flashes a diamond engagement ring bigger than Chris Evert's and says if she competed as much as Billie Jean King she could win four times as much money.

Debbie exudes femininity, but tennis, the traditional game for the gentell, isn't her bag.

Motorcycle jumping is.

She's touted as the female Evel Knievel, and although she has no plans to jump the Snake River Canyon, she loves to show him up.

"Last Jan. 3 in the Astrodome, I broke Evel's crowd record with 100,000 in two days," she said in an interview.

She also broke his record for the indoor jump, sailing over 16 cars, but Knievel won it back last month in Portland, Ore., by adding a car.

Miss Lawler's next coup over the world-famous daredevil is to be carried out by Santa Claus.

"We're coming out with a Debbie Lawler doll for Christmas that will jump farther than the Evel Knievel doll," she said.

Debbie, in many respects, is doll-like herself. She is billed as "the flying angel." She has blue eyes and her long blonde hair is swept into a top-knot with a few wisps left to tickle her pixie-like face.

"I'm only 5 feet 2 and weigh 105," she said. "I used to be a fashion model and I was the smallest one. I wear a size three or five dress.

"People just don't understand how I can handle a motorcycle that weighs more than twice what I do, but when the bike lands, I absorb the impact just like a jockey."

And like jockeys, she has had her spills. Earlier this year she cracked three vertebrae during a jump at Ontario Motor Speedway when her 250cc motorcycle overshot the ramp.

"I really shouldn't be jumping now," she said.

But she did — Friday at the Orange County Speedway in upstate New York. And her fiance, Frank Hughes, a right wing for the Houston Aeros of the World Hockey Association, was there.

"The more I see her jump, the more I realize she knows what she's doing. She has a great deal of confidence," he said. "But I wish she wouldn't jump at all."

Debbie has no intentions of quitting, even though she says motorcycle jumping is the most dangerous sport in the world.

"There's nothing to protect you and you can't calculate speed," said the 23-year-old Phoenix resident. "That's why we draw such big crowds.

"I don't think they want to see me crash but if it's going to happen, they want to be there."

Key Is A Solid Bed Of Coals

The key to a successful barbecue is starting with a solid bed of glowing coals — without flames. Light the fire at least 30 minutes ahead of time so it can burn down to ash-gray coals. Spread coals so that no two touch. The racks should be about 6 to 8 inches over the coals. Chicken tastes best when broiled over hot coals, not in flame or smoke.

'World's Greatest Neighborhood Circus' To Be Held Thursday

It's circus time!

The fourth annual "World's Greatest Neighborhood Circus" promises to be bigger and better than ever.

There will be live dinosaurs plaguing the ever-present clowns. There will be unicycles and a double bicycle act. There will be skits. There will be trapeze artists. And there will be fierce animals — all two legged.

The costumes are hemmed. The circus parade, 10 blocks long, has raised curiosities. All is just about ready for show time.

The animals, performers, ringmasters and props personnel — some 75 in all, and all from 43 neighboring families — will take to the big top, or lawn, at 1330 No. 37th St. for performances at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Thursday.

Proceeds — donations only! — will go to the Lincoln Children's Zoo.

Over the years, past performances of the "World's Greatest Neighborhood Circus" have netted more than $200 in contributions for the zoo.

Indian Films To Be Shown

Two American Indian films will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery.

"Indian Life" is narrated by Marlon Brando.

The second film, "Spoken From My Heart," narrated by Grace Spottedeagle, features interviews with older American Indians filmed during the Wounded Knee incident.

The American Indian Association at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln is sponsoring the showing. Donation proceeds will go to the Wounded Knee Defense-Offense Committee.

County Court Case Total Rises 4.5% In Fiscal Year

By United Press International

More than 160,000 cases were filed in Nebraska's 93 county courts during the fiscal year which ended June 30, State Court Administrator James Dunlevey said Tuesday.

Dunlevey said according to figures available from previous years, the number of cases amounted to an increase of 4.5% over the 1972-73 fiscal year.

However, the administrator said, an exact comparison "is impossible because of the reorganization of the county courts, which went into effect in January, 1973.

Fees and costs collected by the county courts and deposited in the state general fund totalled $1,371,114, more than half of the $2,610,000 spent in general fund money for the operation of the courts.

$3 Million In Fines

The county courts collected almost $3 million in fines, with $2,456,626 going to school funds under provisions of the state Constitution and another $523,885 in truck overload fines devoted to state and county road purposes.

About 57% of the cases handled by the county courts, Dunlevey said, involved traffic violations with June of this year producing the highest volume of traffic cases during the year.

There were 8,166 state traffic cases filed in June and another 1,999 involving violations of municipal traffic ordinances.

Hall County Busiest

Dunlevey said the Hall County Court was the busiest in the state with 11,900 cases filed, just slightly more than Lincoln county's 11,295.

Other county courts in the top 12 busiest category included: Sarpy, 6,949; Scotts Bluff, 6,539; Douglas, 6,429; Cass, 5,938; Lancaster, 5,602; Dodge, 5,321; Madison, 4,559; Adams, 4,024, and Buffalo, 3,959.

At the other end of the scale, the state's smallest county in population, Arthur, also had the fewest cases — 11.

Not Complete Picture

However, Dunlevey said, because of the differences in the kinds of cases involved, the numbers don't actually reflect a complete picture of the workload.

For example, he said the Lincoln and Omaha municipal courts handle much of the traffic and civil cases that are usually handled by county courts.

Dunlevey also said the fiscal year report indicated the popularity of the small claims court, established last year as part of each county court.

Small Claims Filings

Small claims filings totaled 5,837 with 5,583 cases disposed of during the year. More than 2,000 of the cases were dismissed by the plaintiffs prior to trial but of the more than 3,000 tried only 81 were appealed.

"To me, this indicates general satisfaction with the small claims procedure," Dunlevey said.

Rice's Release On Bail Asked By His Attorney

As expected, a request has been filed in U.S. District Court that David Rice, convicted of the 1970 suitcase bombing of Omaha Policeman Larry Minard, be released on bail.

Judge Warren K. Urbom ordered July 5 that the state either release or retry Rice because evidence used in his trial was the result of an illegal search.

The state Monday appealed that decision to the U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Rice and Edward Poindexter, both of Omaha, both convicted of first degree murder in the bombing, are now in the Nebraska Penal Complex.

Minard was killed when a bomb in a suitcase exploded as he answered a call to a vacant house.

In addition to the request for "reasonable bail," the application filed by Rice's Omaha attorney, David Herzog, also asks that parties to Urbom's decision be given an opportunity to argue the matter in court.

Board Paroles Omaha Women

York (AP) — The Nebraska Parole Board Tuesday granted parole to three Omaha women, but denied parole to another.

Paroled were Laura Helen Greer, 23, sentenced for receiving stolen money orders; Patricia Van Ackeren, 23, illegally delivering drugs; and Mary Lee Woods, 27, possession of drugs.

Maggie Finley, 22, of Omaha was denied parole. She was sentenced for larceny from a person.

Judge Orders G.I. To Stop Collecting Fines

Grand Island (UPI) — A Hall County judge has ordered the City of Grand Island to halt the collecting of parking meter fines and threatened the city manager with a contempt charge.

The order from Judge Edward Dixon came in the wake of a statement made by City Manager John Carpenter Monday telling citizens it was their duty to pay parking meter fines at the police station or in downtown drop boxes.

Last Friday, Dixon ruled the city's ordinances pertaining to parking meters unconstitutional.

Dixon said the city should refrain from further collecting pending court action appealing the decision by the city.

Dixon said Carpenter's statement Monday was a "deliberate attempt" to defy the court. He ordered Carpenter to correct his statement or show cause why he shouldn't be held in contempt.

Dixon noted that the payment of fines through the collection boxes constitutes an automatic guilty plea and avoids the county court.

Antiabortionists 'Financially Ill'

Omaha (AP) — The Nebraska Coalition for Life, (NCL) an antiabortion group, is financially ill, according to the groups seasonal publication "Nebraska Life."

Officially organized as a nonprofit, non-denominational state coordinating agency in March of last year, NCL officials say not enough money is coming in.

Officials say the money is sorely needed if the group is to maintain its energetic efforts.

"While many have donated and have made it possible to attain some of the goals, NCL is now in very real need for funds if it is to continue being a vital, dynamic 'voice of life,'" the publications said.

NCL has fallen in arrears on some of its bills, according to the newsletter.

Lincoln church news is carried on a special page in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Market Manages Broad Gain

New York (AP) — The stock market cooled off after some early fireworks but still managed a broad gain Tuesday in another session of Washington-watching on Wall Street.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials surged 25.82 points in the first half hour, then slipped back to finish with a 13.38-point gain at 773.70.

Gainers led losers by about a 3-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange in turnover of 15.77 million shares — the heaviest total in more than three weeks.

Every move the market made seemed once again to be dictated by unfolding events surrounding the question of impeachment and President Nixon's future in office.

The early burst of buying was attributed by brokers to the spreading belief that the impeachment issue might soon be resolved, said news reports of ebbing support in Congress for the President.

Then, as frequently happens after a sudden upward move in the market, profit-taking set in, gradually drawing the Dow back to a gain of about 19 early in the afternoon.

At that point, after a Cabinet meeting with Nixon, administration officials said the President had asserted he would "fight on," in one aide's words, and would not resign.

With that the market slipped back futher, and then drifted through the last hour and a half.

Heinz H. Biel at Hoppin, Watson, Inc., said a major feature of the rally was "frantic short-covering," or the repurchase of borrowed shares sold earlier by investors looking for declines in stock prices.

DEBBIE LAWLER OF PHOENIX . . . sits aboard her motorcycle in New York City.

She's A Female Evel Knievel

New York (AP) — Debbie Lawler flashes a diamond engagement ring bigger than Chris Evert's and says if she competed as much as Billie Jean King she could win four times as much money.

Debbie exudes femininity, but tennis, the traditional game for the gentell, isn't her bag.

Motorcycle jumping is.

She's touted as the female Evel Knievel, and although she has no plans to jump the Snake River Canyon, she loves to show him up.

"Last Jan. 3 in the Astrodome, I broke Evel's crowd record with 100,000 in two days," she said in an interview.

She also broke his record for the indoor jump, sailing over 16 cars, but Knievel won it back last month in Portland, Ore., by adding a car.

Miss Lawler's next coup over the world-famous daredevil is to be carried out by Santa Claus.

"We're coming out with a Debbie Lawler doll for Christmas that will jump farther than the Evel Knievel doll," she said.

Debbie, in many respects, is doll-like herself. She is billed as "the flying angel." She has blue eyes and her long blonde hair is swept into a top-knot with a few wisps left to tickle her pixie-like face.

"I'm only 5 feet 2 and weigh 105," she said. "I used to be a fashion model and I was the smallest one. I wear a size three or five dress.

"People just don't understand how I can handle a motorcycle that weighs more than twice what I do, but when the bike lands, I absorb the impact just like a jockey."

And like jockeys, she has had her spills. Earlier this year she cracked three vertebrae during a jump at Ontario Motor Speedway when her 250cc motorcycle overshot the ramp.

"I really shouldn't be jumping now," she said.

But she did — Friday at the Orange County Speedway in upstate New York. And her fiance, Frank Hughes, a right wing for the Houston Aeros of the World Hockey Association, was there.

"The more I see her jump, the more I realize she knows what she's doing. She has a great deal of confidence," he said. "But I wish she wouldn't jump at all."

Debbie has no intentions of quitting, even though she says motorcycle jumping is the most dangerous sport in the world.

"There's nothing to protect you and you can't calculate speed," said the 23-year-old Phoenix resident. "That's why we draw such big crowds.

"I don't think they want to see me crash but if it's going to happen, they want to be there."

Key Is A Solid Bed Of Coals

The key to a successful barbecue is starting with a solid bed of glowing coals — without flames. Light the fire at least 30 minutes ahead of time so it can burn down to ash-gray coals. Spread coals so that no two touch. The racks should be about 6 to 8 inches over the coals. Chicken tastes best when broiled over hot coals, not in flame or smoke.

'World's Greatest Neighborhood Circus' To Be Held Thursday

It's circus time!

The fourth annual "World's Greatest Neighborhood Circus" promises to be bigger and better than ever.

There will be live dinosaurs plaguing the ever-present clowns. There will be unicycles and a double bicycle act. There will be skits. There will be trapeze artists. And there will be fierce animals — all two legged.

The costumes are hemmed. The circus parade, 10 blocks long, has raised curiosities. All is just about ready for show time.

The animals, performers, ringmasters and props personnel — some 75 in all, and all from 43 neighboring families — will take to the big top, or lawn, at 1330 No. 37th St. for performances at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Thursday.

Proceeds — donations only! — will go to the Lincoln Children's Zoo.

Over the years, past performances of the "World's Greatest Neighborhood Circus" have netted more than $200 in contributions for the zoo.

Indian Films To Be Shown

Two American Indian films will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery.

"Indian Life" is narrated by Marlon Brando.

The second film, "Spoken From My Heart," narrated by Grace Spottedeagle, features interviews with older American Indians filmed during the Wounded Knee incident.

The American Indian Association at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln is sponsoring the showing. Donation proceeds will go to the Wounded Knee Defense-Offense Committee.

County Court Case Total Rises 4.5% In Fiscal Year

By United Press International

More than 160,000 cases were filed in Nebraska's 93 county courts during the fiscal year which ended June 30, State Court Administrator James Dunlevey said Tuesday.

Dunlevey said according to figures available from previous years, the number of cases amounted to an increase of 4.5% over the 1972-73 fiscal year.

However, the administrator said, an exact comparison "is impossible because of the reorganization of the county courts, which went into effect in January, 1973.

Fees and costs collected by the county courts and deposited in the state general fund totalled $1,371,114, more than half of the $2,610,000 spent in general fund money for the operation of the courts.

$3 Million In Fines

The county courts collected almost $3 million in fines, with $2,456,626 going to school funds under provisions of the state Constitution and another $523,885 in truck overload fines devoted to state and county road purposes.

About 57% of the cases handled by the county courts, Dunlevey said, involved traffic violations with June of this year producing the highest volume of traffic cases during the year.

There were 8,166 state traffic cases filed in June and another 1,999 involving violations of municipal traffic ordinances.

Hall County Busiest

Dunlevey said the Hall County Court was the busiest in the state with 11,900 cases filed, just slightly more than Lincoln county's 11,295.

Other county courts in the top 12 busiest category included: Sarpy, 6,949; Scotts Bluff, 6,539; Douglas, 6,429; Cass, 5,938; Lancaster, 5,602; Dodge, 5,321; Madison, 4,559; Adams, 4,024, and Buffalo, 3,959.

At the other end of the scale, the state's smallest county in population, Arthur, also had the fewest cases — 11.

Not Complete Picture

However, Dunlevey said, because of the differences in the kinds of cases involved, the numbers don't actually reflect a complete picture of the workload.

For example, he said the Lincoln and Omaha municipal courts handle much of the traffic and civil cases that are usually handled by county courts.

Dunlevey also said the fiscal year report indicated the popularity of the small claims court, established last year as part of each county court.

Small Claims Filings

Small claims filings totaled 5,837 with 5,583 cases disposed of during the year. More than 2,000 of the cases were dismissed by the plaintiffs prior to trial but of the more than 3,000 tried only 81 were appealed.

"To me, this indicates general satisfaction with the small claims procedure," Dunlevey said.

Rice's Release On Bail Asked By His Attorney

As expected, a request has been filed in U.S. District Court that David Rice, convicted of the 1970 suitcase bombing of Omaha Policeman Larry Minard, be released on bail.

Judge Warren K. Urbom ordered July 5 that the state either release or retry Rice because evidence used in his trial was the result of an illegal search.

The state Monday appealed that decision to the U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Rice and Edward Poindexter, both of Omaha, both convicted of first degree murder in the bombing, are now in the Nebraska Penal Complex.

Minard was killed when a bomb in a suitcase exploded as he answered a call to a vacant house.

In addition to the request for "reasonable bail," the application filed by Rice's Omaha attorney, David Herzog, also asks that parties to Urbom's decision be given an opportunity to argue the matter in court.

Lincoln church news is carried on a special page in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Missing

UPI

Ruth Marie Martin, 17, is being sought by Scottsbluff authorities. She was last seen July 24, when she apparently left town with two South Dakota youths. Miss Martin is 5 feet, 7 inches tall and weighs 135 pounds.

Board Paroles Omaha Women

York (AP) — The Nebraska Parole Board Tuesday granted parole to three Omaha women, but denied parole to another.

Paroled were Laura Helen Greer, 23, sentenced for receiving stolen money orders; Patricia Van Ackeren, 23, illegally delivering drugs; and Mary Lee Woods, 27, possession of drugs.

Maggie Finley, 22, of Omaha was denied parole. She was sentenced for larceny from a person.

Korean Prices Rise

Seoul (AP) — South Korea's wholesale prices went up 1.1% and consumer prices by 1.2% in July, the Economic Planning Board said.

Judge Orders G.I. To Stop Collecting Fines

Grand Island (UPI) — A Hall County judge has ordered the City of Grand Island to halt the collecting of parking meter fines and threatened the city manager with a contempt charge.

The order from Judge Edward Dixon came in the wake of a statement made by City Manager John Carpenter Monday telling citizens it was their duty to pay parking meter fines at the police station or in downtown drop boxes.

Last Friday, Dixon ruled the city's ordinances pertaining to parking meters unconstitutional.

Dixon said the city should refrain from further collecting pending court action appealing the decision by the city.

Dixon said Carpenter's statement Monday was a "deliberate attempt" to defy the court. He ordered Carpenter to correct his statement or show cause why he shouldn't be held in contempt.

Dixon noted that the payment of fines through the collection boxes constitutes an automatic guilty plea and avoids the county court.

Antiabortionists 'Financially Ill'

Omaha (AP) — The Nebraska Coalition for Life, (NCL) an antiabortion group, is financially ill, according to the groups seasonal publication "Nebraska Life."

Officially organized as a nonprofit, non-denominational state coordinating agency in March of last year, NCL officials say not enough money is coming in.

Officials say the money is sorely needed if the group is to maintain its energetic efforts.

"While many have donated and have made it possible to attain some of the goals, NCL is now in very real need for funds if it is to continue being a vital, dynamic 'voice of life,'" the publications said.

NCL has fallen in arrears on some of its bills, according to the newsletter.

Market Manages Broad Gain

New York (AP) — The stock market cooled off after some early fireworks but still managed a broad gain Tuesday in another session of Washington-watching on Wall Street.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials surged 25.82 points in the first half hour, then slipped back to finish with a 13.38-point gain at 773.70.

Gainers led losers by about a 3-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange in turnover of 15.77 million shares — the heaviest total in more than three weeks.

Every move the market made seemed once again to be dictated by unfolding events surrounding the question of impeachment and President Nixon's future in office.

The early burst of buying was attributed by brokers to the spreading belief that the impeachment issue might soon be resolved, said news reports of ebbing support in Congress for the President.

Then, as frequently happens after a sudden upward move in the market, profit-taking set in, gradually drawing the Dow back to a gain of about 19 early in the afternoon.

At that point, after a Cabinet meeting with Nixon, administration officials said the President had asserted he would "fight on," in one aide's words, and would not resign.

With that the market slipped back futher, and then drifted through the last hour and a half.

Heinz H. Biel at Hoppin, Watson, Inc., said a major feature of the rally was "frantic short-covering," or the repurchase of borrowed shares sold earlier by investors looking for declines in stock prices.

Garcia May Not Be Ready

Randy Garcia, Nebraska's 6-3, 180 pound sophomore quarterback from Los Angeles, probably will be redshirted this fall because recovery from knee surgery has been slow, according to trainer Paul Schneider.

Garcia, injured in a scrimmage in the spring, had a cartilage removed and it had been felt that with proper rehabilitation he would be ready for 1974.

Coach Tom Osborne said Garcia showed a great deal of potential until he was hurt and was very much in the picture to be Dave Humm's backup. "He was possibly the best thrower (other than Humm)," Osborne said. "And he ran surprisingly well."

Osborne said the doctors felt it was a solid repair of the knee and that the knee will be sound. Garcia, however, got a later start than had been anticipated in his rehabilitation work and still doesn't have a full extension of the leg.

The Californian has been working with Jack Ward, head trainer at Southern California and a former student assistant here under Schneider, for only about two weeks.

If he doesn't play, the No. 2 spot will go to either junior Terry Luck of Fayetteville, N.C., or sophomore Earl Everett of Kansas City, Mo.

Meanwhile, a clipping from California newspapers says Vince Ferragamo, who last week said he was quitting California-Berkeley and transferring to either Nebraska or San Diego State, now has decided to join the Cornhuskers.

Ferragamo, who started the last three games for California last season, originally was recruited by Nebraska but chose the Bears.

Larry Shupe, an offensive tackle, and Mark Caha, a center, who last week said they were transferring from Nebraska to UN-Omaha, were walk-ons here and ranked on the seventh team at their positions during spring drills.

Schneider is busy these days overseeing the renovation of the visitor's dressing room in Memorial Stadium. New showers, concrete block walls, lockers, a coaches' dressing room, and a suspended ceiling are being installed. It will be well lighted and everything spic and span for Oregon when the Ducks arrive to open the season on Sept. 14.

Catching Up On Sports

The Big Eight Conference, which has put out three separate yearbooks (Fall, Winter and Spring sports) in previous years, has combined them into one book containing over 700 pages and it will be available to the public around Sept. 1 for $5 a copy. If you want one, send your check to Big Eight Yearbook, River Hills/Mark I, 600 East Eighth St., Kansas City, Mo. 64106.

For phone caller: The Sidney, Iowa, Rodeo started Tuesday night and will end Sunday afternoon.

Drag racing fans will trek to Wichita, Kan., for the National Hot Rod Association's World Championship Series races Friday and Saturday.

There are a couple of NCAA publications football fans might want to purchase to keep on top of the game. One is the official guide (NCAA Publishing Service, P.O. Box 1906, Shawnee Mission, Kan. 66222) and the other is College Football's Modern Record Book (NCAA, Box 757, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017). Both are $2.

Oregon has lost its sports information director Hal Cowan, a native of McCook, Neb. Hal, who was known as the "Super Duck," has joined the Portland Storm of the World Football League. Wonder if he'll be called the "Super Storm?"

Bill Fisher (he's NU athletic department business manager) and his wife, Betty, recently returned from a three-week trip to Australia. Stationed there while in service, he wanted to make a return trip and show the country to his wife. An interesting sidenote: they happened to be there while Frank Sinatra got into hot water there with the press.

Group Seeking Nude Olympics

PORT NATURE, France (AP) — Delegates to the World Naturist Congress heard a proposal Tuesday that the next Olympic Games be held in the nude, as they were in the ancient days of Greece.

Nudists from 22 countries talked excitedly of putting the discus thrower back in his old uniform and having the marathon runner streak into the stadium with his flaming torch to inaugurate the games.

Contact sports like soccer and fencing would still call for uniforms, conceded Werner Dorfl, the Australian delegate, who journeyed the farthest to attend the 14th International Nudist Convention. So would skiing and bobsleddding, but there is certainly no reason why the track, swimming and gymnast events could not be held in the nude, which is the way the games began long ago, Dorfl said.

Some delegates envisioned placards hung around each athlete's neck with the flag and name of his country to enable spectators to distinguish at a glance the competitors.

Eight To Seek Amateur Berth

Nebraska amateur champion Tom Sieckmann will be among a field of eight golfers playing 36 holes Aug. 13 at the Lincoln Country Club in an attempt to qualify for the United States Amateur Championship Aug. 26-31 at Ridgewood, N.J.

Only one spot has been allocated to help fill the 200-man starting field. Competition at the Ridgewood County Club will be all match play.

Pairings:

8 a.m. - 12 noon — Robert Howe, Omaha and Tom Sieckmann, Millard.
8:06 - 12:06 — Ing Maurstad, Beatrice and Mark Winstrom, Omaha.
8:12 - 12:12 — Jerry Summa, Bella Vista, Ark., and Fred Gacek, Hooper.
8:18 - 12:18 — Sam Beechner, Seattle, and Jeff DeHaan, Alton, Ia.

Bill Stembridge with his one-of-a-kind 360-degree Aquascan I fish locator.

Chicago Trade Show Features Fish Scanner

By TOM VINT
Outdoor Writer

Chicago — "The first of its kind. None like it anywhere. You haven't seen the likes of this." Outdoor writers and buyers hear it all and then some during the annual American Tackle Manufacturers Association Trade Show here.

But seldom do you hear from the writers and buyers themselves. Bill Stembridge really has something nobody has ever seen before.

How about a 360-degree fish locator? An electric, underwater eyeball all around the boat. It's never been done before.

"The Aquascan I 360-degree locator is the first of its kind," Stembridge asserts. He is the president of Stembridge Products, Inc., which gained its notoriety from Fliptail Plastic Worm products.

"If you are on a six-acre lake, for instance," Stembridge explained, "and there is a fish anywhere in that lake suspended off the bottom and at least a foot long, it will show up on the scanner."

The scanner works on the same principle as any other fish locator in that it uses sonar to determine fish and bottom structure. From there on, the Aquascan I is different.

"It's really not a good depth finder as far as determining the exact depth of the bottom is concerned," Stembridge said. "But this will tell you where you are from the fish."

Stembridge, himself, has been testing the Aquascan I and found it to do the job, as long as the fish is located a foot or more off the bottom of the lake. Otherwise, it won't pick up the fish.

The Aquascan I can radiate a 60-foot or 300-foot beam from the transducer. As in the use of any locator, the transducer, in this case an oval-shaped pod, is placed in the water below the hull of the boat to do its job.

Sound waves are sent fourth and bounce off anything in the water within reach of the scanner setting. A return blip on the scanner screen shows how far the boat is from the fish or structure in the water.

"It'll take a little practice until a fella learns the difference between fish and something like a stump," Stembridge told curious outdoor writers. He pointed out a stump would appear as a low contrast blimp instead of a high constrast blimp from a fish, however. The sonar wave will surround the fish while it doesn't the stump, resulting in the stronger fish signal, according to the inventor.

One onlooker hinted Stembridge's new device would take all the challenge out of fishing since fish would be so much easier to locate.

"You still have to catch 'em," he replied.

The Aquascan I is one of the best kept secrets since the combination of Fort Knox. Its appearance at the tackle show was the first it had been heard by anyone.

It was so new, Stembridge hadn't even figured out how much the thing would cost.

"All I can say right now is it will be somewhere under $1,000," he said. He was also uncertain about all the practical or possible uses of the new 360-degree locator.

It was originally designed for bass fishermen, according to the Stembridge family, but has potential for such groups as charter boat and commercial fishermen and the like.

"We figured bass fishermen are already spending a good deal of money pursuing their sport," Mrs. Stembridge added as to the expense of the Aquascan I. "When they buy boats and equipment worth over $4,000, we thought some would be willing to spend the money for one of these. But, no, it's not for the average weekend fishermen."

Stembridge is planning a national tour in the future to show just how his Aquascan I functions.

There was definitely nothing like it at the show this year. As Mrs. Stembridge puts it, "It's really something, isn't it?"

Baseball Meetings Slated

NEW YORK (UPI) — A possible revision of the playoff format will be the major item discussed at the annual two-day Summer Baseball meetings beginning here Wednesday.

Club owners and general managers will offer their views and possibly vote on the three proposals, all of which would increase the number of teams participating in the playoffs, to revise the League Championship Series beginning no later than 1976.

The first proposed change would include the second place team in each division. The second place team would play the winner in the other division in a series not to exceed three out of five. The winner of these playoffs would then meet for the League Championship in three out of five.

The second change calls for the addition of the teams with the highest winning percentage, regardless of their standings, joining the division winners. Winners of these playoffs would then play each other in a three out of five series for the League Championship.

The third format would split the present division of six teams in each lleague into three divisions of four teams in each league. The winners of each division would then compete in a playoff series not to exceed three out of five games and would be joined by the second place team with the highest winning percentage. Winners of these playoffs would then play each other in a three out of five series for the League Championship.

Also up for discussion will be the new central scouting system in which 17 of the 24 teams will participate. The system pools all the scouts whose reports and information will be available to the pariticpating clubs.

Jim Wilson resigned as general manager of the Milwaukee Brewers earlier this week to assume his new job as head of the scotuing system. He will be assisted by Don Priest who resinged as assistant to the general manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

Other topics not formally scheduled to be reviewed but which could also be discussed include the possibility of expansion and inter - league play.

Midwest Win To Opperman

By BOB MOYER

It was Jan Opperman night at Midwest Speedway Tuesday night as the Beaver Crossing driver proved himself clearly the best of the field assembled for the Midwest Speedway Sprint Car championships.

Opperman placed fourth in the time trials and then, in methodical fashion, won the trophy dash, his heat and the main event, lapping every car but three in the 50-lap feature.

For Opperman, the win, worth in excess of $1,000, came despite a cold the Beaver Crossing driver came down with at Long Pond, Pa., Sunday where he placed eighth in the NASCAR Purolator 500 at Pocono Raceway.

"I woke up this morning with a temperature and the flu. I am really tired now, but there was no chance I'd have missed the races tonight," said Opperman.

Opperman, who started in the second row in the main event, took the lead from Rick Ferkel of Bowling Green, Ohio, on the eighth lap. Before Ferkel had moved in front when early leader Roger Larson, subbing for injured Ray Lee Goodwin, had a flat tire.

"Coming out of the first turn someone's radiator hose had come off, pouring a bunch of water on the track," Opperman said. "It took both of us up high, but my tires had a better bite and I was able to pass him."

After that it was clear sailing for Opperman as he skillfully weaved in, out and around lapped cars en route to the win.

"That's (lapped cars) the biggest worry. But that's one of the best things in running in a higher calibre show such as these championships. The racing's a lot cleaner. These guys are all winners and they know what it's like trying to get around a slower car, so they didn't give me any trouble at all," said Opperman.

Opperman also felt that even without the opportunity to pass Ferkel that he got, he would still have won.

"I was a little quicker. I didn't want to make a strong bid at first. I wanted to get my car dialed up first," said Opperman, adding, "If he had been as fast as me he would have been all over me the rest of the race.

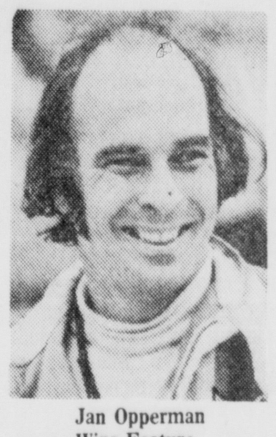
"But you never know, I might not have won. He's (Ferkel) a game and tough driver."

Once in the lead, Opperman said the most important thing was to "set a steady pace. You don't want to put any extra strain on the car and especially the right rear tire.

"My tire is a little softer and in a 50-lap race like this it can get hot and go bad awful quick. In fact, later on in the race I moved up a little higher on the track. There hadn't been as many cars driving there and the track was a little cooler on the tire. Then after I got up there, I found I could go faster anyway," Opperman said.

Opperman said, that as usual, "you have to chase the car all night" to allow for changing track conditions. He pointed out that he had used three different front tires and added that in the main event his motor overheated.

"Actually that was good," Opperman said. "On a slick track like this, it makes the car go faster."



Jan Opperman
Wins Feature

Opperman noted that the track was "in excellent condition. For a short track they really keep this in good shape out here. Plus having the shade all day, the clouds, helped."

Opperman who earlier in the year has won two main events at Midwest will now go on to Kansas City Wednesday night for a sprint car show there and then will be in Knoxville Thursday through Saturday for the sprint car championships.

In other races Tuesday night, Bobby Marshall outdueled Ron Shuman and Norm Martin to win the 20-lap B feature and heat races were captured by Larson, Midwest point leader Dick Sutcliffe, Ferkel and Opperman. Of the four heat races, the most exciting was the one won by Larson, who had to battle back Lonnie Jensen of Lincoln throughout the race.

Maraucci Gains Medalist Honors

By VIRGIL PARKER

Anne Maraucci of Omaha captured medalist honors with an 84 as the Nebraska Junior Girls State Golf Championships opened at the Lincoln Country Club Wednesday.

Maraucci finished two strokes in front of Lincoln's Jane Deeter.

The tournament title — the event is open to girls under the age of 18 — will be decided on a match play basis. The 42 entries were flighted following the qualifying round for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday matches.

Maraucci and Deeter were joined in the championship flight by Theresa Wanek (88) and Sharon Slattery (90) of Omaha, North Platte's Val Skinner (90), Mary Desch (92) and Kay Newhouse (94) of Grand Island and Syracuse's Kathy Morrissey (92).

Neither of the two leaders were happy with their first-day score.

"I had an eight and two sevens," Maraucci moaned. "But, fortunately, I had enough birdies to make up for them."

Anne, who graduated from Westside High in Omaha this spring, is headed for the University of Arizona with Nanette Circo, winner of the state girls championship the past three years.

"She also just graduated from high school," Maraucci says, "but she's already 18 and thus ineligible this year."

Deeter, a senior-to-be at Lincoln Southeast High, blamed her score ("About four strokes over my average") on poor putting.

"They just wouldn't drop," Jane remembered. "I was hitting the ball pretty good, but I couldn't putt. The worst came on No. 16 when I four-putted."

Maraucci knows about poor putting. "I qualified for the championship flight of the women's state tourney," she recalled, "and lost my first match when I took 40 putts on 14 holes while my opponent had just 19."

Deeter also played in the women's state tourney. "Anne and I had the same qualifying score but she won the playoff for the last spot in the championship flight."

Jane won three matches, all by lopsided 6 & 5 scores, before losing in the finals of the first flight to past champion Bunnie Phillips of Norfolk.

"I three-putted seven greens when I played her," Jane recalls. "I just hope the putting improves pretty soon."

Black Heiress, Rapid Rick Top State Fair Futurity

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

One question that provokes arguments from handicappers always is: Should a filly be favored over a colt?

The majority rule that the answer is a firm NO, but still there is always that driving justification for selecting the colt — he got a bad break, or, He was boxed on the turn.

That same question is one that will rise when Paul Kemling's Black Heiress and Julie Larmon-Fronce's Rapid Rick lock horns over a six-furlong duel in the $5,000-added State Fair Futurity at the Fairgrounds Wednesday.

This time, however, the filly draws the high-weight with Black Heiress scheduled to tote 114 pounds with the colt, Rapid Rick, drawing a pound less.

But will that pound make a whole lot of difference? According to track familiars, one pound is worth one length. But others laugh that old adage off saying when weight is that close flip a coin.

Black Heiress holds the better record running away from the field in the Tassel Stakes over four furlongs on July 19 to win by five lengths with John Rettele in the irons. But Black Heiress broke second from the gate and, consequently, was in a good position to make her stretch run.

Rettele, who also rode Rapid Rick in the Kernel Stakes over four furlongs, wasn't as lucky with the colt, getting a bad break (eighth), but rallying the chestnut colt in the stretch run to move from seventh by ten lengths to fourth by two at the wire.

For the Futurity Wednesday, Rettele has chosen to ride the colt over six furlongs. With both figuring as good stretch runners and showing past performances of being able to finish strongly, it won't answer the question of colt or filly, but will provide an exciting dual if each gets a fair break. Black Heiress will be ridden by Kenneth Jones.

Certainly not to be overlooked, however, is Alverna Robinson's Winsor Fair, slated to carry Rodolfo Calderon at 113, as the colt finished second by 1½ lengths to Amporter in the Kernel Stakes. Winsor Fair shows steady speed but has yet to put on a stirring stretch run.

Also in the field of 2-year-olds is Margaret Kinyoun's Mini Mic (110), Zippi's Magic, slated to carry Fred Ecoffey at 110, Nu Barker and Ed Werre at 113, Putsam and Justo Moreno at 113, Shoulda Champ and Jim Bazer at 113 and Southern Marine at 110.

In Tuesday's feature race, the Past Presidents' Purse, an allowance scamper over six furlongs for 3-year-olds, Kenneth Jones and Texas Heritage teamed together to out-class a field of eight and race to a two-length victory in 1:12 2-5.

Texas Heritage, a 3-year-old brown colt by Gallant Heritage out of Witha Rush, won his first race of 1974, but has finished in the money in each of his last three starts. His record includes one victory, place and show finish out of nine starts.

It wasn't even as close as the finish may sound as Jones and Texas Heritage broke on top, laid back around the first curve, then steadily pulled away from the field in the backstretch. Down the last stretch, Jones tucked the whip away and handrode his charge to the wire.

Texas Heritage returned $5.60, $4.00 and $3.20 to backers in the crowd of 5,202. Jesta Honey and Dave King returned $5.40 and $3.60 for place while Peace Flyer and Jim Cuddie showed for $5.80.

The time for the race was 1:12 2-5 — over a second off the track record of 1:11 set by The First Visit in 1970.

By The Associated Press

Amos Otis drove in four runs with a homer and a double Tuesday night, and Tony Solaita drove in three othersas the Kansas City Royals cracked 19 hits and crushed the Minnesota Twins 17-3.

Otis, who also scored four times, brought in two runs with a first-inning double—touching off a six-run Kansas City inning. He hit his 11th home run of the season two innings later, scoring Cookie Rojas.

Solaita brought in his runs with two singles and a forceout.

In other American League games Tuesday night, the Texas Rangers nipped the Oakland A's 1-0; the Cleveland Indians topped the Detroit Tigers 9-7; the Baltimore Orioles tripped the New York Yankees 4-1; the Chicago White Sox bombed the California Angels 12-2, and the Boston Red Sox swept a twi-night doubleheader from the Milwaukee Brewers 6-3 and 6-0.

Ferguson Jenkins handcuffed the A's on two hits and Toby Harrah's fourth-inning double brought home the only run of the game in the Rangers' victory.

John Lowenstein cracked a bases-empty home run to break a 7-7 tie and Buddy Bell's single brought home an insurance run to carry Cleveland past Detroit. John Ellis also hit a solo homer for the Indians, while Bill Freehan's ninth of the season scored three Tigers runs.

The Orioles took advantage of three New York errors to defeat the Yankees. Grant Jackson held off a late New York threat to record his eighth save of the year.

Ken Henderson had three hits, included a bases-loaded second-inning triple which capped a seven-run uprising, and led Chicago's Wilbur Wood to his 17th triumph of the season.

Cecil Cooper slapped three hits, drove in one run and scored two others to help the Red Sox win the first game. Juan Marichal pitched seven shutout inning and Dwight Evans had four runs batted in during the second game triumph.

Mike Tyson drove in three runs to spark St. Louis in the first game, and a two-out, seven-run outburst in the third inning led the Cards to victory in the second game, widening their NL East Division lead to 2½ games over Philadelphia.

Willie Montanez hit his first career grand slam to power the Phils past the Cubs.

Gene Clines reached base on an error in the 11th inning, and later scored on an error to help Pittsburgh beat the Mets.

Dodgers 'Debate' Signing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rarely had such speed been exhibited in a major league outfield, and the graceful leap was somehwat reminiscent of a World Series catch by Duke Snider two decades ago.

"What a center fielder," cracked Red Patterson, a Los Angeles Dodger vice president. "Sign it up."

On second thought, a Dodger spokesman said Tuesday that there were no plans to offer a contract to the would-be outfielder, last seen Tuesday morning wandering in the Dodger Stadium parking lot.

The Dodgers undoubtedly have little faith that the imposter could match Jimmy Wynn's prowess as a hitter.

But catch, Wow! And without a glove, using his or her mouth. Sex of the dog that chased and caught a Frisbee during Monday night's nationally televised game was not determined. The dog was tentatively identified as a whippet, a greyhound-like breed often bred for racing.

The crowd of 51,062 was on its feet cheering as two young men threw the Frisbee and the dog caught it. A national television audience for the Dodger-Cincinnati game also took in the exhibition.

The dog went free as the two men, aged 20 and 23, were apprehended by security officers, turned over to police and booked in jail for investigation of trespassing.

Reds Topple Dodgers

Los Angeles (UPI) — Johnny Bench slammed a tworun homer off ace reliever Mike Marshall with one out in the 10th inning Tuesday night to provide the Cincinnati Reds with a 6-3 victory over Los Angeles and snap the Dodgers' eight-game winning streak.

Beating the Dodgers for only the second time in 11 meetings this year, the defending divisional champion Reds clipped Los Angeles' lead in the National League West to 6 1-2 games.

Marshall, the ironman right-hander who was making his 75th appearance of the season to break a Dodger club record set by Bob Miller in 1964, replaced Don Sutton at the start of the 10th.

Pete Rose got only his second hit in 22 at-bats at Dodger Stadium this season, singling to second to open the Cincinnati 10th. After Joe Morgan lined out to center, Bench delivered his 21st home run of the season into the left field pavilion to snap a 3-3 deadlock. The Reds added a third run in the 10th when Marshall walked Darryl Chaney, Chaney stole second and was singled in by Cesar Geronimo.

Pedro Borbon, the fifth Cincinnati pitcher, worked the ninth and 10th innings to impreove his record to 8-6 while Marshall was tagged with the loss to drop his record to 11-7.

Jimmy Wynn's 81st run batted in of the season enabled the Dodgers to tie the score at 3-3 in the eighth after the Reds had gone ahead on Dan Driessen's run-producing double in the top of the inning.

North Shriners Set Scrimmage

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—The first controlled scrimmage was scheduled Wednesday morning for the North Shrine All-Star camp at Midland College.

Head Coach Keith Staehr of Kimball said he hopes the offense will "come around with the playbook."

Staehr said Ellliot Linafelter of South Sioux City, who suffered a recurring shoulder injury Monday, was back at full speed in contact work Tuesday but was "still a little tender."

He also said he was glad to see the Lexington contingent back in camp after a furlough to play baseball. Included are backs Ted Harvey and Fred Knapple.

Staehr also said the times for the three-a-day workouts have been changed. The morning sessions will start at 9:30 instead of 8 and the afternoon sessions will be moved up to 2:30 from 2 p.m.

They're racing in Lincoln!

Vida Blue

A's Blue In Hospital, Tests Set

DALLAS (UPI) — Oakland A's pitcher Vida Blue, complaining of chest pains, was hospitalized Tuesday and doctors said they had discovered a heart irregularity.

There was no immediate indication as to the seriousness of Blue's condition and doctors refrained from further comment until a comparison could be made of electrocardiogram (EKG) tests.

Blue, twice a 20-game winner, complained of the chest pains Monday in Minnesota, but did not consult a doctor until the A's reached Texas for a threegame series which began Tuesday night. Blue had been scheduled to pitch in the series opener.

Dr. Richard B. Hunter examined Blue and ordered him admitted to Baylor Hospital where an EKG was administered.

Blue underwent another EKG test last month as part of a life insurance medical examination and Dr. Hunter said he wanted to compare the two tests before further comment.

Oakland owner Charles Finley sent his son, Paul, to New York to obtain a copy of the first EKG test.

Blue, who had posted a 13-9 record for Oakland this year, was reported resting comfortably but he was accepting no phone calls.

To replace Blue on the Oakland roster, the A's called up Bill Parsons from its Tucson farm club. Parsons will start Wednesday night's game against Texas.

Blue, 25, is in his fifth year with the A's. He has twice won 20 games or more for the defending world champions, with his best season coming in 1971 when he had a 24-8 record.

Football, Basketball Set At Tech

The Omaha School Board Monday approved by a 9-0 vote, a motion to approve a recommendation that sports be offered at Omaha Technical High School this fall.

During the long meeting, the board heard speakers in defense of continued sports at Tech, a case that has been building for several weeks with numerous meetings after Tech officials announced they were dropping basketball and football.

Tech Principal Odra Bradley said in a letter to students in mid-July that declining enrolment meant the dropping of football and basketball, mainly because there wouldn't be sufficient numbers for football.

Since football was to be dropped, basketball was shelved so boys who wanted to transfer to another school could play both sports.

But Tech football coach Ozzie Wilson indicated at least 44 boys were planning on playing football for Tech this fall.

Wilson's announcement caused Supt. Owen Knutzen to reply, "Why don't we proceed on the basis of having it?

"If the numbers materialize, and the team can compete at the calibre of the Metro Conference, there's no problem at all. Let's go forward."

North Platte In Finals

Hastings, Neb. (AP) — North Platte handed Omaha Roberts its first loss, 5-2, in the Nebraska Junior Legion Baseball Tournament Tuesday night and then won a coin toss for a bye in Wednesday's semifinal.

Millard ousted Hastings, 3-1, in the first game and will face Roberts Wednesday.

North Platte went ahead in the third with a three-run rally on singles by shortstop Doug Miller, first baseman Frank Tanner and right fielder Pat Cordell plus a Roberts outfield error.

They also scored runs in the first and second but Roberts tied it with two runs in the second on a single by Lon Legino and a North Platte error. Steve Gullion allowed one hit in 4 2-3 innings relief work and took the victory.

Millard scored single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to down Hastings.

South Shriners Stress Timing

Crete (AP) — Timing was emphasized by the South Shrine High School All-Star football squad during its second day of practice for the Aug. 17 game with the North in Lincoln.

Head Coach Milt Tenopir of McCook said after Tuesday's third workout that the team's first scrimmage will probably be held Thursday and that it will be a brief one.

He said the squad has been running different keys with the rest of the offense reviewed Tuesday evening.

In Tuesday's workout, Tenopir singled out Marc Sparling of Lincoln East, an offensive tackle, and defensive end Tom Ohrt of Millard.

Tenopir also had praise for the secondary, particularly Budge Porter of Nebraska City and Brad Hershberger from McCook.

Stan's, Denny's, In Narrow Wins

Dave Smith singled home Steve Butts, who had doubled, in the ninth inning as Denny's Champlain edged Roberts, 2-1, Tuesday night at Ballard Field in men's AAA fast-pitch softball.

In the second game Stan's Lounge nipped Citizens State Bank, 2-1, with Scott Votava's home run the only run for the bankers.

Mediator Hopeful Break In Sight For Grid Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's chief labor mediator said Tuesday after a five and a half hour bargaining session with owners and players that he was "very hopeful" that a break was in sight in the 37-day old pro football strike.

W.J. Usery Jr., head of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, called both sides back to another round of talks Wednesday at 10 A.M. and told newsman he thought developements in the next few days would be "very critical" in trying to settle the sports dispute.

At the end of the renewed negotiations Tuesday night, Usery commented: "I am more hopeful. I don't want to use the word optimistic but I am very hopeful."

Usery met for a good portion of the time with a small group of representatives of both the NFL Players Association and the owners' Management Council.

He commented: "I was impressed with their attitudes and their desire to get on with it, to dig in as hard as they can to find a resolution to their problem. For the first time we have seen a genuine desire for a settlement."

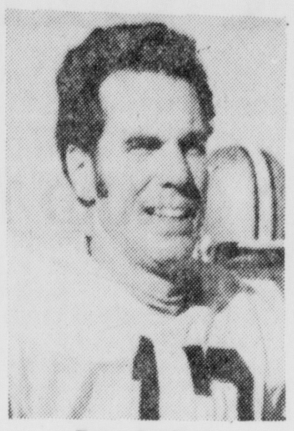
He reported that since talks recessed last Thursday he had conferred with Ed Garvey, Executive Director of the Players Union and Theodore Kheel, special labor consultant to the owners, 15 times by telephone "trying to set the best climate possible for the negotiations."

The bargaining teams for the players and the owners were together for only approximately 15 minutes during the day but Usery met intensively with a sub-committee consisting of Garvey, Kheel and Bill Curry, president of the Players Associaton, and Wellington Mara, head of the Management Council.

Attendance at 12 pre-season games over the weekend was drastically down from past years and the rookies and free agents who made up most of the line-ups played before an estimated 250,000 empty seats.

The estimated revenue loss to the owners ranged from $2 million to $3.4 million.

On Sunday, player representatives met in Washington and voted unanimously in support of the union bargaining team led by executive director Ed Garvey.



Roger Staubach

However, during the weekend and Monday, a number of superstar quarterbacks and other veterans gave up the strike and reported to training camp. Among them were Miami's Bob Griese, Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw, Los Angeles' John Hadl, and Dallas' Bob Lilly and Leroy Jordan.

Garvey also incurred public antagonism from Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach who reported to the Cowboys over the weekend. The union official was quoted in the Washington Post as saying of the former Naval Academy star: "I'd hate to have been at Pearl Harbor with him."

Staubach, now working out at Thousand Oaks, Calif., with the Cowboys, declared: "You don't throw Pearl Harbor around like that to a Navy guy."

Staubach said he had planned no public comment until he learned of Garvey's remark but commented: "Ed Garvey's credibility began slipping in my estimation when he walked into the meeting with the owners at the beginning of negotiations and slapped down our demands in his belligerent, arrogant way without using any tact whatsover."

Garvey said he had sent Staubach a telegram of apology and added: "I can certainly see why Roger would be upset."

The owners' Management Council reported that more than 325 veterans had crossed the picket line out of approximately 1,300 members of the NFL Players Association.

John Thompson, executive director of the Management Council, predicted the fan turnout would increase because of the presence of name players when a full slate of pre-season games is played this coming weekend.

Thompson was pessimistic about the prospects of a quick end to the 37-day-old strike. "We're a long, long way apart," he commented. "We're farther apart than we were on March 16 when negotiations started. And we're no closer together as a result of this weekend."

Van Ostrand Double Winner

Terry Van Ostrand won the 11 and 12-year-olds boys division with a 51 and the 11 to 13-year-olds putting contest Monday at the Hidden Valley Junior Golf Tournament.

The results:

BOYS 11-12 — Terry Van Ostrand, 51; 13-14 — Stan Giraud, 48; 15-16 — Steve Christopher, 40. GIRLS: Julie Thompson, 92. PUTTING CONTEST: 14-16 — Scott Kasl, 19 putts on nine holes, three-hole playoff; 11-13 — Terry Van Ostrand, 18 putts on nine holes.

Car Races Set At State Fair

Henry Brandt, secretary of the Nebraska State Fair, in conjunction with Gene Van Winkle, president of National Speedways, Inc., announced a six-event racing program to include four International Motor Contest Association (IMCA) sanctioned races for this year's fair.

Kicking off the racing schedule, Aug. 30, is a demolition derby.

The premier events of the Nebraska State Fair are the three consecutive days of IMCA sanctioned sprint car auto races, scheduled for the afternoons of Aug. 31, Sept. 1-2.

Following the sprint car action is a modified stock car show for Nebraska drivers only, Sept. 7.

The final event of the fair's racing schedule is an IMCA sanctioned 50-lap, new model stock car race, scheduled for Sept. 8.

WFL Says Present Attendance Policy To Continue

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The World Football League, its credibility stung by disclosures from two teams that they "padded" their attendance figures by including freebies in their counts, will continue its present policy according to commissioner Gary Davidson.

"For the present, WFL clubs will continue its policy of announcing total turnstile attendance," said Davidson in a statement released by his office.

"Starting with games played on Sept. 11," Davidson added, "WFL clubs will be instructed to give a breakdown of this total turnstile attendance into paid and non-paid categories.

"Initial startup problems common to any new venture make it impossible at this time to give accurate breakdowns between paid and non-paid on the night of the game itself. Hopefully, by the eleventh week of the season, our clubs will be in a position to give these breakdowns to the press at the same time they announce the total turnstile count."

The Philadelphia Bell of the World Football League disclosed Monday that 60,000 of the 110,000 fans who saw the Bell's first two regular season home games either paid a discount fee or nothing at all.

The Jacksonville Sharks said 44,000 of the more than 100,000 fans who attended their first two home games paid nothing for their tickets.

"To the best of my knowledge, the attendance figures reflect the number of fans actually in the stadium," Davidson said. "In order to present our new product to as many fans as possible, some clubs have made an all-out effort to make the games accessable to a large number of individuals through the use of complimentary, discount and-or promotional tickets. Other clubs have decided to use a strict policy of only selling full-price tickets. The decision is made by the individual club, and is a purely business decision on their part.

"It is the goal of the WFL to create new football fans, and to get maximum fan exposure during these formative weeks of the WFL's initial playing season. Some clubs have decided to make games more accessable to the fans through the use of discount and-or promotional tickets through the use of group sales.

"The comments during the past several days that WFL clubs have 'lied' about their attendance figures is very misleading. The attendance figures announced are accurate reflections of those actually in attendance at the games."

Garcia May Not Be Ready

Randy Garcia, Nebraska's 6-3, 180 pound sophomore quarterback from Los Angeles, probably will be redshirted this fall because recovery from knee surgery has been slow, according to trainer Paul Schneider.

Garcia, injured in a scrimmage in the spring, had a cartilage removed and it had been felt that with proper rehabilitation he would be ready for 1974.

Coach Tom Osborne said Garcia showed a great deal of potential until he was hurt and was very much in the picture to be Dave Humm's backup. "He was possibly the best thrower (other than Humm)," Osborne said. "And he ran surprisingly well."

Osborne said the doctors felt it was a solid repair of the knee and that the knee will be sound. Garcia, however, got a later start than had been anticipated in his rehabilitation work and still doesn't have a full extension of the leg.

The Californian has been working with Jack Ward, head trainer at Southern California and a former student assistant here under Schneider, for only about two weeks.

If he doesn't play, the No. 2 spot will go to either junior Terry Luck of Fayetteville, N.C., or sophomore Earl Everett of Kansas City, Mo.

Meanwhile, a clipping from California newspapers says Vince Ferragamo, who last week said he was quitting California-Berkeley and transferring to either Nebraska or San Diego State, now has decided to join the Cornhuskers.

Ferragamo, who started the last three games for California last season, originally was recruited by Nebraska but chose the Bears.

Larry Shupe, an offensive tackle, and Mark Caha, a center, who last week said they were transferring from Nebraska to UN-Omaha, were walk-ons here and ranked on the seventh team at their positions during spring drills.

Schneider is busy these days overseeing the renovation of the visitor's dressing room in Memorial Stadium. New showers, concrete block walls, lockers, a coaches' dressing room, and a suspended ceiling are being installed. It will be well lighted and everything spic and span for Oregon when the Ducks arrive to open the season on Sept. 14.

Catching Up On Sports

The Big Eight Conference, which has put out three separate yearbooks (Fall, Winter and Spring sports) in previous years, has combined them into one book containing over 700 pages and it will be available to the public around Sept. 1 for $5 a copy. If you want one, send your check to Big Eight Yearbook, River Hills/Mark I, 600 East Eighth St., Kansas City, Mo. 64106.

For phone caller: The Sidney, Iowa, Rodeo started Tuesday night and will end Sunday afternoon.

Drag racing fans will trek to Wichita, Kan., for the National Hot Rod Association's World Championship Series races Friday and Saturday.

There are a couple of NCAA publications football fans might want to purchase to keep on top of the game. One is the official guide (NCAA Publishing Service, P.O. Box 1906, Shawnee Mission, Kan. 66222) and the other is College Football's Modern Record Book (NCAA, Box 757, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017). Both are $2.

Oregon has lost its sports information director Hal Cowan, a native of McCook, Neb. Hal, who was known as the "Super Duck," has joined the Portland Storm of the World Football League. Wonder if he'll be called the "Super Storm?"

Bill Fisher (he's NU athletic department business manager) and his wife, Betty, recently returned from a three-week trip to Australia. Stationed there while in service, he wanted to make a return trip and show the country to his wife. An interesting sidenote: they happened to be there while Frank Sinatra got into hot water there with the press.

Bill Stembridge with his one-of-a-kind 360-degree Aquascan I fish locator.

Chicago Trade Show Features Fish Scanner

By TOM VINT
Outdoor Writer

Chicago — "The first of its kind. None like it anywhere. You haven't seen the likes of this." Outdoor writers and buyers hear it all and then some during the annual American Tackle Manufacturers Association Trade Show here.

But seldom do you hear from the writers and buyers themselves. Bill Stembridge really has something nobody has ever seen before.

How about a 360-degree fish locator? An electric, underwater eyeball all around the boat. It's never been done before.

"The Aquascan I 360-degree locator is the first of its kind," Stembridge asserts. He is the president of Stembridge Products, Inc., which gained its notoriety from Fliptail Plastic Worm products.

"If you are on a six-acre lake, for instance," Stembridge explained, "and there is a fish anywhere in that lake suspended off the bottom and at least a foot long, it will show up on the scanner."

The scanner works on the same principle as any other fish locator in that it uses sonar to determine fish and bottom structure. From there on, the Aquascan I is different.

"It's really not a good depth finder as far as determining the exact depth of the bottom is concerned," Stembridge said. "But this will tell you where you are from the fish."

Stembridge, himself, has been testing the Aquascan I and found it to do the job, as long as the fish is located a foot or more off the bottom of the lake. Otherwise, it won't pick up the fish.

The Aquascan I can radiate a 60-foot or 300-foot beam from the transducer. As in the use of any locator, the transducer, in this case an oval-shaped pod, is placed in the water below the hull of the boat to do its job.

Sound waves are sent fourth and bounce off anything in the water within reach of the scanner setting. A return blip on the scanner screen shows how far the boat is from the fish or structure in the water.

"It'll take a little practice until a fella learns the difference between fish and something like a stump," Stembridge told curious outdoor writers. He pointed out a stump would appear as a low contrast blimp instead of a high constrast blimp from a fish, however. The sonar wave will surround the fish while it doesn't the stump, resulting in the stronger fish signal, according to the inventor.

One onlooker hinted Stembridge's new device would take all the challenge out of fishing since fish would be so much easier to locate.

"You still have to catch 'em," he replied.

The Aquascan I is one of the best kept secrets since the combination of Fort Knox. Its appearance at the tackle show was the first it had been heard by anyone.

It was so new, Stembridge hadn't even figured out how much the thing would cost.

"All I can say right now is it will be somewhere under $1,000," he said. He was also uncertain about all the practical or possible uses of the new 360-degree locator.

It was originally designed for bass fishermen, according to the Stembridge family, but has potential for such groups as charter boat and commercial fishermen and the like.

"We figured bass fishermen are already spending a good deal of money pursuing their sport," Mrs. Stembridge added as to the expense of the Aquascan I. "When they buy boats and equipment worth over $4,000, we thought some would be willing to spend the money for one of these. But, no, it's not for the average weekend fishermen."

Stembridge is planning a national tour in the future to show just how his Aquascan I functions.

There was definitely nothing like it at the show this year. As Mrs. Stembridge puts it, "It's really something, isn't it?"

Midwest Win To Opperman

By BOB MOYER

It was Jan Opperman night at Midwest Speedway Tuesday night as the Beaver Crossing driver proved himself clearly the best of the field assembled for the Midwest Speedway Sprint Car championships.

Opperman placed fourth in the time trials and then, in methodical fashion, won the trophy dash, his heat and the main event, lapping every car but three in the 50-lap feature.

For Opperman, the win, worth in excess of $1,000, came despite a cold the Beaver Crossing driver came down with at Long Pond, Pa., Sunday where he placed eighth in the NASCAR Purolator 500 at Pocono Raceway.

"I woke up this morning with a temperature and the flu. I am really tired now, but there was no chance I'd have missed the races tonight," said Opperman.

Opperman, who started in the second row in the main event, took the lead from Rick Ferkel of Bowling Green, Ohio, on the eighth lap. Before Ferkel had moved in front when early leader Roger Larson, subbing for injured Ray Lee Goodwin, had a flat tire.

"Coming out of the first turn someone's radiator hose had come off, pouring a bunch of water on the track," Opperman said. "It took both of us up high, but my tires had a better bite and I was able to pass him."

After that it was clear sailing for Opperman as he skillfully weaved in, out and around lapped cars en route to the win.

"That's (lapped cars) the biggest worry. But that's one of the best things in running in a higher calibre show such as these championships. The racing's a lot cleaner. These guys are all winners and they know what it's like trying to get around a slower car, so they didn't give me any trouble at all," said Opperman.

Opperman also felt that even without the opportunity to pass Ferkel that he got, he would still have won.

"I was a little quicker. I didn't want to make a strong bid at first. I wanted to get my car dialed up first," said Opperman, adding, "If he had been as fast as me he would have been all over me the rest of the race.

"But you never know, I might not have won. He's (Ferkel) a game and tough driver."

Once in the lead, Opperman said the most important thing was to "set a steady pace. You don't want to put any extra strain on the car and especially the right rear tire.

"My tire is a little softer and in a 50-lap race like this it can get hot and go bad awful quick. In fact, later on in the race I moved up a little higher on the track. There hadn't been as many cars driving there and the track was a little cooler on the tire. Then after I got up there, I found I could go faster anyway," Opperman said.

Opperman said, that as usual, "you have to chase the car all night" to allow for changing track conditions. He pointed out that he had used three different front tires and added that in the main event his motor overheated.

"Actually that was good," Opperman said. "On a slick track like this, it makes the car go faster."

Jan Opperman
Wins Feature

Opperman noted that the track was "in excellent condition. For a short track they really keep this in good shape out here. Plus having the shade all day, the clouds, helped."

Opperman who earlier in the year has won two main events at Midwest will now go on to Kansas City Wednesday night for a sprint car show there and then will be in Knoxville Thursday through Saturday for the sprint car championships.

In other races Tuesday night, Bobby Marshall outdueled Ron Shuman and Norm Martin to win the 20-lap B feature and heat races were captured by Larson, Midwest point leader Dick Sutcliffe, Ferkel and Opperman. Of the four heat races, the most exciting was the one won by Larson, who had to battle back Lonnie Jensen of Lincoln throughout the race.

Maraucci Gains Medalist Honors

By VIRGIL PARKER

Anne Maraucci of Omaha captured medalist honors with an 84 as the Nebraska Junior Girls State Golf Championships opened at the Lincoln Country Club Wednesday.

Maraucci finished two strokes in front of Lincoln's Jane Deeter.

The tournament title — the event is open to girls under the age of 18 — will be decided on a match play basis. The 42 entries were flighted following the qualifying round for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday matches.

Maraucci and Deeter were joined in the championship flight by Theresa Wanek (88) and Sharon Slattery (90) of Omaha, North Platte's Val Skinner (90), Mary Desch (92) and Kay Newhouse (94) of Grand Island and Syracuse's Kathy Morrissey (92).

Neither of the two leaders were happy with their first-day score.

"I had an eight and two sevens," Maraucci moaned. "But, fortunately, I had enough birdies to make up for them."

Anne, who graduated from Westside High in Omaha this spring, is headed for the University of Arizona with Nanette Circo, winner of the state girls championship the past three years.

"She also just graduated from high school," Maraucci says, "but she's already 18 and thus ineligible this year."

Deeter, a senior-to-be at Lincoln Southeast High, blamed her score ("About four strokes over my average") on poor putting.

"They just wouldn't drop," Jane remembered. "I was hitting the ball pretty good, but I couldn't putt. The worst came on No. 16 when I four-putted."

Maraucci knows about poor putting. "I qualified for the championship flight of the women's state tourney," she recalled, "and lost my first match when I took 40 putts on 14 holes while my opponent had just 19."

Deeter also played in the women's state tourney. "Anne and I had the same qualifying score but she won the playoff for the last spot in the championship flight."

Jane won three matches, all by lopsided 6 & 5 scores, before losing in the finals of the first flight to past champion Bunnie Phillips of Norfolk.

"I three-putted seven greens when I played her," Jane recalls. "I just hope the putting improves pretty soon."

Group Seeking Nude Olympics

PORT NATURE, France (AP) — Delegates to the World Naturist Congress heard a proposal Tuesday that the next Olympic Games be held in the nude, as they were in the ancient days of Greece.

Nudists from 22 countries talked excitedly of putting the discus thrower back in his old uniform and having the marathon runner streak into the stadium with his flaming torch to inaugurate the games.

Contact sports like soccer and fencing would still call for uniforms, conceded Werner Dorfl, the Australian delegate, who journeyed the farthest to attend the 14th International Nudist Convention. So would skiing and bobsleddding, but there is certainly no reason why the track, swimming and gymnast events could not be held in the nude, which is the way the games began long ago, Dorfl said.

Some delegates envisioned placards hung around each athlete's neck with the flag and name of his country to enable spectators to distinguish at a glance the competitors.

Eight To Seek Amateur Berth

Nebraska amateur champion Tom Sieckmann will be among a field of eight golfers playing 36 holes Aug. 13 at the Lincoln Country Club in an attempt to qualify for the United States Amateur Championship Aug. 26-31 at Ridgewood, N.J.

Only one spot has been allocated to help fill the 200-man starting field. Competition at the Ridgewood County Club will be all match play.

Baseball Meetings Slated

NEW YORK (UPI) — A possible revision of the playoff format will be the major item discussed at the annual two-day Summer Baseball meetings beginning here Wednesday.

Club owners and general managers will offer their views and possibly vote on the three proposals, all of which would increase the number of teams participating in the playoffs, to revise the League Championship Series beginning no later than 1976.

The first proposed change would include the second place team in each division. The second place team would play the winner in the other division in a series not to exceed three out of five. The winner of these playoffs would then meet for the League Championship in three out of five.

The second change calls for the addition of the teams with the highest winning percentage, regardless of their standings, joining the division winners. Winners of these playoffs would then play each other in a three out of five series for the League Championship.

The third format would split the present division of six teams in each lleague into three divisions of four teams in each league. The winners of each division would then compete in a playoff series not to exceed three out of five games and would be joined by the second place team with the highest winning percentage. Winners of these playoffs would then play each other in a three out of five series for the League Championship.

Also up for discussion will be the new central scouting system in which 17 of the 24 teams will participate. The system pools all the scouts whose reports and information will be available to the particpating clubs.

Jim Wilson resigned as general manager of the Milwaukee Brewers earlier this week to assume his new job as head of the scotuing system. He will be assisted by Don Priest who resinged as assistant to the general manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

Other topics not formally scheduled to be reviewed but which could also be discussed include the possibility of expansion and inter - league play.

Aunt Priscilla Off The Board

This is beginning to exas . . . ecas . . . upset me! My favorite little darlings proved to be most disappointing to me Tuesday with Miss About Face not even showing a good run and with Bit Of Cheat hanging back to finish third in the eight.

Aunt Priscilla
Loses $4.00
Priscilla

I lost $2 each on those poor selections to drop my $104 spree fund down to $80.40. That is real miserable handicapping.

Oh well, those races are behind me now so I'll try to turn over a new leaf with $2 win tickets on Danny Owens in the fourth and Coup De Shane in the sixth.

Black Heiress, Rapid Rick Top State Fair Futurity

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

One question that provokes arguments from handicappers always is: Should a filly be favored over a colt?

The majority rule that the answer is a firm NO, but still there is always that driving justification for selecting the colt — he got a bad break, or, He was boxed on the turn.

That same question is one that will rise when Paul Kemling's Black Heiress and Julie Larmon-Fronce's Rapid Rick lock horns over a six-furlong duel in the $5,000-added State Fair Futurity at the Fairgrounds Wednesday.

This time, however, the filly draws the high-weight with Black Heiress scheduled to tote 114 pounds with the colt, Rapid Rick, drawing a pound less.

But will that pound make a whole lot of difference? According to track familiars, one pound is worth one length. But others laugh that old adage off saying when weight is that close flip a coin.

Black Heiress holds the better record running away from the field in the Tassel Stakes over four furlongs on July 19 to win by five lengths with John Rettele in the irons. But Black Heiress broke second from the gate and, consequently, was in a good position to make her stretch run.

Rettele, who also rode Rapid Rick in the Kernel Stakes over four furlongs, wasn't as lucky with the colt, getting a bad break (eighth), but rallying the chestnut colt in the stretch run to move from seventh by ten lengths to fourth by two at the wire.

For the Futurity Wednesday, Rettele has chosen to ride the colt over six furlongs. With both figuring as good stretch runners and showing past performances of being able to finish strongly, it won't answer the question of colt or filly, but will provide an exciting dual if each gets a fair break. Black Heiress will be ridden by Kenneth Jones.

Certainly not to be overlooked, however, is Alverna Robinson's Winsor Fair, slated to carry Rodolfo Calderon at 113, as the colt finished second by 1½ lengths to Amporter in the Kernel Stakes. Winsor Fair shows steady speed but has yet to put on a stirring stretch run.

Also in the field of 2-year-olds is Margaret Kinyoun's Mini Mic (110), Zippi's Magic, slated to carry Fred Ecoffey at 110, Nu Barker and Ed Werre at 113, Putsam and Justo Moreno at 113, Shoulda Champ and Jim Bazer at 113 and Southern Marine at 110.

In Tuesday's feature race, the Past Presidents' Purse, an allowance scamper over six furlongs for 3-year-olds, Kenneth Jones and Texas Heritage teamed together to out-class a field of eight and race to a two-length victory in 1:12 2-5.

Texas Heritage, a 3-year-old brown colt by Gallant Heritage out of Witha Rush, won his first race of 1974, but has finished in the money in each of his last three starts. His record includes one victory, place and show finish out of nine starts.

It wasn't even as close as the finish may sound as Jones and Texas Heritage broke on top, laid back around the first curve, then steadily pulled away from the field in the backstretch. Down the last stretch, Jones tucked the whip away and handrode his charge to the wire.

Texas Heritage returned $5.60, $4.00 and $3.20 to backers in the crowd of 5,202. Jesta Honey and Dave King returned $5.40 and $3.60 for place while Peace Flyer and Jim Cuddie showed for $5.80.

The time for the race was 1:12 2-5 — over a second off the track record of 1:11 set by The First Visit in 1970.

POSTCARD

by Stan Delaplane

Venice is mainly under water. It looks like those Midwest flood pictures — "Thousands Homeless." Everything moves by canal: people, produce.

In the great square of St. Mark's you get the flood refugee picture.

Thousands of tourists, grouped in tours of 30 to 50, wander through the open square. Pausing for guided advice. The famous pigeons wheel overhead. The sun reflects on walls the color of plumeria flower as it starts to go yellow.

☆ ☆ ☆

The gondoliers of Venice are members of a union. They charge a fixed fee — so I'm told. (I think the fee is fixed all right. Fixed by the boatman according to what he thinks the traffic will bear.)

They wear blue-and-white striped T-shirts. A flat straw hat with ribbons that flow behind them in the soft Venetian air. The thin gondolas are long and curve upward gracefully at the stems.

They are carved ornately — brass lions stand on each gunwale. On the bow is a brass flower holder — the blooms these blooming days are artificial.

They are romantic as can be. And no American couple comes to Venice without boarding one, to be sculled through the canals with ancient palaces pressing on each side.

("George," she said, "is this any time to be worrying about the hotel bill? We're in Venice! In a gondola!")

☆ ☆ ☆

In the lovely summer mornings, I leave the Grand Hotel on the Grand Canal. We take the narrow back streets, shadowed and full of scrawny cats. We emerge on a little square. An arched bridge. And a hundred gondolas.

It's probably no more romantic than a cab stand. But, caramia, we're in Venice!

The gondoliers polish their gondolas and fight loud, long and fiercely.

I don't understand the Italian. But they seem close to drawing knives.

They shake their fists. They make insulting gestures — a good one is putting your thumb against your upper teeth and snapping it out. Phooey!

When an American couple shows up, they cut it off. The gondolier unclenches his fist. His face opens in a smile. He takes off his flat hat with a sweep of ribbons.

He names a price — a good, big one. He settles the couple in padded chairs. He grips the oar. Gives a push. And as they go off, he bursts into full-throated song. (It's part of the presentation, Claude. So don't knock it.)

☆ ☆ ☆

It's first-class country for revolting youth. A couple of hundred battled with police in the square the other day. They hurled marble table tops and cups of espresso coffee at the cops.

A few got off a load or two of spaghetti — a slippery piece of ordnance.

During the night, they poured chemicals in the Grand Canal. The announcement said it would turn it revolutionary red. But wrong chemicals, Max. The canal turned emerald green. In streaks.

☆ ☆ ☆

The great square is full of sideshows. This morning I sat next to a group making a movie. Probably very expensive and artistic.

One of those "Truck Driver Finds the True Meaning of Life" things.

Lot of shots of laundry on the line. "Why do you work on trucks, my son, when your father has a good job for you in the butcher shop?" "Mama mia, it's the dolce vita."

☆ ☆ ☆

The star was having caffe expresso. He wore dark glasses. (So the public would know who was the star, capisco?)

He was an ugly looking cat. But the director set up cameras and peered through them. And a Chinese girl came out and powdered the star's face.

It drew a very good crowd. Until a bearded artist set up a few coffee tables down the way. And everybody went over to watch as he stood off three feet and hurled great blobs of paint at the canvas.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Wednesday

More U.S. presidents were born under Scorpio than any other zodiacal sign. More world heavyweight boxing champions were born under Capricorn. Next in line, where boxing champions are concerned, is Virgo. No heavyweight champion ever was born under Leo or Pisces. My favorite champions were Max Baer, Aquarius; Joe Louis, Taurus. Capricorn Muhammad Ali was by far the most unique title holder since Aries Jack Johnson.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Intrigue, creativity — these areas are highlighted. Leo, Aquarius persons figure prominently. You do best now by working within group or organization. Cycle is high; your judgment, intuition are on target. Take initiative. Be a self-starter.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Some wishes are fulfilled only with co-operation from one close to you. Be independent, but realize you can't do everything alone. Aquarius, Leo persons may be involved. Accent is on money due from business, professional endeavors.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Work in more than one direction — means test, experiment, make contacts. One in position of authority has sense of humor. You will be given benefit of doubt. Another Gemini is involved — and so is a Sagittarian.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be meticulous where details are concerned. Study fine print. Travel and other expenses may be "hidden." Deal from position of knowledge. Perceive potential. Taurus, Scorpio and Leo persons could be in picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Operational procedures are subject to change. Find reasons. Reject superficial explanations. Dig for information. Gemini, Cancer and Virgo individuals could figure prominently.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Control, discipline and a seeking of harmony at home — these tend now to be emphasized. Come to terms with partner, mate. Make concessions. By giving, you also will gain. Message will become increasingly clear. Taurus, Libra are involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Techniques should be examined. There is room for improvement. Instead of brooding, do something about it. Get rid of false notions. Find out how best to perform a useful service. Get feet on ground. Separate creative imagination from wishful thinking.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): This can be a "power" period. What you do leaves an imprint. Get organized — and down to business. Emphasize style, method and accomplishment. Capricorn, Cancer could play significant roles. Key change is upcoming.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Build on solid base. Finish what you start. Get rid of burden not rightfully your own. Spread appeal — find better means of advertising, distribution. See picture as a whole rather than in bits, pieces. Aries, Libra persons may be involved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Short journey is likely to be on your schedule. This could lead to new, valuable contact. Deal with creative individuals, especially those born under Leo and Aquarius. Maintain independence. It is not necessary to accept secondhand goods.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accent on special collections, profitable hobby. You find ally in unlikely place. Give full play to intuitive powers. Trust hunch. Follow through on lesson recently learned. One who is a "teacher" is willing to share knowledge.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You have more freedom of movement, thought, action. Be versatile. Assert yourself. Insist on whole story, not fragments. Gemini, Sagittarius persons could play important roles. Check appearance, apparel. You've earned a treat for yourself!

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you tend to be introspective. You also are creative, energetic, restless, spiritual and, very often, alone in a crowd. Pisces, Virgo persons are drawn to you. August should be your most important month of 1974. Added recognition is due. In 1975, you embark on new project, a different and more rewarding lifestyle.

(Learn "The Truth About Astrology." Send birthdate (for our survey) and 75 cents to Omarr Booklet, The Lincoln Star, Box 3240, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017. You'll open door to fascinating study and self-revelation!)

Otis, Solaita Propel Royals To 17-3 Win

By The Associated Press

Amos Otis drove in four runs with a homer and a double Tuesday night, and Tony Solaita drove in three othersas the Kansas City Royals cracked 19 hits and crushed the Minnesota Twins 17-3.

Otis, who also scored four times, brought in two runs with a first-inning double—touching off a six-run Kansas City inning. He hit his 11th home run of the season two innings later, scoring Cookie Rojas.

Solaita brought in his runs with two singles and a forceout.

In other American League games Tuesday night, the Texas Rangers nipped the Oakland A's 1-0; the Cleveland Indians topped the Detroit Tigers 9-7; the Baltimore Orioles tripped the New York Yankees 4-1; the Chicago White Sox bombed the California Angels 12-2, and the Boston Red Sox swept a twi-night doubleheader from the Milwaukee Brewers 6-3 and 6-0.

The St. Louis Cardinals swept a twi-night doubleheader from the Montreal Expos 9-4 and 5-4; the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Chicago Cubs 8-3, and the Pittsburgh Pirates dropped the New York Mets 9-8 in 11 innings in National League action.

Ferguson Jenkins handcuffed the A's on two hits and Toby Harrah's fourth-inning double brought home the only run of the game in the Rangers' victory.

John Lowenstein cracked a bases-empty home run to break a 7-7 tie and Buddy Bell's single brought home an insurance run to carry Cleveland past Detroit. John Ellis also hit a solo homer for the Indians, while Bill Freehan's ninth of the season scored three Tigers runs.

The Orioles took advantage of three New York errors to defeat the Yankees. Grant Jackson held off a late New York threat to record his eighth save of the year.

Ken Henderson had three hits, included a bases-loaded second-inning triple which capped a seven-run uprising, and led Chicago's Wilbur Wood to his 17th triumph of the season.

Cecil Cooper slapped three hits, drove in one run and scored two others to help the Red Sox win the first game. Juan Marichal pitched seven shutout inning and Dwight Evans had four runs batted in during the second game triumph.

Mike Tyson drove in three runs to spark St. Louis in the first game, and a two-out, seven-run outburst in the third inning led the Cards to victory in the second game, widening their NL East Division lead to 2½ games over Philadelphia.

Willie Montanez hit his first career grand slam to power the Phils past the Cubs.

Dolphins, Rams Picked To Win

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins and the Los Angeles Rams have been installed as favorites by a Nevada bookmaker, to meet in the NFL Super Bowl next year.

Reds Topple Dodgers

Los Angeles (UPI) — Johnny Bench slammed a tworun homer off ace reliever Mike Marshall with one out in the 10th inning Tuesday night to provide the Cincinnati Reds with a 6-3 victory over Los Angeles and snap the Dodgers' eight-game winning streak.

Beating the Dodgers for only the second time in 11 meetings this year, the defending divisional champion Reds clipped Los Angeles' lead in the National League West to 6 1-2 games.

Marshall, the ironman right-hander who was making his 75th appearance of the season to break a Dodger club record set by Bob Miller in 1964, replaced Don Sutton at the start of the 10th.

Pete Rose got only his second hit in 22 at-bats at Dodger Stadium this season, singling to second to open the Cincinnati 10th. After Joe Morgan lined out to center, Bench delivered his 21st home run of the season into the left field pavilion to snap a 3-3 deadlock. The Reds added a third run in the 10th when Marshall walked Darryl Chaney, Chaney stole second and was singled in by Cesar Geronimo.

Pedro Borbon, the fifth Cincinnati pitcher, worked the ninth and 10th innings to impreove his record to 8-6 while Marshall was tagged with the loss to drop his record to 11-7.

Jimmy Wynn's 81st run batted in of the season enabled the Dodgers to tie the score at 3-3 in the eighth after the Reds had gone ahead on Dan Driessen's run-producing double in the top of the inning.

North Shriners Set Scrimmage

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—The first controlled scrimmage was scheduled Wednesday morning for the North Shrine All-Star camp at Midland College.

Head Coach Keith Staehr of Kimball said he hopes the offense will "come around with the playbook."

Staehr said Elliot Linafelter of South Sioux City, who suffered a recurring shoulder injury Monday, was back at full speed in contact work Tuesday but was "still a little tender."

He also said he was glad to see the Lexington contingent back in camp after a furlough to play baseball. Included are backs Ted Harvey and Fred Knapple.

Staehr also said the times for the three-a-day workouts have been changed. The morning sessions will start at 9:30 instead of 8 and the afternoon sessions will be moved up to 2:30 from 2 p.m.

They're racing in Lincoln!

Vida Blue

A's Blue In Hospital, Tests Set

DALLAS (UPI) — Oakland A's pitcher Vida Blue, complaining of chest pains, was hospitalized Tuesday and doctors said they had discovered a heart irregularity.

There was no immediate indication as to the seriousness of Blue's condition and doctors refrained from further comment until a comparison could be made of electrocardiogram (EKG) tests.

Blue, twice a 20-game winner, complained of the chest pains Monday in Minnesota, but did not consult a doctor until the A's reached Texas for a threegame series which began Tuesday night. Blue had been scheduled to pitch in the series opener.

Dr. Richard B. Hunter examined Blue and ordered him admitted to Baylor Hospital where an EKG was administered.

Blue underwent another EKG test last month as part of a life insurance medical examination and Dr. Hunter said he wanted to compare the two tests before further comment.

Oakland owner Charles Finley sent his son, Paul, to New York to obtain a copy of the first EKG test.

Blue, who had posted a 13-9 record for Oakland this year, was reported resting comfortably but he was accepting no phone calls.

To replace Blue on the Oakland roster, the A's called up Bill Parsons from its Tucson farm club. Parsons will start Wednesday night's game against Texas.

Blue, 25, is in his fifth year with the A's. He has twice won 20 games or more for the defending world champions, with his best season coming in 1971 when he had a 24-8 record.

Football, Basketball Set At Tech

The Omaha School Board Monday approved by a 9-0 vote, a motion to approve a recommendation that sports be offered at Omaha Technical High School this fall.

During the long meeting, the board heard speakers in defense of continued sports at Tech, a case that has been building for several weeks with numerous meetings after Tech officials announced they were dropping basketball and football.

Tech Principal Odra Bradley said in a letter to students in mid-July that declining enrolment meant the dropping of football and basketball, mainly because there wouldn't be sufficient numbers for football.

Since football was to be dropped, basketball was shelved so boys who wanted to transfer to another school could play both sports.

But Tech football coach Ozzie Wilson indicated at least 44 boys were planning on playing football for Tech this fall.

Wilson's announcement caused Supt. Owen Knutzen to reply, "Why don't we proceed on the basis of having it?

"If the numbers materialize, and the team can compete at the calibre of the Metro Conference, there's no problem at all. Let's go forward."

North Platte In Finals

Hastings, Neb. (AP) — North Platte handed Omaha Roberts its first loss, 5-2, in the Nebraska Junior Legion Baseball Tournament Tuesday night and then won a coin toss for a bye in Wednesday's semifinal.

Millard ousted Hastings, 3-1, in the first game and will face Roberts Wednesday.

North Platte went ahead in the third with a three-run rally on singles by shortstop Doug Miller, first baseman Frank Tanner and right fielder Pat Cordell plus a Roberts outfield error.

They also scored runs in the first and second but Roberts tied it with two runs in the second on a single by Lon Legino and a North Platte error. Steve Gullion allowed one hit in 4 2-3 innings relief work and took the victory.

Millard scored single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to down Hastings.

South Shriners Stress Timing

Crete (AP) — Timing was emphasized by the South Shrine High School All-Star football squad during its second day of practice for the Aug. 17 game with the North in Lincoln.

Head Coach Milt Tenopir of McCook said after Tuesday's third workout that the team's first scrimmage will probably be held Thursday and that it will be a brief one.

He said the squad has been running different keys with the rest of the offense reviewed Tuesday evening.

In Tuesday's workout, Tenopir singled out Marc Sparling of Lincoln East, an offensive tackle, and defensive end Tom Ohrt of Millard.

Tenopir also had praise for the secondary, particularly Budge Porter of Nebraska City and Brad Hershberger from McCook.

Stan's, Denny's, In Narrow Wins

Dave Smith singled home Steve Butts, who had doubled, in the ninth inning as Denny's Champlain edged Roberts, 2-1, Tuesday night at Ballard Field in men's AAA fast-pitch softball.

In the second game Stan's Lounge nipped Citizens State Bank, 2-1, with Scott Votava's home run the only run for the bankers.

County To Spend $14,000 For Dirt

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

What architect Bob Dawson called "rather strange looking soil" at the site of the proposed Juvenile Attention Home will cost the county more than $14,000.

Dawson told the Lancaster County commissioners Tuesday that the center's contractor, N. W. Anderson Construction Co. of Lincoln, has uncovered "an organic type material, similar to what you would find in a swamp area."

After hearing the alternatives, two of the three commissioners, Jan Gauger and Kenneth Bourne, voted to have the contractors haul out the "unstable" soil and replace it with "good, solid dirt."

The tab adds up to $14,027.

Colin Abstains

County Board Chairman Robert Colin abstained from voting to register his opposition to the center.

Construction costs for the proposed center near 11th and South Sts. had already swelled to $360,000, about $60,000 more than the original estimate.

Dawson explained that the area was once part of a landfill project.

"It's like that all the way to 10th Street," he lamented. "When it's wet it will swell and when it's dry it will shrink."

In other business, the board approved $450,000 in Industrial Development Act (IDA) bonds for the Lincoln Poultry and Egg Co.

Lincoln attorney Allen Graves said the firm will construct a 7,200-sq.-ft. addition to the existing building at 2005 M St.

Contract Awarded

Taking action on a proposal discussed at last week's meeting, the commissioners voted to award the contract for remodeling Trabert Hall to the apparent low bidders.

Trabert Hall houses the administrative offices of the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation and is a former nurses building at Lancaster Manor, the county nursing home.

Sampson Construction Co. had bid $81,000 for the general contract and Gregg Electric was given the electrical contract for its bid of $12,643.

Included in the estimates were costs of painting, new doors to comply with fire regulations, new hardware, varnishing, roofing, new acoustical tile ceilings in corridors and silicone coating over the face of the building.

Bid Accepted

The commissioners also accepted a $226,249 bid from Dobson Bros. Construction Co. of Lincoln for resurfacing three miles of Roca Road. The asphaltic concrete surface will begin two miles east of Roca and extend three more miles east toward Bennet.

A bid of $9,878 from Midwest Lumber Co. of Lincoln was accepted for furnishing lumber for bridges in Lancaster County.

In other action, the County Board:

—deferred for one week a decision on leasing space at 27th and O for county offices.

—approved the contract for library services with the Library Board.

—approved a request by Pat Snyder of Lancaster Manor to transfer $26.13 left in a personal bank account to the institution's general fund.

—delayed action for a week on a notice from Bankers Life that the service fee on the County Retirement Plan has been hiked from $10 to $15.

—referred to the City-County Planning Commission a petition by Theodore R. Rutt for change of zone.

Suits Oppose Proposed Dam

St. Louis (UPI) — Two environmental groups and 21 western railroads filed suits in U.S. District Court to stop a planned $3.2 billion project of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers on the upper Mississippi River.

The Izaak Walton League of America and the Sierra Club, along with the railroads, are focusing on stopping construction of a new Lock and Dam 26 at Alton, Ill., a project which the plaintiffs say is merely the beginning of construction that would ruin the river ecologically and economically.

Governor Criticized

Sioux City (UPI) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate James Schaben told unionists here that the state can not endure four more years of "wishy-washy" administration by Gov. Robert D. Ray.

Farmers Agree; Butz Out Of Touch

By DON BEMAN
United Press International

Syracuse — Nebraska officials are claiming $2.3 billion in crop and livestock drought losses.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz spoke recently, however, only of farm panic talk and predicted a second best year of record agriculturally.

Who to believe?

Cornhusker State Gov. J. James Exon, who has requested federal drougth assistance, said Butz is out of touch, and two southeastern Nebraska dryland farmers — one a relative beginner and the other a veteran, both farm family products — agree with Exon.

Can't Stand Sight

"Just don't go out."

Across the road, Kent Antes, 22, described fields in the area as "pretty gruesome sights."

Both farm near Syracuse, a small community just miles from Nebraska's Capital City where irrigation is the exception rather than the rule.

Usually 30 Inches

The normal rainfall per year in that area is about 30 inches, according to Antes. By this time he said about 15 inches of moisture should have fallen. But Antes said so far there has been only eight, the last helpful rain in June.

Johns farms 750 rented acres. This year, as he did last year, he planted 250 in corn. Last year he averaged about 90 bushels an acre. But this year he showed UPI a field of corn with leaves either curled into spikes from heat and lack of moisture or just withered coming from stalks only about chest high.

By this time of year the corn is usually taller than the average adult.

Asked if all his corn was in the same shape, Johns said there are differences. But none of them good.

Green, But No Ears

"I haven't been out in all of it," he said. "Some of it is green, but there aren't any ears. I doubt if any of it is worthwhile."

Antes planted about half his 200 acres in corn. He said, "I've accepted the fact there's nothing there."

However, Antes has some use for the stalks as livestock feed while John has no use for them. When interviewed by UPI, Antes was fencing a portion of his corn so cattle could graze in the field. He's also chopping for ensilage.

Johns said all he could do with his corn is let it dry out the rest of the way and "hope for another year."

The rest of Johns' land is planted in sorghum and soybeans.

Winter Sheat Harvested

Antes already got a crop of winter wheat off the rest of his acres at a yield of 45 bushels an acre. Johns must wait to see if it rains to find out the fate of the rest of his crops. He said sufficient moisture soon could mean a harvest.

Antes admitted, however, winter wheat isn't a normal crop for the area of the state in which he and Johns farm.

And he said it wasn't because he knew what this summer would bring that he planted wheat instead of other crops.

"Wheat works out better for me than other crops because I'm a student and I can work in the summer more that way," said Antes.

UNL Seeks Aid

Antes is scheduled to graduate in December with a degree in sociology from the University of Nebraska, which is seeking federal assistance to help those students who might otherwise have to drop out for a while due to farm family finances.

Antes, who has been farming family land on his own the last four years, said he has nothing to compare this year's farm problems with.

"This dry weather stuff has gotten me confused," he said.

Johns, not old enough to recall personal farming experiences in the "dirty '30s" brought up by older Nebraska farmers, said he has had problems.

Bad First Years

"That was the first two years I started farming," he said, pinpointing that as the mid-1950s.

But he admitted his problems may have been the result of just getting started rather than the weather.

As to the impact of this year on the future, Johns said he just didn't know.

Antes, who has 2,000 bushels of last year's corn still stored in bins, plans to try more wheat, a crop that doesn't depend on summer moisture so much.

Modular, Mobile Homes Being 'Dumped' In State?

By The Associated Press

There is a possibility that Nebraska may become a "dumping ground" for mobile and modular homes, according to a study by a task force appointed by Gov. J. James Exon.

Charles Seale of Lincoln, chairman of the group, said stricter construction codes on modular and mobile homes in neighboring states could cause such an occurance.

Seale said legislation is being drafted to correct Nebraska's deficiencies in the area, and that the proposals will be taken before the 1975 session of the Unicameral.

"Obviously Iowa had good control at the state level governing construction. We know Colorado does and Minnesota does. Those units which cannot enter the port of entry in those states, because they are not manufactured to proper standards, I'm almost sure states that border are apt to receive those units," Seal said.

Seale said the legislation in the drafting stages will update the state's specifications for the construction of mobile and modular homes.

"It will be an industrialized housing act so to speak, which actually encompasses not only the type of building we refer to as modular or factory-built housing, but also set forth the requirements for mobile home manufacture," Seale said referring to the legislative proposal.

The responsibility for the enforcement of the current codes now rests with the State Department of Health.

Ford Plans Recall

Norfolk, Va. (AP) — An increasing demand for light trucks has resulted in plans to recall by Sept. 3 about 100 of the 501 workers laid off in April from Ford Motor Co's plant here, the company has announced.

Business Debts Rise In Japan

Tokyo (AP) — Debts left by bankrupt Japanese companies soared in July, but the number of business failures remained below the level that might signal a need to ease credit.

Tokyo Shoko Merchantile Agency, a credit rating concern, said July bankruptcies totaled 878 cases, up 3.5% from June and up 4% a year earlier. The number remained well below the 1,000-level, which is viewed by some analysts as a determinant of future monetary policy, however.

Tokyo Shoko put the gross liabilities of last month's business failures at 158.74 billion yen, up 31.3% from June and up 202.3% from July 1973.

CHILDREN WHO NEED HEARING AIDS

"Children who need hearing aids should be discovered and fitted at as early an age as possible. The time to begin working with a hard of hearing or deaf child is the moment the problem is discovered, regardless of age. A hearing aid can be fitted to very young children, even infants. It is also of utmost importance that the parents be counseled and guided and helped to understand how vital a role they must play at home in helping the child to learn speech and language, especially during the pre-school years." . . . Mediator Hopeful Break In Sight For Grid Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's chief labor mediator said Tuesday after a five and a half hour bargaining session with owners and players that he was "very hopeful" that a break was in sight in the 37-day old pro football strike.

W.J. Usery Jr., head of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, called both sides back to another round of talks Wednesday at 10 A.M. and told newsman he thought developements in the next few days would be "very critical" in trying to settle the sports dispute.

At the end of the renewed negotiations Tuesday night, Usery commented: "I am more hopeful. I don't want to use the word optimistic but I am very hopeful."

Usery met for a good portion of the time with a small group of representatives of both the NFL Players Association and the owners' Management Council.

He commented: "I was impressed with their attitudes and their desire to get on with it, to dig in as hard as they can to find a resolution to their problem. For the first time we have seen a genuine desire for a settlement."

He reported that since talks recessed last Thursday he had conferred with Ed Garvey, Executive Director of the Players Union and Theodore Kheel, special labor consultant to the owners, 15 times by telephone "trying to set the best climate possible for the negotiations."

The bargaining teams for the players and the owners were together for only approximately 15 minutes during the day but Usery met intensively with a sub-committee consisting of Garvey, Kheel and Bill Curry, president of the Players Associaton, and Wellington Mara, head of the Management Council.

Attendance at 12 pre-season games over the weekend was drastically down from past years and the rookies and free agents who made up most of the lineups played before an estimated 250,000 empty seats.

The estimated revenue loss to the owners ranged from $2 million to $3.4 million.

On Sunday, player representatives met in Washington and voted unanimously in support of the union bargaining team led by executive director Ed Garvey.

Roger Staubach

However, during the weekend and Monday, a number of superstar quarterbacks and other veterans gave up the strike and reported to training camp. Among them were Miami's Bob Griese, Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw, Los Angeles' John Hadl, and Dallas' Bob Lilly and Leroy Jordan.

Garvey also incurred public antagonism from Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach who reported to the Cowboys over the weekend. The union official was quoted in the Washington Post as saying of the former Naval Academy star: "I'd hate to have been at Pearl Harbor with him."

Staubach, now working out at Thousand Oaks, Calif., with the Cowboys, declared: "You don't throw Pearl Harbor around like that to a Navy guy."

Staubach said he had planned no public comment until he learned of Garvey's remark but commented: "Ed Garvey's credibility began slipping in my estimation when he walked into the meeting with the owners at the beginning of negotiations and slapped down our demands in his belligerent, arrogant way without using any tact whatsover."

Garvey said he had sent Staubach a telegram of apology and added: "I can certainly see why Roger would be upset."

The owners' Management Council reported that more than 325 veterans had crossed the picket line out of approximately 1,300 members of the NFL Players Association.

John Thompson, executive director of the Management Council, predicted the fan turnout would increase because of the presence of name players when a full slate of pre-season games is played this coming weekend.

Thompson was pessimistic about the prospects of a quick end to the 37-day-old strike. "We're a long, long way apart," he commented. "We're farther apart than we were on March 16 when negotiations started. And we're no closer together as a result of this weekend."

WFL Says Present Attendance Policy To Continue

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The World Football League, its credibility stung by disclosures from two teams that they "padded" their attendance figures by including freebies in their counts, will continue its present policy according to commissioner Gary Davidson.

"For the present, WFL clubs will continue its policy of announcing total turnstile attendance," said Davidson in a statement released by his office.

"Starting with games played on Sept. 11," Davidson added, "WFL clubs will be instructed to give a breakdown of this total turnstile attendance into paid and non-paid categories.

"Initial startup problems common to any new venture make it impossible at this time to give accurate breakdowns between paid and non-paid on the night of the game itself. Hopefully, by the eleventh week of the season, our clubs will be in a position to give these breakdowns to the press at the same time they announce the total turnstile count."

The Philadelphia Bell of the World Football League disclosed Monday that 60,000 of the 110,000 fans who saw the Bell's first two regular season home games either paid a discount fee or nothing at all.

The Jacksonville Sharks said 44,000 of the more than 100,000 fans who attended their first two home games paid nothing for their tickets.

"To the best of my knowledge, the attendance figures reflect the number of fans actually in the stadium," Davidson said. "In order to present our new product to as many fans as possible, some clubs have made an all-out effort to make the games accessable to a large number of individuals through the use of complimentary, discount and-or promotional tickets. Other clubs have decided to use a strict policy of only selling full-price tickets. The decision is made by the individual club, and is a purely business decision on their part.

"It is the goal of the WFL to create new football fans, and to get maximum fan exposure during these formative weeks of the WFL's initial playing season. Some clubs have decided to make games more accessable to the fans through the use of discount and-or promotional tickets through the use of group sales.

"The comments during the past several days that WFL clubs have 'lied' about their attendance figures is very misleading. The attendance figures announced are accurate reflections of those actually in attendance at the games."

Sawhill Plugs Energy Conservation

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Energy conservation is the major way the United States will lessen dependence on foreign oil in the next two or three years, Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill said Tuesday.

"I don't want to hold out to the American people the hope of some Buck Rogers solution," he told newsmen. "The focus will be on conservation.

"I honestly don't think one or another technological development is going to solve our energy problems. It's going to take a combination."

He spoke at the first public hearings on Project Independence, President Nixon's plan to make the United States self-sufficient in energy by 1980. The program was undertaken after the Arab oil embargo last fall.

Project Independence hearings run through Friday here. Later this summer, sessions will be held in nine other cities across the nation.

Oil and mining experts, environmentalists and government officials from the Rocky Mountain states testified at Tuesday's hearing.

Sawhill downplayed the role of oil shale, coal gasification and nuclear energy as alternatives to oil in the immediate future.

Oil shale probably won't play a major energy role for five or 10 years and the environment will not be sacrificed to produce oil from the porous rock, he said.

Gov. John Vanderhoof, R-Colo., told the hearing that Western governors will oppose plans to exploit the mineral wealth of the mountain states unless nationwide conservation efforts are intensified.

Robert W. Baldwin, president of Gulf Energy and Minerals Co., a subsidiary of Gulf Oil, and Joseph R. Rensch, president of the Pacific Lighting Corp., said there was urgent need for the government to remove some roadblocks to energy development by private industry.

Grain Trader Admits Filing False Reports

Washington (AP) — The French-owned Louis Dreyfus Corp. of New York has admitted it inadvertantly filed false reports with the government two years ago during the height of huge U.S. wheat sales to the Soviet Union, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

But the company, while consenting to a cease and desist order issued by the department, denied it willfully violated federal regulations.

The department's Commodity Exchange Authority, in a complaint a year ago, charged Dreyfus had understated its cash positions in wheat futures over a period of more than three months.

"Dreyfus claimed any understatements were inadvertant and said any information on certain sales omitted from the reports was left out because of a 20-year practice founded on the good-faith belief that it would have been erroneous and improper to report such information," the department said.

According to the allegations, the understatements occurred between July 7, 1972, and Oct. 20, 1972. During that time, a number of U.S. firms sold more than 400 million bushels of wheat to the Soviets. Dreyfus, according to government figures, provided about 80 million of the total.

Dreyfus, the department had contended, filed 16 reports during that time in which its "fixed price cash positions in wheat were understated by amounts ranging from more than 900,000 bushels." The cease and desist order, similar to an injunction, prohibits Dreyfus from "willfully submitting any false or misleading information" in reports filed under federal commodity law.

In case Dreyfus violates terms of the order within one year, it calls for the company to be barred from trading on the market for 15 days except for hedging and certain transactions by a subsidiary firm.

POSTCARD

by Stan Delaplane

Venice is mainly under water. It looks like those Midwest flood pictures — "Thousands Homeless." Everything moves by canal: people, produce.

In the great square of St. Mark's you get the flood refugee picture.

Thousands of tourists, grouped in tours of 30 to 50, wander through the open square. Pausing for guided advice. The famous pigeons wheel overhead. The sun reflects on walls the color of plumeria flower as it starts to go yellow.

☆ ☆ ☆

The gondoliers of Venice are members of a union. They charge a fixed fee — so I'm told. (I think the fee is fixed all right. Fixed by the boatman according to what he thinks the traffic will bear.)

They wear blue-and-white striped T-shirts. A flat straw hat with ribbons that flow behind them in the soft Venetian air. The thin gondolas are long and curve upward gracefully at the stems.

They are carved ornately — brass lions stand on each gunwale. On the bow is a brass flower holder — the blooms these blooming days are artificial.

They are romantic as can be. And no American couple comes to Venice without boarding one, to be sculled through the canals with ancient palaces pressing on each side.

("George," she said, "is this any time to be worrying about the hotel bill? We're in Venice! In a gondola!")

☆ ☆ ☆

In the lovely summer mornings, I leave the Grand Hotel on the Grand Canal. We take the narrow back streets, shadowed and full of scrawny cats. We emerge on a little square. An arched bridge. And a hundred gondolas.

It's probably no more romantic than a cab stand. But, carramia, we're in Venice!

The gondoliers polish their gondolas and fight loud, long and fiercely.

I don't understand the Italian. But they seem close to drawing knives.

They shake their fists. They make insulting gestures — a good one is putting your thumb against your upper teeth and snapping it out. Phooey!

When an American couple shows up, they cut it off. The gondolier unclenches his fist. His face opens in a smile. He takes off his flat hat with a sweep of ribbons.

He names a price — a good, big one. He settles the couple in padded chairs. He grips the oar. Gives a push. And as they go off, he bursts into full-throated song. (It's part of the presentation, Claude. So don't knock it.)

☆ ☆ ☆

It's first-class country for revolting youth. A couple of hundred battled with police in the square the other day. They hurled marble table tops and cups of espresso coffee at the cops.

A few got off a load or two of spaghetti — a slippery piece of ordnance.

During the night, they poured chemicals in the Grand Canal. The announcement said it would turn it revolutionary red. But wrong chemicals, Max. The canal turned emerald green. In streaks.

☆ ☆ ☆

The great square is full of sideshows. This morning I sat next to a group making a movie. Probably very expensive and artistic.

One of those "Truck Driver Finds the True Meaning of Life" things.

Lot of shots of laundry on the line. "Why do you work on trucks, my son, when your father has a good job for you in the butcher shop?" "Mama mia, it's the dolce vita."

☆ ☆ ☆

The star was having caffe expresso. He wore dark glasses. (So the public would know who was the star, capisco?)

He was an ugly looking cat. But the director set up cameras and peered through them. And a Chinese girl came out and powdered the star's face.

It drew a very good crowd. Until a bearded artist set up a few coffee tables down the way. And everybody went over to watch as he stood off three feet and hurled great blobs of paint at the canvas.

Forecast For Wednesday

More U S presidents were born under Scorpio than any other zodiacal sign More world heavyweight boxing champions were born under Capricorn Next in line, where boxing champions are concerned is Virgo No heavyweight champion ever was born under Leo or Pisces. My favorite champions were Max Baer, Aquarius, Joe Louis, Taurus Capricorn Muhammad Ali was by far the most unique title holder since Aries Jack Johnson

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Intrigue, creativity — these areas are highlighted Leo, Aquarius persons figure prominently. You do best now by working within group or organization. Cycle is high, your judgment, intuition are on target. Take initiative Be a self-starter.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Some wishes are fulfilled only with co-operation from one close to you. Be independent, but realize you can't do everything alone Aquarius, Leo persons may be involved. Accent is on money due from business, professional endeavors

GEMINI (May 21-June 20). Work in more than one direction — means test, experiment, make contacts One in position of authority has sense of humor. You will be given benefit of doubt. Another Gemini is involved — and so is a Sagittarian

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be meticulous where details are concerned Study fine print. Travel and other expenses may be "hidden." Deal from position of knowledge. Perceive potential Taurus, Scorpio and Leo persons could be in picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22): Operational procedures are subject to change. Find reasons Reject superficial explanations Dig for information Gemini, Cancer and Virgo individuals could figure prominently.

VIRGO (Aug 23 Sept 22) Control, discipline and a seeking of harmony at home — these tend now to be emphasized Come to terms with partner, mate. Make concessions By giving, you also will gain. Message will become increasingly clear. Taurus, Libra are involved.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 22): Techniques should be examined There is room for improvement Instead of brooding, do something about it. Get rid of false notions. Find out how best to perform a useful service. Get feet on ground. Separate creative imagination from wishful thinking

SCORPIO (Oct 23-Nov. 21). This can be a "power" period What you do leaves an imprint. Get organized — and down to business. Emphasize style, method and accomplishment. Capricorn, Cancer could play significant roles. Key change is upcoming

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Build on solid base Finish what you start Get rid of burden not rightfully your own Spread appeal — find better means of advertising, distribution See picture as a whole rather than in bits, pieces Aries, Libra persons may be involved

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19) Short journey is likely to be on your schedule This could lead to new, valuable contact. Deal with creative individuals, especially those born under Leo and Aquarius. Maintain independence It is not necessary to accept secondhand goods

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 18) Accent on special collections, profitable hobby. You find ally in unlikely place. Give full play to intuitive powers Trust hunch. Follow through on lesson recently learned One who is a "teacher" is willing to share knowledge

PISCES (Feb 19-March 20) You have more freedom of movement, thought, action Be versatile Assert yourself Insist on whole story, not fragments Gemini, Sagittarius persons could play important roles. Check appearance, apparel. You've earned a treat for yourself!

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you tend to be introspective You also are creative, energetic, restless, spiritual and, very often, alone in a crowd Pisces, Virgo persons are drawn to you August should be your most important month of 1974 Added recognition is due in 1975, you embark on new project a different and more rewarding lifestyle

County To Spend $14,000 For Dirt

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

What architect Bob Dawson called "rather strange looking soil" at the site of the proposed Juvenile Attention Home will cost the county more than $14,000.

Dawson told the Lancaster County commissioners Tuesday that the center's contractor, N. W. Anderson Construction Co. of Lincoln, has uncovered "an organic type material, similar to what you would find in a swamp area."

After hearing the alternatives, two of the three commissioners, Jan Gauger and Kenneth Bourne, voted to have the contractors haul out the "unstable" soil and replace it with "good, solid dirt."

The tab adds up to $14,027.

Colin Abstains

County Board Chairman Robert Colin abstained from voting to register his opposition to the center.

Construction costs for the proposed center near 11th and South Sts. had already swelled to $360,000, about $60,000 more than the original estimate.

Dawson explained that the area was once part of a landfill project.

"It's like that all the way to 10th Street," he lamented. "When it's wet it will swell and when it's dry it will shrink."

In other business, the board approved $450,000 in Industrial Development Act (IDA) bonds for the Lincoln Poultry and Egg Co.

Lincoln attorney Allen Graves said the firm will construct a 7,200-sq.-ft. addition to the existing building at 2005 M St.

Contract Awarded

Taking action on a proposal discussed at last week's meeting, the commissioners voted to award the contract for remodeling Trabert Hall to the apparent low bidders.

Trabert Hall houses the administrative offices of the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation and is a former nurses building at Lancaster Manor, the county nursing home.

Sampson Construction Co. had bid $81,000 for the general contract and Gregg Electric was given the electrical contract for its bid of $12,643.

Included in the estimates were costs of painting, new doors to comply with fire regulations, new hardware, varnishing, roofing, new acoustical tile ceilings in corridors and silicone coating over the face of the building.

Bid Accepted

The commissioners also accepted a $226,249 bid from Dobson Bros. Construction Co. of Lincoln for resurfacing three miles of Roca Road. The asphaltic concrete surface will begin two miles east of Roca and extend three more miles east toward Bennet.

A bid of $9,878 from Midwest Lumber Co. of Lincoln was accepted for furnishing lumber for bridges in Lancaster County.

In other action, the County Board:

—deferred for one week a decision on leasing space at 27th and O for county offices.

—approved the contract for library services with the Library Board

—approved a request by Pat Snyder of Lancaster Manor to transfer $26.13 left in a personal bank account to the institution's general fund.

—delayed action for a week on a notice from Bankers Life that the service fee on the County Retirement Plan has been hiked from $10 to $15.

—referred to the City-County Planning Commission a petition by Theodore R Rutt for change of zone.

Suits Oppose Proposed Dam

St. Louis (UPI) — Two environmental groups and 21 western railroads filed suits in U.S. District Court to stop a planned $3.2 billion project of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers on the upper Mississippi River.

The Izaak Walton League of America and the Sierra Club, along with the railroads, are focusing on stopping construction of a new Lock and Dam 26 at Alton, Ill., a project which the plaintiffs say is merely the beginning of construction that would ruin the river ecologically and economically.

Governor Criticized

Sioux City (UPI) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate James Schaben told unionists here that the state can not endure four more years of "wishy-washy" administration by Gov. Robert D. Ray.

Farmers Agree; Butz Out Of Touch

By DON BEMAN
United Press International

Syracuse — Nebraska officials are claiming $2.3 billion in crop and livestock drought losses.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz spoke recently, however, only of farm panic talk and predicted a second best year of record agriculturally.

Who to believe?

Cornhusker State Gov. J. James Exon, who has requested federal drougth assistance, said Butz is out of touch, and two southeastern Nebraska dryland farmers — one a relative beginner and the other a veteran, both farm family products — agree with Exon.

Can't Stand Sight

Darrel Johns, 44, told United Press International there's only one way he can avoid the sight of heartbreak in his fields.

"Just don't go out."

Across the road, Kent Antes, 22, described fields in the area as "pretty gruesome sights."

Both farm near Syracuse, a small community just miles from Nebraska's Capital City where irrigation is the exception rather than the rule.

Usually 30 Inches

The normal rainfall per year in that area is about 30 inches, according to Antes. By this time he said about 15 inches of moisture should have fallen. But Antes said so far there has been only eight, the last helpful rain in June.

Johns farms 750 rented acres. This year, as he did last year, he planted 250 in corn.

Last year he averaged about 90 bushels an acre. But this year he showed UPI a field of corn with leaves either curled into spikes from heat and lack of moisture or just withered coming from stalks only about chest high.

By this time of year the corn is usually taller than the average adult.

Asked if all his corn was in the same shape, Johns said there are differences. But none of them good.

Green, But No Ears

"I haven't been out in all of it," he said. "Some of it is green, but there aren't any ears. I doubt if any of it is worthwhile."

Antes planted about half his 200 acres in corn. He said, "I've accepted the fact there's nothing there."

However, Antes has some use for the stalks as livestock feed while John has no use for them. When interviewed by UPI, Antes was fencing a portion of his corn so cattle could graze in the field. He's also chopping for ensilage.

Johns said all he could do with his corn is let it dry out the rest of the way and "hope for another year."

The rest of Johns' land is planted in sorghum and soybeans.

Winter Sheat Harvested

Antes already got a crop of winter wheat off the rest of his acres at a yield of 45 bushels an acre. Johns must wait to see if it rains to find out the fate of the rest of his crops. He said sufficient moisture soon could mean a harvest.

Antes admitted, however, winter wheat isn't a normal crop for the area of the state in which he and Johns farm.

And he said it wasn't because he knew what this summer would bring that he planted wheat instead of other crops.

"Wheat works out better for me than other crops because I'm a student and I can work in the summer more that way," said Antes.

UNL Seeks Aid

Antes is scheduled to graduate in December with a degree in sociology from the University of Nebraska, which is seeking federal assistance to help those students who might otherwise have to drop out for a while due to farm family finances.

Antes, who has been farming family land on his own the last four years, said he has nothing to compare this year's farm problems with.

"This dry weather stuff has gotten me confused," he said.

Johns, not old enough to recall personal farming experiences in the "dirty '30s" brought up by older Nebraska farmers, said he has had problems.

Bad First Years

"That was the first two years I started farming," he said, pinpointing that as the mid-1950s.

But he admitted his problems may have been the result of just getting started rather than the weather.

As to the impact of this year on the future, Johns said he just didn't know.

Antes, who has 2,000 bushels of last year's corn still stored in bins, plans to try more wheat, a crop that doesn't depend on summer moisture so much.

CHILDREN WHO NEED HEARING AIDS

"Children who need hearing aids should be discovered and fitted at as early an age as possible. The time to begin working with a hard of hearing or deaf child is the moment the problem is discovered, regardless of age. A hearing aid can be fitted to very young children, even infants. It is also of utmost importance that the parents be counseled and guided and helped to understand how vital a role they must play at home in helping the child to learn speech and language, especially during the pre-school years." . . . The above was written by A. J. Brizzolara, M.D., and R.R. Hawkins, M.A., and appeared in the MAICO Audiological Library Series. Write or call me for a folder by MAICO on various types of hearing aids. Office at 415 Sharp Bldg., Lincoln. Phone 432-8597.

Modular, Mobile Homes Being 'Dumped' In State?

By The Associated Press

There is a possibility that Nebraska may become a "dumping ground" for mobile and modular homes, according to a study by a task force appointed by Gov. J. James Exon.

Charles Seale of Lincoln, chairman of the group, said stricter construction codes on modular and mobile homes in neighboring states could cause such an occurance.

Seale said legislation is being drafted to correct Nebraska's deficiencies in the area, and that the proposals will be taken before the 1975 session of the Unicameral.

"Obviously Iowa had good control at the state level governing construction. We know Colorado does and Minnesota does. Those units which cannot enter the port of entry in those states, because they are not manufactured to proper standards, I'm almost sure states that border are apt to receive those units," Seal said.

Seale said the legislation in the drafting stages will update the state's specifications for the construction of mobile and modular homes.

"It will be an industrialized housing act so to speak, which actually encompasses not only the type of building we refer to as modular or factory-built housing, but also set forth the requirements for mobile home manufacture," Seale said referring to the legislative proposal.

The responsibility for the enforcement of the current codes now rests with the State Department of Health.

Ford Plans Recall

Norfolk, Va. (AP) — An increasing demand for light trucks has resulted in plans to recall by Sept. 3 about 100 of the 501 workers laid off in April from Ford Motor Co's plant here, the company has announced.

Business Debts Rise In Japan

Tokyo (AP) — Debts left by bankrupt Japanese companies soared in July, but the number of business failures remained below the level that might signal a need to ease credit.

Tokyo Shoko Merchantile Agency, a credit rating concern, said July bankruptcies totaled 878 cases, up 3.5% from June and up 4% a year earlier. The number remained well below the 1,000-level, which is viewed by some analysts as a determinant of future monetary policy, however.

Tokyo Shoko put the gross liabilities of last month's business failures at 158.74 billion yen, up 31.3% from June and up 202.3% from July 1973.

Sawhill Plugs Energy Conservation

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Energy conservation is the major way the United States will lessen dependence on foreign oil in the next two or three years, Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill said Tuesday.

"I don't want to hold out to the American people the hope of some Buck Rogers solution," he told newsmen. "The focus will be on conservation.

"I honestly don't think one or another technological development is going to solve our energy problems. It's going to take a combination."

He spoke at the first public hearings on Project Independence, President Nixon's plan to make the United States self-sufficient in energy by 1980. The program was undertaken after the Arab oil embargo last fall.

Project Independence hearings run through Friday here. Later this summer, sessions will be held in nine other cities across the nation.

Oil and mining experts, environmentalists and government officials from the Rocky Mountain states testified at Tuesday's hearing.

Sawhill downplayed the role of oil shale, coal gasification and nuclear energy as alternatives to oil in the immediate future.

Oil shale probably won't play a major energy role for five or 10 years and the environment will not be sacrificed to produce oil from the porous rock, he said.

Gov. John Vanderhoof, R-Colo., told the hearing that Western governors will oppose plans to exploit the mineral wealth of the mountain states unless nationwide conservation efforts are intensified.

Robert W. Baldwin, president of Gulf Energy and Minerals Co., a subsidiary of Gulf Oil, and Joseph R. Rensch, president of the Pacific Lighting Corp., said there was urgent need for the government to remove some roadblocks to energy development by private industry.

Grain Trader Admits Filing False Reports

Washington (AP) — The French-owned Louis Dreyfus Corp. of New York has admitted it inadvertantly filed false reports with the government two years ago during the height of huge U.S. wheat sales to the Soviet Union, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

But the company, while consenting to a cease and desist order issued by the department, denied it willfully violated federal regulations.

The department's Commodity Exchange Authority, in a complaint a year ago, charged Dreyfus had understated its cash positions in wheat futures over a period of more than three months.

"Dreyfus claimed any understatements were inadvertant and said any information on certain sales omitted from the reports was left out because of a 20-year practice founded on the good-faith belief that it would have been erroneous and improper to report such information," the department said.

According to the allegations, the understatements occurred between July 7, 1972, and Oct. 20, 1972. During that time, a number of U.S. firms sold more than 400 million bushels of wheat to the Soviets. Dreyfus, according to government figures, provided about 80 million of the total.

Dreyfus, the department had contended, filed 16 reports during that time in which its "fixed price cash positions in wheat were understated by amounts ranging from more than 900,000 bushels." The cease and desist order, similar to an injunction, prohibits Dreyfus from "willfully submitting any false or misleading information" in reports filed under federal commodity law.

In case Dreyfus violates terms of the order within one year, it calls for the company to be barred from trading on the market for 15 days except for hedging and certain transactions by a subsidiary firm.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 8-7

THE LOCKHORNS

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 8-7
